GREAT EXPANSION OF DIXIE INDUSTRY SEEN IN STEEL CUT

PAY READJUSTMENT IS HELD POSSIBLE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 25.

(P)—Tremendous industrial expansion in the south was forecast today by business and political leaders of this section as a result of elimination of steel price differentials long attacked by southern economists as discriminatory. A simple but electrifying announcement from the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company, U. S. Steel subsidiary, proclaimed the end of a 20-year battle for equal steel prices in Birmingham as compared with other major basing points.

The price parity was consummated by slashing prices here an average of $3 per ton more than reductions announced for Pittsburgh by the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation.

Alabama's Governor Bibb Graves hailed the announcement as a "great victory for us." Graves, head of the group of southeastern Governors fighting for freight rate equality for the south, said the steel price change "will mean great industrial progress for the south. It is a milestone of major southern importance."

Opens broader field. In steel circles, the new prices were regarded as offering new opportunity to industries requiring large quantities of steel.

R. I. Ingalls, president of the Ingalls Iron Works Company, said the new prices would allow southern fabricators to "meet competition at half-way points, except for freight differentials."

Southern economists have attacked higher prices for southern steel as discriminatory, alleging production costs were lower here because raw materials were found adjacent to mills, reducing transportation costs.

In 1924, the "Pittsburgh plus" steel price structure was ordered abolished, but under the "basing point" system in effect, since that time, prices have been higher here than in Pittsburgh.

The new price announcement by T. C. I. offered no explanation for the elimination of differentials. Robert Gregg, president of T. C. I., was not in Birmingham, and the company has no other spokesman here.

"A Great Thing." Senator John H. Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, said price equality for southern steel will be "a great thing."

"It will mean a great increase in steel business for the Birmingham district," he said, "provided the steel corporations act in good faith."

Bankhead introduced a bill in the senate to eliminate the price differentials against Birmingham but, he said, "made little headway with it."

Price differences between Pittsburgh and the Gary-Chicago district were wiped out at the same time. Pittsburgh had $1 and $2 per ton advantages in many steel products.

As an example of the new price structure, hot rolled strip was reduced from $49 to $43.50 per ton.

In Mysterious Sleep

MRS. GEORGIA BROWN.

Rare Sleep Again Holds Wife Here

Mystery Coma Suffered for Third Time in Three Years by Woman.

Victim of a strange malady for the third time in two years, Mrs. Georgia Brown, of 422 Windsor street, S. E., was unconscious last night after more than 24 hours in a coma which has defied diagnosis.

Mrs. Brown was removed to Grady hospital late last night. Physicians said they were puzzled by her case.

Twice before—once in July, 1936, and again in September of the same year—she has dropped off to sleep for no apparent reason and on each occasion all efforts to rouse her have failed.

During the first attack she remained unconscious nine days. The second attack lasted six days and both times she awakened as mysteriously as she had gone to sleep.

Her husband, W. M. Brown, said yesterday she had spent a total of about four weeks at Grady hospital and that doctors had been unable to determine the exact nature of the malady.

Although thought to be a form of sleeping sickness, the nature of the attacks is different in some respects and no positive cure has been found. Forced feeding has kept her alive during all three of the comas.

Thomas Cheered At Egging Scene

NEWARK, N. J., June 25.—(P)—Norman Thomas, the country's No. 1 Socialist and victim of a rotten egg bombardment when he visited Newark three weeks ago, spoke for an hour late today at a peaceful, police-guarded rally in a park dedicated to George Washington.

Thomas devoted most of his time to an attack on Mayor Frank Hague, of Jersey City. When he had finished, spectators turned the demonstration into an open air forum by firing a score of questions at him. Many cheered when he arrived, applauded his speech, and cheered when he left.

Ace Mountain Climbers Fly To Aid In Perilous Search for McCormick

Schoolboys Report Sighting Body on Face of Precipice.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 25.—(P)—The inscrutable summits of mile-high Sandia Peak shrouded the fate tonight of Merrill McCormick, 21-year-old heir to the McCormick publishing fortune, missing four days on an ill-fated climbing expedition on which a companion was killed.

Darkness halted the search tonight. It will be resumed tomorrow.

Skilled mountain climbers flew in by plane from Colorado late today to search almost inaccessible crevices and sloping ledges which might hold young McCormick.

BULLET CARRIES THROUGH ONE MAN TO KILL ANOTHER

Railway Special Agent Charged With Murder After Death of James O. Tarleton in Altercation.

NEITHER INVOLVED IN BASIC ARGUMENT

Minor Accident Started Series of Events Culminating in Shooting.

One man was shot and killed last night while trying to stop an argument and another critically wounded by the same bullet in an altercation growing out of a minor automobile collision on Bankhead highway at Matilda place.

Victim of the unusual tragedy was James O. Tarleton, 39, of 35 Johnson road, N. W., veteran street car conductor. He died at Grady hospital from loss of blood. The bullet struck him in the abdomen.

Investigating policemen said the bullet that killed Tarleton first passed through the stomach of Homer Kerr, 23, of 534 St. Paul avenue, Carey Park. He also was taken to Grady, where his condition was described as critical.

Railway Agent Held. T. J. Holloway, of 9 Gertrude place, N. W., a special agent of the Seaboard Air Line railway, said he had fired the shot, is being held at Fulton tower on a charge of murder.

There was no damage to either automobile.

County Policemen L. C. Clay and T. A. Gilbert, who investigated, said they had determined these were the events leading to the shooting.

J. F. Ragsdale, 25, of 484 Chestnut street, N. W., was driving out Bankhead highway accompanied by his wife and her sister, Mrs. Adell Jenkins. As they stopped when a river line street car stopped, another automobile, driven by J. C. Cantrell, in which Kerr was a passenger, crashed into them.

Argument Reported. Ragsdale left his car to inspect the damage and Kerr got out also, leaving Cantrell. Although Ragsdale did not complain, Kerr is said to have started an argument.

During their discussion, Holloway, it is said, appeared, parked his car and walked up with a gun.

Tarleton, hearing loud talking, left the street car on which he was riding home. He attempted to pacify the men. A shot was fired. The bullet struck Kerr in the stomach and then hit Tarleton, who was standing directly behind Kerr.

Clay and Gilbert said the shot was fired by Holloway. At the tower, Holloway denied he pulled the trigger. He said the gun accidentally discharged as Kerr attempted to wrest it from him.

Cantrell, driver of the second car, who did not take part in the argument, was lodged in Fulton tower, charged with driving while intoxicated.

Tragedy Rides the Rods of 'Olympian' for Second Time Within Week

Tragedy hoboed on the crack transcontinental "Olympian" for the second time within a week yesterday, when the speedster train ran through orders to meet a CCC train 85 miles west of where last week an estimated 47 persons lost their lives when a bridge collapsed, catapulted the train into a sudden flood. One was killed and 13 injured yesterday a mile west of Ingomar, Mont.

MANGHAM OFFERS LIQUOR SALE PLAN

Gubernatorial Candidate Opens Campaign as He Outlines His Platform.

By ED BRIDGES.
Associated Press Staff Writer.

John J. Mangham opened his gubernatorial campaign last night by proposing to substitute a state store system for Georgia's present "disappointing" liquor law, which he charged was "fathered" by Governor Rivers.

Discussing the act which last spring ended 22 years of prohibition in Georgia, the Bremen banker and former chairman of the State Highway Board declared: "This plan was conceived by the head of the present administration; it was his child but he still doesn't mention it. It was a secret then and still is."

Mangham's address was broadcast.

Annual Revenue. He said the present plan of selling liquor from state-licensed stores, privately operated, "has been disappointing even to those who advocated it. They cannot hope to achieve much, if any, in excess of $3,000,000 annually."

The Washington state store plan, which Mangham said he advocated, would yield Georgia "$8,000,000 or more a year."

"I propose," he continued, "when the Washington state store plan is adopted, and all money from that source is allocated to the common schools, to take the one-cent gasoline tax now allocated to the common schools and divert it to the counties to replace the loss sustained by them from the home-stead exemption law."

The state store plan and diversion were two of ten planks in Mangham's platform. He favored adequate support of public schools and "reasonable" expansion "but on a more economical plan of operation."

Highways Plank.

Other items in his platform included "the systematic elimination of waste and extravagance in the Highway Department and removal of all state forces from highways, leaving the building of public roads to free labor; maintenance of the state highways by the counties; abolishing all highway patrol divisions except Atlanta headquarters; and 'no new taxes levied unless a like amount is abolished.'"

The candidate also proposed dropping two cents from the state's six-cent a gallon gasoline tax, effective January 1, 1940, declaring that "because of waste of the present administration, at least one year will be required to place the state back on the pay-as-you-go basis."

Under his administration, Mangham said, old-age pensions will be materially increased, as will unnecessary salaries, rents, and other excessive overhead will be

100 Killed and 230 Injured As Insurgents Bomb Alicante

Raiders Drop 50 Explosive and Incendiary Projectiles on Government Port; Casualties Include Many Women and Children.

MADRID, June 25.—(P)—A swift 15-minute raid by insurgent bombers today caused an estimated 100 deaths, injuries to 230 persons, and the destruction of 70 buildings in the Spanish government port of Alicante.

The raiders dropped 50 explosive and incendiary bombs before government aircraft could chase them away. The casualties included many women and children who were standing in food lines when the sudden bombardment started.

The master of Alicante harbor declared the raid was not directed against the harbor. The civil governor personally started inspecting the ruins where more bodies were expected to be found.

The outlying workers' quarters were subjected to especially heavy attacks by the raiders in five German-type machines.

(Barcelona dispatches said insurgents again bombed Valencia, destroying several buildings, including the Finnish consulate.)

FRANCE CAUTIONS REBELS, LOYALISTS

LONDON, June 25.—(P)—Britain and France strongly urged moderation on both factions in the Spanish war today to prevent insurgent bombing attacks from turning into campaigns of wholesale slaughter which might spread the conflict.

French representations to the Barcelona government against embarking upon widespread reprisals against the insurgents and their foreign allies, Italy and Germany, had the support of the British government.

In line with the Anglo-French fears the Spanish conflict might quickly burst its borders if Barcelona should carry out its threats, Italy tonight notified France the Italian air force would wipe Spanish government cities off the map if Italian cities were bombed.

Officials here were silent on the Spanish threat, but France was understood to have used her greater influence in behalf of Britain as well as herself in counselling Barcelona against the threatened course.

In Rome, Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor, wrote in his important Il Giornale D'Italia that Italy and Germany would reply to any such bombings "not with diplomatic notes of protest, but with cannon."

London meanwhile increased efforts to influence Generalissimo Franco, insurgent leader, to cease air attacks on British shipping and on open cities in government Spain.

Prime Minister Chamberlain disclosed in the house of commons Thursday that Sir Robert M. Hodgson, British commercial representative at Burgos, seat of the Spanish insurgent government, had been called home.

CRACK 'OLYMPIAN' IN ANOTHER WRECK

CCC Youth Is Killed, 13 Others Hurt As Train Runs Through Orders.

INGOMAR, Mont., June 25.—(P)—A head-on collision between the "Olympian," of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific railroad, and a CCC train killed a CCC youth and injured 13 other persons a mile west of Ingomar today.

Last Sunday, when the Olympian crashed through a bridge into a flooded creek approximately 85 miles east of here, an estimated 47 persons lost their lives.

The dead CCC enrollee was identified as Robert Eckert, of Portageville, N. Y., a worker in the CCC mess car. Another CCC boy, Edward Kohlbrener, Buffalo, N. Y., was injured seriously.

Railroad officials said the collision occurred when the west-bound Olympian ran through orders to meet the eastbound CCC train at Ingomar.

The injured included four trainmen and nine passengers, none of whom, besides Kohlbrener, was reported seriously hurt.

The CCC train was on its way to Camp Dix, N. J., from Fort Wright, Spokane.

Swedish Crown Prince Is Ill Aboard Ship

WILMINGTON, Del., June 25.—(P)—Woolmar F. Bostrom, Swedish minister to the United States, said tonight he had received word that Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf, of Sweden, had suffered a second attack of colic aboard ship en route to the United States.

The illness, while not serious, may prevent the Crown Prince from participating in the program arranged in his honor here Monday.

He will do his utmost to fulfill his part of the program, but if he is unable to do so Prince Bertil (the Crown Prince's son) will take his place, the minister said.

The Show Must Go On--To Florida; It's Winter Quarters for Big Top

SCRANTON, Pa., June 25.—(P)—many people would not have employment.

"I'm sorry, too," North replied. "But I offered the union officials an opportunity to look over my books and see for themselves that we were not making money, but they refused."

North said the agreement provided that the union would furnish the workmen required to take the circus to winter quarters and that they would be paid on the basis of the contract rate of last May 31, prior to the proposed wage reduction.

The agreement also provided that the circus pay all expenses of the union from the date of closing the show until the time of signing the agreement.

78,000 FAMILIES WILL RECEIVE AID IN FORM OF FOOD

Welfare Department Will Enroll an Additional 1,806 Young Men in CCC Camps Next Month.

PLANS SPEEDED TO BEGIN PROJECTS

Director Murdaugh Announces Boosts on Return From Washington.

Increased federal aid to assist thousands of unemployed and needy Georgians was announced yesterday by Lamar Murdaugh, director of public welfare, upon his return from Washington.

Developments included:

1. A 10 per cent increase in allotments to counties paying old-age pensions, aid to the blind and aid to dependent children will begin in July. This increased followed allocation of $717,680 to Georgia for the next three months by the Social Security Board.

2. The Works Progress Administration will increase its monthly expenditure for work relief to at least $2,000,000, to care for 10,000 persons in need of relief immediately.

3. Preparations to give surplus commodities and food to as many as 78,000 Georgia families were being made. There are 85,000 families receiving this type of aid now.

4. Two hundred and twelve carloads of food are ready for distribution throughout the state during July and August.

5. The welfare department will enroll 1,806 additional boys in CCC camps in July.

6. Murdaugh announced progress was made toward obtaining $10,000,000 from the WPA and the PWA for an eleemosynary institution building program, which would give employment to thousands.

The $717,680 social security allocation covers the federal government's 50 per cent share of social security expenses in Georgia for July, August and September. The increased amount permits the welfare department to increase its allocations to counties by 10 per cent.

Counties Must Act

Murdaugh said, however, that counties will have to bear their 10 per cent of the cost. The increase will open the old age pension rolls to about 10 per cent more persons, if all counties participate, he said.

The $717,680 fund will be distributed in four installments.

FLUKER REQUESTS BENCH TO VACATE SENTENCE OF DEATH

Judge Takes Motion Under Advisement; Constitutional Issue Raised.

New legal action to save Odie V. Fluker from death in the electric chair in the mysterious slaying of Eddie Guyol was made yesterday by Attorney Russell G. Turner, who presented a motion to vacate the death sentence.

Judge Paul S. Etheridge said he would study the motion over the week end.

As Turner placed the motion in the hands of Judge Etheridge, he indicated that the original sentence directed that Fluker die in the electric chair at Milledgeville and that the death sentence was signed by "Judge Davis, of the Atlanta circuit."

Constitutional questions were raised in reference to changing the place of execution. The motion charges legislatures cannot pass ex post facto laws under both constitutions, indicating that an appeal may be carried to the United States supreme court.

Boyd to Ask Probe. Meanwhile, Solicitor General John A. Boyd was preparing to request a grand jury investigation of circumstances surrounding the slaying of the alleged lottery chieftain and the conviction of Fluker. He will ask a special session of the jury for Wednesday.

Mrs. Guyol has announced that she "welcomes the investigation." She termed Turner's charges "ridiculous and untrue." Cutcliffe and Lieutenant McCrary also indicated they would welcome the grand jury inquiry.

Fluker was convicted of the slaying of Guyol after he had been identified in a police lineup by Mrs. Guyol.

ATLANTA BAKERS WILL HOLD OUTING

Golf Tourney, Horseshoe Contest on Program.

Approximately 250 members of the baking industry and allied trades in Atlanta will attend the annual picnic and outing of the Atlanta Bakers' Club Wednesday at Black Rock Country Club, Lester Dowe, president, announced yesterday.

A golf tournament and horseshoe pitching contest will be held in the afternoon while the women play bridge. Joe Fissell, chairman of the golf committee. Basket dinners will be spread at 7 o'clock and a dance will follow.

35 ATLANTA 'Y' BOYS TO LEAVE FOR CAMP

Thirty boys from the Atlanta Y. M. C. A. will leave tomorrow for Camp Greenville, in the Blue Ridge mountains of North and South Carolina, where they will remain for two weeks. They will be accompanied by W. A. Alsop, camp boys' work secretary.

Camp Greenville is operated by the Greenville (S. C.) Y. M. C. A. and each year the Atlanta association has participated in the summer program.

Death Struck at 1 O'Clock—What Were the Quirks of Life in the Hours Preceding?

W. L. MOORE TO FETE ATLANTA KIWANIS

Barbecue and Dance Tomorrow Will Be at His Country Estate.

Atlanta Kiwanians will be the guests of Wiley L. Moore, member of the Kiwanis Club, at a barbecue and dance tomorrow night at his country estate, Lakemoore, on Roswell road.

The celebration will be a part of the continent-wide observance of "All-Kiwanis" night in which approximately 2,000 other clubs in the United States and Canada will participate. Throughout the two countries the meetings will be held simultaneously with a similar meeting at the annual convention of Kiwanis International in San Francisco, which is being held June 28-30.

The fellowship hour, the feature of the evening's program, will be held at the exact hour at which it is observed by all other clubs. Approximately 100,000 members are expected to take part.

George A. Giese, vice president of the Atlanta club, will read a special message from F. Trafford Taylor, K. C. and St. Boniface, Manitoba, president of Kiwanis International. Robert R. Pattillo and E. E. Whitaker are in charge of the program.

DRUID HILLS BAPTISTS WILL HEAR DR. DAVIS

Dr. W. Hersey Davis, professor of New Testament interpretation in the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., will be the guest preacher at Druid Hills Baptist church at 11 o'clock this morning.

Dr. Davis will visit Atlanta en route to Forsyth where he speaks during the coming week at the school of religious education at Bessie Tift College under the auspices of the Georgia Baptist Sunday school department.

Dr. Newton will speak at 9 o'clock on the Druid Hills hour over station WGST on "Thy Kingdom Come" and at 8 o'clock tonight on "Lord, Help Me." The night service will be broadcast over station WATL.

Reeves said he was walking to the home of his employer, I. F. Wallace (No. 6), to go with Wallace to Atlanta with a load of produce, when he passed two parked automobiles. He heard a man's voice say, "When you stop, cut your lights." A moment later, one car sped toward the bridge, followed by the other car, which moved rather slowly.

Reeves explained his failure to report this earlier by saying he returned home the following afternoon and went to bed. He said he then had to take another truckload to market that night, and came home early in the morning.

By LEE FUHRMAN.

Charles Snead, The Constitution artist also has drawn in the upper left-hand corner, a "murder clock," showing the known, the doubtful and the unknown hours in the lives of the slain couple last Monday.

$300 in Rewards. Rewards totalling $300 have been offered for information which might result in apprehension of the "unknown person or persons" responsible for the brutal and mysterious crimes.

Investigators hope the public will aid them, by giving information which may fill in the missing hours in the ill-fated day of the Peeks.

A study of the clock shows that movements of the Peeks the day prior to their deaths were known definitely until 7 o'clock that night.

Unfamiliar Road. At noon, they were in Marietta (No. 1 on the diagram), remaining until about 1 o'clock. Peek's daughter, Helen, 18, directed her father to the Austell-Marietta highway, a road with which he was unfamiliar.

At about 2:30 o'clock the couple halted at The Dip (No. 9), a roadside refreshment stand situated between Villa Rica and Douglassville.

About 4:30 o'clock the Peeks were in Carrollton, where Peek had gone to collect $300 due him for road scraper blades purchased by the Carroll county commission.

Therefore, their movements in the hours from noon to 7 o'clock are fairly definitely known, and are depicted by the artist in black, on the "murder clock."

As night came their whereabouts became hazy. The artist has shaded the clock from 7 o'clock until 9 o'clock, due to disagreements on where the Peeks were during those hours.

Roadside Establishment. They were believed seen at sundown in Foster's (No. 10), another roadside refreshment establishment, three miles from Carrollton.

At the same time they were believed seen at the Riverview Inn (No. 4), a roadside restaurant at Bolton (No. 2) on the Chattahoochee river. There, according to employees, the Peeks were joined by a mysterious young couple, a handsome man and an attractive girl.

The four were reported leaving the Riverview Inn at about 9 o'clock.

Where were the Peeks during the doubtful hours and the unknown hours?

The artist has drawn a question mark in the white space showing the hours to midnight in which the hours of movements was lost.

The time gap was connected after midnight, however.

Found by Farmer. The broken bodies of the couple were found with their wrecked sedan at the bottom of a 55-foot railroad cut (No. 3), early Tuesday morning by Hugh Arthur Brewer, a young farmer.

Brewer lives about a quarter of a mile from the bridge over tracks of the Seaboard Air Line railroad. (No. 8). Brewer said he heard two automobiles shortly before 1 o'clock Tuesday morning. He said he came home at 9 minutes before 1 o'clock, saw blinking automobile lights at the bridge. He stood on the porch of his home for a few minutes, watching the lights.

Then he went inside to eat a snack. While eating, one car turned around and headed toward Marietta. Brewer had just gone to bed, about 10 minutes after coming home, when he heard a crash. He said he "wondered about it all night," but did not investigate.

With discovery of the bodies and the wrecked car on the railroad tracks, investigators picked up a trail of blood stains on the murder highway.

The bloody trail led from the Orange Hill Baptist church (No. 7) to the railroad bridge.

Two days after discovery of the bodies, investigators learned that two automobiles had also been seen on the murder road by another young farmer, Gordon Reeves (whose home is No. 5).

Passed Two Cars. Reeves said he was walking to the home of his employer, I. F. Wallace (No. 6), to go with Wallace to Atlanta with a load of produce, when he passed two parked automobiles. He heard a man's voice say, "When you stop, cut your lights." A moment later, one car sped toward the bridge, followed by the other car, which moved rather slowly.

Reeves said he was walking to the home of his employer, I. F. Wallace (No. 6), to go with Wallace to Atlanta with a load of produce, when he passed two parked automobiles. He heard a man's voice say, "When you stop, cut your lights." A moment later, one car sped toward the bridge, followed by the other car, which moved rather slowly.

Reeves explained his failure to report this earlier by saying he returned home the following afternoon and went to bed. He said he then had to take another truckload to market that night, and came home early in the morning.

New Structure, To Open About October 15, Will Relieve Crowded Conditions at E. Rivers and R. L. Hope Institutions.

Boundary lines for the new Garden Hills schools have been designated by the Fulton County Board of Education, it was announced yesterday.

School children living within the lines will attend the new school, rapidly nearing completion. The Garden Hills school is expected to open about October 15, with an enrollment of 300 children.

The new school, costing $98,000, will relieve crowded conditions at the E. Rivers and R. L. Hope schools. Until it is completed long sessions will continue at each of

Atlanta Girl To Become First Lady At the University of Chattanooga

Archie Palmer, Husband of Elizabeth Cheatham, To Be School's President.

By YOLANDE GWIN.

An Atlanta girl who met her future husband on the Agnes Scott campus will soon be "The First Lady" at the University of Chattanooga, where her husband has just accepted the presidency.

Archie MacInnes Palmer, who Thursday announced his resignation as executive secretary of the Cornell council, Cornell University's fund-raising agency, to become president of the University of Chattanooga, married the former Miss Elizabeth Cheatham, of Atlanta, here in 1930.

The announcement of his resignation came upon the eve of his eighth wedding anniversary, his marriage having taken place on June 24 at All Saints Episcopal church with Dean Raimundo De Ovies, of St. Philip's Cathedral, officiating.

Mrs. Palmer is the daughter of Mrs. Thomas M. Cheatham and the late Mr. Cheatham, of Atlanta. Mrs. Cheatham, with her son, Thomas M. Cheatham Jr., resides at 767 Williams street.

The future "First Lady" of the university was graduated with honors from Agnes Scott in 1925 and received her bachelor of arts degree. She later taught in the department of English at the college. It was while in this capacity that she met her future husband who, at that time, was visiting Agnes Scott as assistant director of the Institute of International Education.

In 1929, the young Atlantian was awarded a Franco-American exchange scholarship by the French government and she spent a year in Paris at the University of Toulouse, studying French and English literature. Her interests include music and fine arts.

Palmer, a native of Hoboken, N. J., is of Scottish descent. He was graduated from Cornell in 1918 and received his master's degree from Columbia University in 1927. From 1920-23 he was secretary and acting dean of the College of Fine Arts and Sciences at Cornell, and from 1924-1927 he was alumni secretary in charge of the alumni fund at Columbia University. From 1927-1929, he was assistant director of the Institute for International Education and from 1929-1934 was associate secretary of the Association of American Colleges. He had been secretary of the Cornellian council since 1934.

He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Delta Kappa fraternities. He was decorated by the Czechoslovakian government with the Order of the White Lion for work in the field of international education. He served with the American army during the World War. In 1919 he was selected as an officer for the Third Army composite regiment, of the American Expeditionary Forces, the regiment popularly called "Pershing's Own."

The Palmers have one daughter,

George F. Longino to principalship of Carey Park; Miss Pauline Cash from principalship of Humphries to principalship of Harris street; C. W. Reid from principalship of Roswell to be placed; Mrs. Marie Van Huse from teacher at Central Park to principalship of Humphries; Ethel B. Smith from acting principal of Chattahoochee to principalship of Hammond; Mrs. Floyd T. Cooper from principalship of Carey Park to principalship of Chattahoochee; Miss Louise Watkins from assistant principal of Longino to principalship of Longino; G. W. Adams from teacher of mathematics at Milton High to principalship of Roswell; Claire Shankle from teacher at North Avenue to principalship of Cedar Grove; Eva Mae Ivey appointed assistant principal of Riley; Lounette W. Holmes appointed assistant principal of Longino; Ethie Alexander appointed assistant principal of Chattahoochee.

INCOME DISTORTION CHARGED TO F. D. R.

Frank Knox Blasts Chat as 'Weak Demonstration of Statesmanship.'

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP)—Frank Knox, Republican candidate for vice president in 1936, accused President Roosevelt tonight of "distorting" national income figures in his fireside chat last night.

In a statement issued by the Republican National Committee, the Chicago publisher said the address was "as weak a demonstration of statesmanship as this country has ever seen."

Knox disputed the President's assertion that the income of all persons in the United States was $38,000,000,000 in 1932. Department of Commerce records, Knox said, showed the total to be $48,382,000,000.

"What is important," Knox added, "is that the national income estimated by the President for this year of $60,000,000,000—a figure regarded as much too high by some experts—is less than $12,000,000,000 more than the national income actually paid out in 1932 after three years of world-wide depression. Of greater significance is the fact that this year will mark the first time in the country's history that the national income has receded before passing the previous high record. In other words, despite all the ballyhoo and gilding of the lily, the New Deal at no time has restored this country to the level of prosperity previously enjoyed and now we are again scraping bottom."

Representative Fish, Republican, New York, commented that the President's "political harangue" last night virtually read out the Democratic party "the ablest Senator Pepper, Democrat, Florida, said Mr. Roosevelt's radio address was a "straight-forward declaration of his attitude toward the political situation." Pepper asserted that "it is only natural that the leader who has put into effect his party's platform should feel best able to proceed when he has the support of men who believe as he does and who believe in the (Democratic) platform."

Senator Burke, Democrat, Nebraska, thought it was "entirely ethical and proper for the chief executive, as the head of his par-

Woman Prizes Danish Quilt Woven in 1826

An expensive linen sampler made in Denmark in 1826 by the grandmother of Mrs. L. D. Randall, of 844 Piedmont avenue, N. E., is now a prized possession of the Atlanta woman.

Exhibiting the rare piece of needlework yesterday, Mrs. Randall said it had become more valuable since publication of recent articles on Denmark by Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Constitution.

Mrs. Randall said her grandmother, whose name was Elsbeth Pedersen, raised the flax, spun the linen, wove the cloth and then embroidered it. Seventeen years were required to complete the sampler, she added.

The sampler, similar to a dresser scarf, bears the initials of the Danish needle artist as well as the date when it was finished. The grandmother, who lived in Loeberg, Denmark, came to the United States about three years before she died.

"The articles on Denmark by Mr. McGill were the most interesting I have ever read," Mrs. Randall declared. "I could hardly wait to get The Constitution each morning to read what he had to say about the country I learned to love because of my father and mother who were married there."

to, to take action in the primaries if he wants to.

In Topeka, Kan., Alf M. Landon, 1936 Republican presidential nominee, said the President's address "was a frank admission that he proposes to centralize all federal or national government in the President's hands."

specifications filed by September 20 and all work must start by January 1, he explained. Because of this, the Governor said he probably would defer opening his campaign for re-election and devote most of his attention to the improvement program.

Announcing another development particularly important to Georgia county governments, Rivers said the state had completed transaction for sale of rentals on the state-owned Western and Atlantic Railroad to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Under an act of the special session of the legislature last spring half the revenue realized by dis-counting six years' rentals goes to county governments. Sharing alike, they will receive approximately $7,000, the state receiving the other half, or a total of about $1,250,000, to be used in the eleemosynary building program.

RED SPRINGS, N. C., June 25.

(P)—Two unidentified men shot and probably fatally wounded Night Policeman A. J. Breeden early today and then robbed a near-by department store safe of approximately $100.

The men felled Breeden with a shotgun blast in the back lot, bound and gagged him, threw him into a ditch and covered him with shingles. Breeden crawled 300 yards to a cafe and summoned help, but the robbers had escaped.

Lens and Shutter—Camera Flashes

It was a real photo-finish the day Ralph K. Uhry, Atlanta amateur photographer, went to Churchill Downs in Louisville, Ky., to watch a race. Here's the result—the race he saw and the shot he made.

If your technique is off and you get a headache over proper exposure, you should take time out to read this column of news about Atlanta camera fans, which will appear in The Constitution as a regular weekly feature. Sponsored by the Atlanta Camera Club, this column is designed for all amateur photographers. The Atlanta Camera Club itself is an amateur organization, composed of 70 camera enthusiasts interested in better photography. Whether you know a shutter from a lens you, too, can join the club and take part in its activities, which include educational lectures, picture competitions and traveling exhibits. All amateur photographers are invited to submit their best candid photographs to the Picture Editor of The Constitution for use in this column each Sunday.

By LEONARD ROSINGER.

Up until a few years ago, a photographer concerned himself entirely with adjustments to his camera before making a picture. Now, however, it's accepted practice for the camera fan to walk up to his model, whip out a small black object and wave it belligerently within a foot or so of the sitter's nose. The gadget that caused this change in procedure is an exposure meter and thanks to its efficiency, most of the guesswork in getting excellent pictures has been removed.

Old-timers who made thousands of perfect negatives without an exposure meter are fond of sneering at their use. That's because their vast fund of experience serves them better than a meter could. But for the beginner or the advanced amateur, a reliable meter is almost as great an essential as the camera itself. With a meter you can turn out negative after negative, all properly exposed, and you can master tricky light conditions that would baffle the most experienced photographer who depends on his judgment rather than a mechanical means of measuring light.

Two Meter Types

Two types of exposure meters are in use, the less expensive one is called the "extinction" type and the de luxe models are the "photo-electric" type. An extinction meter is so called because light coming through the meter is gradually extinguished and its strength is determined by the amount seen with the eye. These meters are a great improvement over any sort of guesswork, but because of individual differences in perception, they are subject to error.

The photo-electric type of meter uses a photo-electric cell to accurately measure the amount of light reflected from any object, and this in turn is recorded on a scale of lens openings and shutter speeds. Point the meter, read the scale, adjust the camera accordingly, and theoretically you should have a perfectly exposed negative.

Intelligent use of the meter, however, is necessary to get the proper results. The angle of view covered by the meter is small compared to that seen by the eye, and it is rarely satisfactory to use the meter from the same distance as the camera. It is essential to approach the principal object in the picture closely enough to get a reading on the object alone. For instance, if you photograph a small black object on a white background, the meter reading at the camera will largely reflect the white background and the black object will be underexposed. Approach to within a foot or so of the object, point the meter directly at it, and the result will be a full exposure.

Outdoor Pictures. When taking outdoor pictures, many amateurs will point their meter at the same angle as the camera and the powerful light from the sky will give an unduly high reading. The proper technique is to point the meter slightly downward and this will compensate for the overhead light.

Where a subject contains both deep shadows and brilliant light, a compromise must be affected to get best results. This is accomplished by using the meter twice—once for the shadow reading and again for the light. Average these two and you'll have an exposure time that does justice to both.

Every meter has its own individual peculiarities and it is a good idea to make a series of tests with a new meter, using the published film speeds. Then, if these do not give satisfactory results, proper compensation can be made for later use of the meter. You will thus work out proper film speeds for your own use with your particular meter and get uniform results thereafter.

COLOR FILM USED BY ATLANTAN NOW

Henry Cassell decided that ordinary black and white film could never do justice to the red tresses of his pretty daughter. So he loaded his camera with a supply of color film and now greets the postman anxiously to see if he's returning the developed film. Projection of color pictures on slides is great camera sport and lots of Atlanta amateurs are entertaining friends in this fashion. A new projector, recently announced, takes most of the labor out of slide projection, for it changes pictures automatically and always shows them right side up.

PRIMITIVE LIFE RECORDED ON FILM

Dr. Harold Friedman, of Georgia Tech, returned from a Caribbean cruise last week with a suitcase and a suitcase full of negative film. He related an interesting experience in the Nicaraguan jungle, where natives ran furiously from his camera when he attempted to photograph them. However, with a little monetary persuasion, he was able to satisfactorily record primitive life in the tropics. Dr. Friedman also brings back interesting pictures of cigar-making in Cuba, showing how the workers employ a paid reader to entertain them as they roll cigars.

TRAVELING EXHIBIT IS RETURNED HERE

The traveling exhibit of 25 pictures made by members of the Atlanta Camera Club has returned from its successful New York showing and is being viewed now at a downtown department and camera store. Interest of club members is expected to be high in the month's prize competition on the subject of "Sports Photography."

vided as follows: $567,000 to old age pensions; $22,680 for aid to the blind, and $128,000 for aid to dependent children.

June payments, which were the largest for any month since the social program was begun, were: $280,650 to 30,857 needy old persons; $86,174 to needy dependent children, and $11,954 to the blind. This was a total of $378,783 distributed to 42,876 persons, the director said.

Arrangements are being made, with the assistance of Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state WPA administrator, to certify persons for the enlarged work relief program as fast as possible after July 1, asserted Murdaugh.

"The WPA is rushing arrangements for starting as many new works projects as it can in order to take care of the new unemployment in the state," he declared.

Variety in Diet

A wider diet variety is being furnished under the surplus food program, he said. In the 212 careloads of food already received are 84 of flour and 38 of wholewheat cereal, items which had not been furnished previously.

"Conferences with Washington officials indicated that the state will receive a 'tremendous increase in the amount of food and clothing for needy persons during the next year,' Director Murdaugh asserted.

New enrollees in the CCC camps will further expand the relief program, said the welfare director. Each of the boys is required to send his family $25 of each month of his pay. The CCC officials have asked that the 1,806 additional enrollees be taken into the camps early in July.

WPA ANNOUNCES $698,000 IN PROJECTS

Authorization of eight projects in Georgia, to be completed at an estimated cost of $698,000, in federal and local funds, was announced yesterday by Miss Gay B. Shepperson, State WPA administrator.

Road and street construction, public buildings and extension of a waterworks system comprise the projects.

While Atlanta is not affected by the proposed program, $56,037 has been allocated to Decatur for the extension of its water supply system. Other projects include street improvements at Savannah, to cost $428,017; road improvements in Muscogee county, $107,158; improvements to buildings and grounds at Smyrna school, Cobb county; street improvements at Carrollton, $49,924; erection of a county administration building in Banks county, $10,944, and construction of a community building at Winfield, $5,862.

SWISS MINISTER LAUDS U. S. IDEAL

Cites Common Aspiration as Peace Factor.

NEW GENEVA, Pa., June 25.—(P)—Marc Peter, minister from Switzerland to the United States, declared today friendly international relations between Switzerland, England and the United States "rest upon common principles of life, ideals and aspirations."

Peter spoke at a one-day celebration at "Friendly Hill," historic estate of Swiss-born Albert Gallatin, second secretary of the United States Treasury.

Standing on a balcony from which the French revolutionary war general, LaFayette, spoke in 1825, the Swiss minister said:

"American citizens may freely cultivate ideas and ideals through the high standard of popular education."

"While Switzerland has an intellectual life and influence far beyond its material importance, it is proud to claim the United States and England as sister republics in these particularly unsettled days."

PROPAGANDA ON FCC KILLS CAFE OWNER

THOMASVILLE, N. C., June 25.

(P)—Augustus F. Koniavitis, 53, was shot to death early today when he entered the kitchen of his small cafe.

The killer fired through a screen and escaped in the darkness. The cafe had been looted and some money was reported missing.

CIRCUS TO PLACE BIG TOP ON SHELF

The circus' summer tour came to an abrupt halt in this anthracite city Wednesday night when Whitehead called the strike. An estimated 4,000 persons were told the "show would not go on." Money was refunded to those who produced ticket stubs.

ONE OF FEW TIMES SHOW HAS STOPPED

NEW YORK, June 25.—(P)—John Ringling North's decision tonight to send the Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey "greatest show on earth" back to winter quarters marked one of the few times in the circus' 50-year history that a season's tour has not been completed.

The last time was during the World War when the influenza epidemic precluded public assemblies and the show stopped its runs in Georgia.

About 15 years ago, the show missed engagements for two weeks in the southwest because of floods, but completed its season.

PWA FUNDS OKAYED FOR PENITENTIARY

$130,000 Allocated for Construction Work; Details Not Yet Decided.

Allocation of $130,000 for construction work at the federal penitentiary here by the Public Works Administration was announced yesterday by Department of Justice officials at Washington.

The project, which has been contemplated for some time, will consist of the erection of a receiving and officer-training building.

Government authorities in Atlanta said last night that all plans and specifications for the new structure are still in the formative stage and are being studied in Washington.

RAIL LABOR PLEDGED TO HELP RECOVERY

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(P)—George M. Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' Association, today promised the support of organized railroad labor to the President in his program to restore normal business activity.

Harrison added an appeal to railroad managers to abandon "their program of wage cutting and economic sabotage."

ever, led to the belief in some quarters that Sir Robert also was instructed to explore the possibilities of truce before leaving Burgos.

Franco's terms heretofore have been declared to be unconditional surrender by the Spanish government, but two factors are seen as influencing him to consider some form of compromise.

1. The increasing difficulty in overcoming government resistance, with prospects the war may drag on for many more months.

2. Some indications that Italian Premier Benito Mussolini's interest in the war is decreasing in favor of early ratification of the Anglo-Italian agreement and the promised consequent British recognition of his conquest of Ethiopia.

A non-intervention subcommittee agreed on a general withdrawal plan, and will meet again Tuesday to try to work out financial and other details, but the most optimistic forecasts were that actual removal of foreign fighters could not start until fall.

In Berlin the press interpreted the Spanish government's reported threat to bomb foreign cities as a Soviet Russian attempt to sabotage this withdrawal plan.

REBELS SUFFER HEAVY LOSSES

"HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish Frontier), June 25.—(P) Spanish Insurgents vainly tried today to smash a hole in government defenses in eastern Spain where an estimated 250,000 men were locked in conflict on a 45-mile front.

Infantrymen, tanks, armored cars and warplanes clashed in one of the greatest battles of the civil war under a dazzling sun with temperatures reaching 110 degrees Fahrenheit.

The battle line extended from the vicinity of Lucena Del Cid, near the Mediterranean coast 16 miles northwest of Castellon de La Plana, inland to the vicinity of Valbona, 18 miles southeast of Teruel, insurgent-held capital of the province of Teruel.

Generalissimo Franco's forces swept forward in waves against the government defenses, only to be thrown back to their own trenches with heavy losses.

Along a 15-mile section at the western end of the front alone, more than 100,000 troops were engaged.

The insurgents sought to drive into Sarrión, about seven miles south of Valbona, but government troops held their ground and kept the attackers about one and four miles from the town.

The fall of Sarrión would menace a large government force at Mora de Rubielos, eight miles north of the Teruel-Sagunto highway near Valbona.

Rebels Advance. Farther east, government held the entire zone near Lucena Del Cid.

On the coast itself, the insurgents have advanced south beyond Onda, 35 miles north of Valencia, and the government troops in the Lucena Del Cid sector stand as a threat to the insurgent flank.

On the whole battle line it was estimated 100,000 insurgents and 150,000 government troops were engaged.

LENICIENCY ADVOCATED IN COAL ASSESSMENTS

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(P) Representative Randolph, Democrat, West Virginia, urged the bituminous coal commission today to instruct district coal producers' boards to show "leniency" in collection of assessments from operators.

In a letter to the commission, he said attorneys had been instructed to collect the assessments from two operators in his district, and declared that with minimum prices suspended "in lieu of the benefits of the act to the operators they should be shown leniency in payments." The assessments are levied by district coal boards under the Guffey act to finance their operations.

IRELAND INSTALLS HER 1ST PRESIDENT

Prime Minister De Valera Salutes Douglas Hyde, a Protestant.

DUBLIN, June 25.—(P)—Prime Minister Eamon De Valera today saluted President Douglas Hyde with the confident prediction all Ireland would come "under your sway."

The scholarly, 78-year-old Hyde formally became first president of Ireland under the new constitution in a brilliant ceremony in the gold and cream great hall of Dublin castle.

Not a word of English was spoken at the inauguration of the Protestant as the head of the Catholic state.

De Valera greeted Dr. Hyde in Erse as a "successor of our right-ful Princes," and then added in a reference to six counties of northern Ireland:

"Not all territory of Eire is at the moment under our sway, but the justice of our claim and the tenacity of the Gael in holding to what is his own are our assurance that, too, will also be right."

The new President in reply said quietly he would do all in his power to advance the country and uphold the honor of his high calling.

intoxicated. No other charges had been filed against any of the participants last night.

Both Kerr and Cantrell were said to be drivers for the Black & White Cab Company, but were riding in Cantrell's car and were not on duty.

Tarleton, a native of Newnan, Ga., moved to Atlanta when a boy and had been working for the Georgia Power Company for 18 years.

He is survived by his wife, four daughters, Frances, Mozelle, Emma and Jean, and three sons, James, Jack and Windham. The body was removed to the West Side Funeral Home. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Policemen said that Ragdale, whose car was struck, was in no way responsible for the argument or the shooting. He was permitted to continue his drive.

SCOUTS TO DEDICATE WARDLAW TRACT

Two-Ton Granite Boulder Will Be Unveiled on July 9.

A two-ton granite boulder will be unveiled at Bert Adams' Boy Scout camp on Saturday afternoon, July 9, during ceremonies dedicating a gift of land donated to the Atlanta area council by W. C. Wardlaw, Weaver M. Marr, Scout executive, announced yesterday.

The boulder, on which will be inscribed words in memory of Mr. Wardlaw's son, Platt, who was once was a Scout in the Atlanta area council, will stand close by the 59 acres of land given by Mr. Wardlaw. The total acreage of the camp now is 144, Mr. Marr said.

Hal F. Hentz, Atlanta architect and member of the board of directors of the council, will speak on the program, which will begin at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Before the program, a water carnival will be staged by youths and activities will be featured on the new recreation field, which is on part of the newly acquired property.

At dusk, a barbecue will be served by Andy Plunkett. "Everyone connected with scouting and everyone interested in scouting is invited to attend the camp on this date," Mr. Marr declared. "Both the Scouters' Club and the Cubbers' Club will combine the July meeting with this big dedication."

INDIAN TO INSTRUCT BOY SCOUTS AT CAMP

Boy Scouts of Atlanta who want to study Indian lore under an expert—and an Indian—will have the opportunity at Bert Adams camp from July 10 through August 21, Joe A. Ballenger, who will be camp leader, announced yesterday.

The Indian teacher is Scott Toneywah, a full-blooded brave from the Kiowa tribe in Oklahoma. He is a graduate of the American Indian Institute, Wichita, Kan., and is now attending the University of Oklahoma.

Toneywah has been in camps in Carson National Forest in New Mexico and at Mesa Verde National park in Colorado. In 1933, he was associated with Ralph Hubbard, nationally known author.

Mr. Ballenger says the Indian will instruct youths in folk dances, costume making, songs and ceremonies.

mick, for whose life and safety searching parties held little hope. Reports by three schoolboys of sighting what appeared to be a body high on the face of the mountain sent veteran climbers toward the spot, but as dusk fell they had reported finding nothing.

The battered body of Richard Whitmer, McCormick's climbing companion, was found under the towering rock face of a cliff known as "The Shield," near the summit of the peak.

Seven veteran climbers were concentrated on the peak late in the day as Governor Clyde Tingley and Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, who personally directed the search, refused to permit the inexperienced to dare the sheer heights.

First aloft were Dr. Frank Froelicher, and Robert Ormes, both of Colorado Springs. They were joined shortly by Melvin Griffiths, of Montrose, Colo., one of the best of the Rocky Mountain climbers.

All flew in by plane at the urgent appeal of Mrs. Simms, mother of the missing boy.

Mrs. Simms, stoic but with dwindling hope, stayed at the search base in Juan Tabo canyon at the foot of the mountains, 20 miles northeast of here.

REGISTRATION LIST DROPS IN FULTON

42,937 Are Eligible To Go to Polls in Primary
September 14.

Fulton county's registration of voters for the general election November 8 has dropped about 2,000 to 44,814 since the special sheriff's election March 2, the county board of registrars reported yesterday.

On the eligible voting list from the city are 26,495 white persons and 1,715 negroes. The white registration in the districts total 16,442, while the negro registration amounts to 162.

"This shows a decline of from 1,500 to 2,000," P. W. Derrick, member of the board, estimated. For the state Democratic primary September 14, a total of 42,937 are eligible to go to the polls. Negroes do not vote in the primary.

MONOPOLY INQUIRY HELD FACT FINDER

Data for Intelligent Legislation on Price-Fixing Is Sought.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP)—New assertions that the monopoly inquiry would be a fact finding, not a fact burning, study were lifted today in the wake of a presidential definition of its purpose.

Mr. Roosevelt said it would be a fact finding commission "to find a path through the jungle of contradictory theories about wise business practices." In less colorful but more specific description, he said it would:

"Find the necessary facts for any intelligent legislation on monopoly, on price fixing and on the relationship between big business and little business."

"Different from a great part of the world, we in America persist in our belief in individual enterprise and in the profit motive; but we realize we must continually seek improved practices to insure the continuance of reasonable profits, together with scientific progress, individual initiative, opportunities for the little fellow, fair prices, decent wages and continuing employment."

Numerous of his advisers and members of congress have similarly stressed that the inquiry had a constructive aim, with the obvious idea of flattening out any rising fears of business. This has been said again and again in the private talks that administration officials have held with business leaders.

One such conference was held last night at the home of Richard Patterson Jr., assistant secretary of commerce. Patterson will be a member of the investigating committee.

Among other things, the group discussed the new cut in steel prices. Edward R. Stettinius, the steel chieftain, was one of the businessmen present.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States said today, in its bi-weekly survey of business, that the national economic commission—the official title of the monopoly committee—constituted a threat to the country which could hardly be surpassed.

Best-Built Racer in Soap Box Derby Will Win This Miniature Car

NEW TRIAL GRANTED TO WALTER FLOYD

Court Says Judge Incorrectly Charged Jury.

A new trial for Walter Floyd, convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment in Laurens county superior court for the death of Otis Davidson, was ordered by the supreme court yesterday.

The records showed Davidson was found dead beside a highway in 1935 and Floyd was indicted and tried twice, the second time convicted of murder with a mercy recommendation. His motion for a new trial was overruled by the court at Dublin and he appealed to the supreme court.

In ruling the lower court erred in not granting a new trial, the supreme court said the trial judge incorrectly charged the jury they were not to consider whether Davidson was killed by an automobile.

CREDIT EXECUTIVE, C. I. WILLIAMS, DIES

Funeral and Burial Set for Tomorrow.

Charles I. Williams, 38, manager of the Southern Credit Rating Bureau, died yesterday morning in a private hospital after an illness of seven weeks. He lived at 423 Ninth street, N. E.

Born in Cincinnati, Williams had lived here for the last five years. He was educated in the Cincinnati public schools, the University of Cincinnati, and Cincinnati Law School. He was a Mason, and a member of the Presbyterian church.

Surviving are his wife; a son, Charles A. Williams; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams, Cincinnati; and a sister, Mrs. Mildred Van Atta, Chattanooga.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the chapel of West Side Funeral Home with the Rev. Mr. Wood officiating. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Derby Racers Near Completion; Drivers Dream of Victory Finish

1938 Classic Will Be Greatest, Predict Officials, Looking Over Crowded Entry List; More Prizes Are Added Through Generosity of Atlanta Merchants.

Visions of fame and glory in the most colorful of all racing classics for boys—the Soap Box Derby—intensified the rivalry between hundreds of youngsters last week as they rushed to completion miniature cars that may carry them to victory.

As they pounded away in their workshops, their boyish hearts skipped a beat as they dreamed of flashing across the finish line ahead of their youthful competitors. It will be just as thrilling as the regular automobile races, they reasoned. Then there was the added thought that they also will have a chance to win one or more of the many beautiful prizes.

Last week Atlanta merchants responded to the increasing interest in the derby by contributing many more fine prizes, making this fifth annual race the most attractive in the history of the Soap Box Derby. The finals will be held July 23 at Soap Box Derby Downs on Northside drive.

Predict Greatest Race. The entry list already is far ahead of that for the same period last year, and Derby officials predict that the 1938 race will be the greatest ever held.

Plans are nearing completion, H. M. Van Devender, director, said, and the race course is being put into the best possible condition to give the boys an opportunity to compete under ideal conditions.

This year zone races will be held in each of five cities prior to the finals in Atlanta. The dates for these races are Carrollton, July 14; Thomaston, July 15; Monroe, July 15; Marietta, July 20; and Gainesville, July 22. A $55 bicycle will be awarded to each of the zone finalists.

Increased speed will probably be a feature of the derby this year, since many boys are building cars designed to offer less wind resistance.

Prizes added to the list during the past week include loving cups given by Mike Benton, president of the Southeastern Fair Association; Ralph A. Handinson, dean of A. A. A. auto races, and Bill Breitenstein, race promoter, identified with Lakewood since 1928.

BICYCLE AMONG PRIZES. In addition a beautiful new bicycle was contributed by Pig'n Whistle, as second prize in the Atlanta derby; 50 dinners for the Atlanta finalists, by Pig'n Whistle; a tennis racket, by Raleigh Drennon, automobile spring manufacturer, and 72 sweaters, one for every boy to reach the Atlanta finals, given by the J. M. High Company.

Other prizes are as follows: A miniature motor-driven racer, given by Rich's to the north Georgia champion; a complete power workshop for the Atlanta champion, by Atlanta Chevrolet dealers; a second motor-driven racer for the best-built car in the race, by the NuGrabe Bottling Company; a DeLco radio, at the second prize in the Atlanta race, by United Motors Service, Inc.; a complete Comet airplane kit with gasoline motor, by Walthour & Hood Company; a 17-jewel Bulova wrist watch, by E. A. Morgan Jewelry Company; and a complete moving picture camera and projection outfit, by the Diamond Jewelry Company; medals, watches, and scores of other prizes.

Judge Joins Pickets, Decrying Nazi Acts

LOS ANGELES, June 25.—(AP)—In a demonstration sponsored by 25 local organizations, approximately a thousand persons including several of prominence, staged a mass picketing demonstration in front of the German consulate here today. Included among the pickets were Superior Judge Robert Walker Kenny; David V. Gill, state president of the Young Democratic Club, and Film Screen Writer Frank Scully.

"Hitler Persecutes the Catholics in Germany, and Murders Catholics and Jews" and "Stop Bombardment of Spanish Towns!" read some of the banners.

"After four or five months he had developed into a pretty good man, and I tried something new on him. In those days all bicycle riders practiced the 16th of a mile sprint. No matter how long the race was, they all sprinted the last 16th. So Walthour learned to sprint for a quarter of a mile. Not long after, we went to Columbus where the southern championship meet was being held. Bobby was one of the 28 entrants in the mile race. And as he went to the post I told him to imagine himself on the Peachtree creek hill when he hit the three-quarter mile post. He pulled ahead there, and stayed ahead for the rest of the race. Three days in Columbus, and he won 12 out of 13 races, and came home with his chest covered with medals. The rest is history."

BAPTISTS PLANNING SUMMER REVIVALS

Day of United Prayer To Be Observed by 2,500 Churches.

A day of united prayer in preparation for summer revivals will be observed by approximately 2,500 Baptist churches throughout Georgia next Sunday.

The day has been set apart by the executive committee of the Georgia Baptist Convention. Revival and soul-winning will be emphasized in the prayer observance.

Last year Georgia Baptist churches reported a total of 18,307 baptisms, an increase of 1,797 over the preceding year.

Preparation of program material and promotion of the special day is under the direction of a committee appointed by the executive committee of the Georgia Baptist Convention.

On the committee are Dr. George F. Brown, pastor of the First Baptist church of Marietta, chairman; Dr. James W. Merritt, executive secretary-treasurer of the Georgia Baptist Convention; Dr. W. H. Faust, secretary of the department of evangelism of the convention; the Rev. A. C. Pyle, pastor of the Lee Street Baptist church, Valdosta, and Dr. A. C. Baker, pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist church, Macon.

FINAL RITES ARE HELD FOR ROBERT E. STEED

Final rites for Robert E. Steed, 70, who died Friday in a private hospital, were held yesterday afternoon in Antioch Methodist church, near Fairburn. The Rev. Harry L. Woods officiated. Burial was in the churchyard.

A retired superintendent of construction for a cement company, Mr. Steed had lived here for the last 40 years. He was one of the founders of the Bonnie Brae Methodist church. He lived at 1692 Stewart avenue.

There's a tremendous amount of good comfortable living in many used homes, such as shown above, and now being offered at most attractive prices and being sold on terms that fit your pocketbook.

If that new home you've had your eye on is a bit beyond your present means, don't give up the idea of buying now. Instead, investigate the many used homes three, five, ten, even twenty years old that are available today. Consider the many advantages they offer as to price, size, convenient location, and fully developed grounds.

Of course, the Atlanta real estate brokers will sell you a lot on which to build or a new home just completed. But if you haven't time to build, or can't find a new home that suits your requirements within your price range let them show you some of the splendid values in used homes, many of which have already been completely renovated by the present owners.

Don't deprive yourself and your family of the advantages of home ownership just for the sake of "keeping up with the Joneses."

Refer now to the listings in the Want Ad Pages of The Constitution—You'll find many homes, new and used, at prices you can afford to pay.

Philosophy of Mexican Laborers Discussed—Bridge Table Salesmen Talk of Business—Walthour's Trainer Reminisces.

By Jack Spalding III

The ups and downs of a bridge table salesman, and the buying habits of Mexican farm laborers were two of the questions under discussion yesterday in local hotel lobbies.

"I'm from Robstown, Texas, near the Mexican border," said G. A. Bolger, "and about a third of our population is Mexican. Until seven or eight years ago, whenever any of our farmers or big ranchers needed labor, they would cross the Rio Grande, pick up a truckload of Mexicans and bring them back. However, that has been stopped."

"They're funny people. They don't want to get up in the world. They work when they have to, and when they have made a little money, they quit and sit until they have to go to work again."

But, according to Bolger, they aren't as lazy as a lot of Americans. "You hardly ever find a Mexican on relief. They would rather make two or three dollars a week working than draw more than that from the government for doing nothing."

"Back in Mexico they weren't used to seeing much money. And when they first got paid off in dollars, they would buy nearly everything they saw. I'm a dry-goods and grocery merchant, and when times were good these farm hands would buy $30 and $40 hats to wear with a 50-cent shirt and cotton pants. They buy expensive shoes, too, $10 and $15 a pair. It might take their last cent, but they must have good shoes and hats."

Bolger said that the children born of Mexican parents in the United States are anxious to become good American citizens. "The old folks stay in their rut, and work for enough to eat. But the young ones want education, and the other things that go with American citizenship."

BRIDGE TABLE SALES FLUCTUATE

The bridge table salesman, H. B. Kobey, of Orlando, also sells luggage on the side. The bridge table game fluctuates with the seasons, according to Mr. Kobey. "Fall and winter are our best months," he said. "I suppose it's because people can't get out of doors so often. And then we have a little upturn in the early summer when people outfit their beach and mountain camps."

bridge table is a year, while the better grades last three, four and sometimes five years. And according to Mr. Kobey, expensive bridge tables, outside the cheap grades, three to one.

"White tables are outselling the others this summer," he said. "Walnut is right up there, too. And there's a big demand for the checkerboard top type since the government has taken the special tax off."

Touching on luggage, Kobey said women are buying striped canvas covered luggage, under the impression that it's a lot lighter. "But there isn't much difference in weight," he said. "Striped luggage doesn't appeal to the men much. They still want leather."

WALTHOUR'S TRAINER REMINISCES HERE

Gus Castle, of West Palm Beach, talked about luggage, too. He is manager of the transfer company that handles baggage for the big winter hotels.

"Fourteen years ago, when I first went to work there, the women came for the winter with any where from 10 to 40 trunks. Now a woman arrives in a compartment with 25 handbags and no trunks. I think the Pullman company might do something about it. One passenger with that many bags causes a lot of trouble and confusion."

Castle expects a big season in Palm Beach next winter. "Last season was good. In the big hotels, but the smaller places had a hard time with so many people living in trailers." Trailers, however, are not allowed in Palm Beach, which Castle said "tightened up," socially speaking, last year. "Another thing," he added, "there weren't as many broken down noblemen around as usual. I call 'em fourflushers."

A former Atlantan, Castle trained and developed Bobby Walthour, the great bicycle racer. "He was the first national champion to come out of Atlanta. And I managed him for his first five years in competition."

'All Georgia' Exposition Planned By Federation of Women's Clubs

Will Be Held at Municipal Auditorium October 10 to 15;
Proceeds Will Be Allotted to Foundation
Fund of Group.

An exposition aimed at selling Georgia to Georgians will be held at the municipal auditorium October 10 to 15, under auspices of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs.

The event will be one of the most comprehensive and inclusive "all Georgia" expositions ever to be shown here, according to the announcement made yesterday.

It will also be the first of similar Georgia expositions to be staged annually under auspices of the federation, of which Mrs. James R. Little is president.

The exposition will include representative exhibits from a variety of interests, industrial, manufacturing, horticultural, agricultural, dairying, packing, canning, ceramics, natural resources, wild life, applied arts, fine arts, rural handicrafts and allied arts.

The slogan—"If Made in Georgia, Show It"—is expected to assemble in one great center things made, grown or developed in this state with which many Georgians are unfamiliar.

Besides Mrs. Little and her co-workers, plans are being made by

Americans Helping Nazis, Dodd Hears

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP) William E. Dodd, former ambassador to Germany, said tonight he had been informed confidentially the German government had allocated $30,000,000 for propaganda dissemination in the United States.

Dodd, in a text prepared for radio delivery, also said he had heard "that a few wealthy American business men have given big sums to this cause," but added "I hope this is not true."

a board of directors of leaders in various fields. Management of the exposition will be under direct supervision of Virgil W. Shepard.

Funds raised from sale of booths will be used to establish a foundation fund, to carry on work of the federation.

Officers of the federation include: Mrs. A. Homer Carmichael, first vice president; Mrs. Lucius McConnell, second vice president; Mrs. Edgar V. Carter, third vice president; Mrs. David Marx Jr., recording secretary; Mrs. H. M. Nicholes, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ed L. Almand, treasurer; Mrs. Edward F. Daniel, auditor; and Mrs. Norman Sharp, parliamentarian. Mrs. Raymond H. Wolfe is chairman of publicity.

DAVIES GIVES 'BOSS' REPORT ON RUSSIA

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP)—Ambassador Joseph E. Davies gave to President Roosevelt today what the envoy said afterward was "a report to the boss" on Soviet Russia.

The ambassador has been transferred from Moscow to Brussels and said he probably would take the oath for the new post in a few days.

Don't Argue With the Umpire—Out You Go

COBB POSTS BOND IN BRIBERY CHARGE

$4,000 Bond Is Reduced to $1,500 by Court.

H. L. Cobb, former "big shot" bootlegger, surrendered at Fulton tower yesterday and posted $1,500 bond on an indictment charging him with four counts of bribery.

Cobb, sought for several months by the grand jury in its law enforcement graft probe, was indicted during the inquiry. He was charged with paying in 1937 $240 bribe to City Detectives J. H. Cranshaw and J. B. King; $75 to former Deputy Sheriff W. R. (Cap) Joyner; $50 to S. G. Davies and $25 to G. L. Hulsey, both former deputy sheriffs.

A $4,000 bond set for Cobb was ordered reduced to $1,500 when he appeared to surrender yesterday.

Fulton Police Beat Hapeville 'Chasers,' 11 to 7

Fulton county police staged an unusual raid yesterday by defeating the Hapeville city police, 11 to 7, in a baseball game played at Hapeville park.

The policemen proved they could still travel the bases despite the fact they spend most of their time chasing criminals. Two triples and a home run were hit in the course of the game.

One of the highlights of the encounter came when Umpire E. D. West, of the Fulton county police, removed G. D. Abercrombie, assistant chief at Hapeville, from the field when the two became involved in an argument.

George B. Pearson, a member of the Hapeville force, predicted another game between the two would be played within the next three or four weeks.

"We decided we needed a little exercise and we thought baseball would provide the best way of getting it," Pearson said.

60 BOYS TO CAMP AS GUESTS OF CLUB

Optimists Provide Underprivileged Youths With Week in Open.

Sixty Atlanta boys will head for the wide spaces tomorrow to be the guests of the Atlanta Optimist Club for a week at the Hard Labor Creek Camp, a government-sponsored project near Rutledge.

This is the second of groups of boys who will be taken during the summer to the camp, which is sponsored by the Optimist Club for underprivileged boys. Funds to provide for the camp were raised at a minstrel show.

The youngsters will leave from Junior Optimist Club headquarters at 779 Bankhead avenue in a motorcade of 12 cars. They will spend the entire week at the camp. All are members of the Junior Optimist Club.

Accompanying the boys will be Dr. E. L. Graydon, chairman of the boys' work committee, and Captain Dennie Jones, of the Salvation Army.

RATE SLASH DENIED TO MOTOR CARRIERS

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP)

The Interstate Commerce Commission refused today to allow motor carriers operating in the central territory to make further reductions in their rates.

"The present downward trend in the rate level of motor carriers in the central territory must be arrested," the commission said.

The central territory includes all points in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin, and some points in eastern Iowa, northern Kentucky, eastern Missouri and western New York, western Pennsylvania and western West Virginia.

VETERAN HOSPITAL EXPANSION COSTING $2,000,000 SOUGHT

Ramspeck Will Confer With Leaders Here on Increasing Bed Capacity.

Federal expenditure of an additional $2,000,000 to increase the capacity of United States Veterans Hospital No. 48, Atlanta, from 280 to 500 beds and to construct a convalescent home for veterans will be urged at a joint conference between Representative Robert Ramspeck and local leaders of veterans' organizations, it was announced yesterday.

Sam C. Crane and Judge Max E. Land, prominent in state Spanish-American War Veterans' circles, are the prime movers in the enterprise, and propose to enlist municipal, Fulton county and state governmental officials as well as civic organizations in the drive for "additional and adequate facilities to meet requirements of veterans."

About 10 years ago, Crane, Judge Land and others waged a fight which resulted in erection of the present building.

Date for the joint conference has not yet been set, but Crane yesterday said he will confer with Ramspeck when he reaches Atlanta and that the woman's auxiliary of the Spanish-American War Veterans will hold a dinner to which Ramspeck will be invited.

There already has been some correspondence between Atlanta leaders and the fifth district congressman regarding the matter, and it is proposed that a bill authorizing the expenditure will be ready for presentation to the next session of congress.

Ramspeck has indicated his wholehearted and unstinted support of the projected improvement, and is expected to give it every co-operation and to enlist the support of Georgia senators and representatives from other districts.

"The time is now ripe for us to resume our drive for an adequate hospital to meet the demands for the states which the institution is serving and to erect a convalescent home for indigents," a statement issued by Judge Land and Crane, said.

"We are informed that present facilities are inadequate to provide the medical treatment needed for many veterans, and we know that provision should be made in Atlanta for a home for those who must have a place to live. If a convalescent home were provided, it would relieve congestion at the hospital; insure better hospitalization, because convalescing veterans could be removed to the home and treated there thus making room for others who should be admitted but who cannot be because of lack of hospital bed facilities.

"Atlanta is the logical place to locate such a home. With the hospital already established and land available, its cost would be reduced. Another advantage would be that veterans could be transferred from the hospital into the home to recover instead of being forced to travel long distances to their homes, where no further medical care could be given by the hospital itself.

"The climate of Atlanta should commend this locality favorably to all those who would have the final word in location of a home. Every other facility is available. No other city in the south could offer any greater advantage and the logical thing to do is to go after it now.

"Many of the veterans of the World War are being forced to seek medical treatment now. The war ended more than 20 years ago. At that time only a comparative few of the veterans needed government assistance. That group, however, is increasing annually and the time will soon arrive when facilities at Hospital No. 48 will be wholly inadequate to cope with the demands.

"We plan to appeal to civic organizations, city and county administrations, our congressmen and senators in an effort to anticipate the needs of these men and make proper provision for their comfort and convenience.

"The public is invited to join with us in urging these needed additions at the earliest possible moment. If we do not do so, it is likely that other cities will file their claims and begin a decentralization of Hospital 48."

The federal government already has expended about $850,000 on Hospital No. 48. The 200-bed unit cost about $700,000. A cancer annex cost another $150,000, and increased the bed capacity to 280.

Several hundred thousands of dollars a year are required for maintenance and operation, which Judge Land and Crane asserted will be increased materially if the additional bed space is provided and a convalescent home is erected.

Oompah Race Whipped to Fury!! Amazing Find on Yellow River!!

Foul Play and Other Dastardly Machinations Loom in the Offing—What With Finding Floating Derbies of Kayo and Mickey.

Editor's Note: Mystery—mystery as deep and devious as the swirling Yellow River in which it appeared—enters again into the race for Oompah of Constitution comic characters, now driving forward toward Election Day, July 4. What happens Colonel? Tell us all.

By COLONEL WHOOPEN BLAST, Political Commentator Extraordinaire.

Friends, it has been most upsetting. Accustomed as your correspondent has become to strange activity and doubtful enterprise in this contest for the chieftainship of Comediana, I'm forced to admit that they've almost got me down, this time. I don't know what to expect this next week as the election draws on.

All I know to do is to tell you—everything!—from the beginning, and then I'm sure you will understand the twitter—the twitter, verging on a dither—I've been in.

You know, of course, that three duels have been pending for some time, to-wit, the Tracy-Arnold carnage, the Gump-Talbot affaire d'honneur, and the Mickey (Himself) McGuire-Kayo Mullins bout to the death. There was a fourth in the air, featuring your old pal, the Colonel, and Ralph Jones, author of the column, "Silhouettes," but this was amicably adjusted by the manly withdrawal of the party of the first part.

As a matter of fact, I didn't any more expect these duels to come off actually than you did. I thought it was just a lot of talk. Maybe it was; bear with me and you'll find out.

Well, just as the ed. said up there at the top of the column (you can trust the ed. as freely as you can trust me), mystery came puffing into the campaign.

Two derbies were found floating on the surface of the Yellow River down Leguin District way in Newton county. They were seen first by Silent Will Johnson, a colored retainer of Major J. A. Maxwell. He whooped—his first whoop in years—and fished them out with a long pole.

Naturally, a crowd gathered on the river bank, and the derbies were examined carefully by all and sundry. Since the onlookers were avid followers of the Oompah race, their first belief, of course, was that the derbies belonged respectively to Kayo Mullins and Mickey (Himself) McGuire.

The belief proved to be true—all too true. Grief was widespread. It was so intense, in fact, that one or two of the more hardy mourners ventured—purely in a tentative way, of course, without committing anybody—to say a good word about Kayo.

Such as that he'd always been an active little fellow. Never one for promoting ennui. Continually up and about, doing things, going places, meeting people. Soft, ambiguous words.

"Man the boats!" finally was shouted by one of the more practical-minded. "We'll send 'em down the river. They must've been battling so intently they went overboard."

So boats were manned. Searching parties went upstream and down, across and back, hither and yon. Quite a notable search. Runners were dispatched. Your correspondent was notified soon, and he reached the scene swiftly—this is no time for quibbling over just how swift that was, friends—in Emmy's old automobile.

At the two brought up the Wog, set it down, seized their derbies and adjusted them on their perspiring heads; then stood and panted.

"But tell us—tell us what happened," I insisted. "We thought you had duelled—in fact, duelled to a drowning demise."

Both shook their heads positively. Then Kayo spoke. "That fight is off," he announced. "Mickey and I came down here to duel, all right, but we caught sight of the Wog, sittin' tremblin' on a limb. So we called off the duel and went into the river after the Wog."

They would make no further comment. But perhaps a telegram received last night by your correspondent sheds light. It was signed by the Smithsonian Institution, author of the original $100,000 offer for the Wog, alive, stuffed or carbon copy, and it read:

"TELL KAYO MULLINS WE ACCEPT HIS OFFER STOP WE WILL GIVE HIM AND MICKEY ONE-FIFTH OF THE HUNDRED THOUSAND ON A DIRECT DEAL FOR THE WOG STOP SAY NOTHING TO THE OTHER COMIC CHARACTERS WHO WERE TO HAVE SHARED IN REWARD STOP."

OF COURSE KAYO'S OFFER LETS THEM OUT.

More two-timing by Kayo. What a pity! Follow the race for Oompah in The Constitution daily and restore your faith in man.

S. W. Baxter Retires After 51 Years of Service. Sidney W. Baxter, popular conductor of the Atlanta-Birmingham run, has retired after 51 years of service with the Southern Railway.

Baxter, who was born in De Kalb county in 1866, was known as one of the most courteous men on the road, and won a wide acquaintance among travelers through his cheerful personality.

When he entered a car, it was his custom to doff his hat, to bow and to call out, "Good morning, everybody." When passengers left the train, he shook their hands, thanked them, and invited them to "ride again soon."

He worked mainly on freight trains before his promotion to passenger service in 1908. He lives at 827 Zachary street, S. W. Hundreds of letters have testified to his cordiality.

DISPLAY PAINTINGS BY LUCIEN POWELL

Art Museum Now Showing Large Oil Exhibits by Virginia Artist.

By E. ST. JOHN BARNWELL. Mrs. William Bailey Lamar, of Westminster drive, has given to the High Museum of Art two large oil paintings by Lucien Powell, Virginia painter. Three by five feet the handsome canvases are entitled "Pizzetta—Venice," and "Grand Canyon—Colorado," and may be seen in gallery 11 of the museum.

"Pizzetta—Venice" shows the picturesque scene of old buildings in Venice done in vivid colors. Ancient St. Mark's cathedral stands out and pigeons fluttering all about make the view lively and realistic. "Grand Canyon—Colorado" is rugged strength and rich in out-of-doors interest. Framed in appropriate frames the pictures have come from the Lamar home in Washington, D. C., and are valuable additions to the museum permanent exhibit.

About 10 years ago Mrs. Lamar gave two other pictures to the High Museum which were also by Powell and are the same size and technique. These canvases are entitled "Road in Virginia" and "Lifting of the Mist."

Mrs. Lamar is lending to the museum a collection of hers that is composed of 13 interesting mezzatints, reproductions of old masters' work. These will be put on public display at a date to be announced later.

The High Museum of Art is open to the public from 9 to 5 every weekday and 2 to 5 each Sunday. The permanent display is on view as well as the current exhibit of student work. There is no charge of admission.

PATRIOTISM THEME OF MASONIC TALKS

National Sojourners Will Be Honored at Meeting of Service Association.

Patriotism will be stressed at the semi-annual meeting of the Masonic Service Association of Fulton and DeKalb counties at 7 o'clock Thursday night at the Masonic Temple. The meeting will be dedicated to the National Sojourners of Fort McPherson, military branch of Masonry.

General George Van Horn Moseley, commander of the Fourth Corps Area, and Dean Raimundo de Ovies, of St. Philip's cathedral, will be principal speakers. General Moseley will speak on "Our Man Power Problem" and Dean de Ovies on "Masonry and the Ideal of Freedom."

Others on the program include Major D. H. Blakelock, the Rev. Zach C. Hayes Jr., grand chaplain; Captain T. C. Huguley, president of the Fort McPherson chapter of Sojourners No. 60; Colonel Louis A. Falligan, Captain F. E. Hankinson, Edgar E. Pomeroy and the Rev. Theodore Will, rector of All Saints Episcopal church.

The program will follow a dinner attended by members of the association and the National Sojourners.

MRS. VIRGINIA CONLEY FINAL SERVICES HELD

Funeral services for Mrs. Virginia Conley, 87, who died Friday at her home, 118 West Harvard avenue, College Park, were held yesterday afternoon in the College Park Methodist church. The Rev. W. S. Robinson officiated, and burial was in the Oxford, Ga., cemetery. A native of Oxford, she had lived in Atlanta since the War Between the States.

Mrs. Conley was the first woman to sign her name to the membership list when the W. C. T. U. was organized in Georgia, and was widely known in local church circles. She was a charter member of the Woman's Pioneer Society, and a member of the Robert E. Lee Chapter, U. D. C.

MANGHAM OFFERS STATE STORE PLAN FOR LIQUOR SALES

Gubernatorial Candidate Opens Campaign With Speech Outlining Platform.

eliminated. Full co-operation with the federal government it pledged, with a view to urging the federal government to assume the full burden, as I believe it should."

Decentralization. Concluding his platform, he said:

"I will sponsor decentralization of state government, placing all functions of administration back with local county authorities where possible. Concentrated state government places too much authority in the state capital, which is now, and always has been, a hotbed of intrigue where the first thought is the building of political machines."

Walter Matthews, of Buchanan, said Mangham was a man "who can save a farm, a bank, a store, a business and a state out of the jungles of financial chaos."

Deferring an explanation of how the Washington state store liquor plan operates until a later speech, Mangham described it as "the most profitable plan, easiest to operate and freest from corruption and graft."

Criticizes Law. Returning to a criticism of the liquor law, Mangham said "it is here, brought to us by this great humanitarian, Mr. Rivers, who is so much interested in the promotion of sobriety and the religious and moral training of our youth..."

Referring to Governor Rivers' address to a group of ministers at Savannah last spring, the speaker declared "he failed, however, to tell those preachers that evening that just as soon as he finished that address he would leave to ride to Atlanta in that $5,075 automobile paid for with your tax money, to sign the liquor bill, which evidently he considered a moral advancement."

"The liquor bill was signed after midnight of that same night," Mangham continued. "Oh, consistency, thou art a jewel." This was one official act of the Governor of which no picture was taken. No sirree, the morning papers did not carry that picture."

Lawyer Opponents. The Bremen banker-businessman said the gubernatorial campaign was between himself "and my two lawyer opponents, one of whom has been in politics for a living... because the profit apparently is greater than any other line of business. He is having the time of his life, on the go all of the time; his hilarious spending of the people's money is a matter of record."

Governor Rivers and Hugh Howell, two of Mangham's opponents, are lawyers. Robert F. Wood, of Athens, the fourth man, is a salesman.

Mangham said he was opposed to "having the school teachers of this state dragged into politics when the evidence is so clear that they have tried so hard to stay out of it."

He declared free textbooks for public schools "were made possible before the present administration came in power," and added that the 1937 legislature "adopted my school plan as well as my tax consolidation plan." He referred to an address made by himself in 1934.

"It is obvious," Mangham said, "that if the present administration is returned to office they will pass a gross income, or a sales tax. They must have more money to carry on their spree of spending."

Roosevelt Support. Noting that "the present Governor will tell you he is 100 per cent for Roosevelt," the former highway board head said "when he and my other opponent were going all over the state back in 1935 with a former critic of the President and were known as Henchman No. 1 and Henchman No. 2 of said critic and signifying by their countenances they were against the President, I was giving my time and money helping to organize the Georgia Roosevelt Club."

"Just a few months later," said Mangham, "when the tide had turned, Henchman No. 2 changed when he saw that public sentiment had changed. In 1936, No. 1 also left, so he says..."

"Governor Rivers ran on a 100 per cent Roosevelt platform just after this parade. He is still counting on that 100 per cent slogan carrying him on. If the wind changes before election day he will change too."

Concerning himself Mangham said he did "not favor 100 per cent all the things that have been going on," adding "I cannot indorse wasteful spending of public monies... I have never been a coat-tail swinger and I never will be." Decriing "high taxes," Man-

Georgian Conquering Rare Malady Which Has Baffled Medical World

A disease for which there is no known cure and one which allows its victim only one chance in 1,000 to recover is gradually loosening its grip on Mrs. Grace Morris, wife of Dr. Fred Morris, of Smyrna, it was reported yesterday.

The disease is Landry's creeping paralysis. When it strikes it usually results in immediate death, physicians said. The first symptom is a sense of weakness in the feet and legs which soon develops into paralysis.

Beginning in the toes, it rapidly extends upward to the legs, the trunk muscles, arms and neck, and gham said there were "many political job-holders drawing large salaries while the farmer is depressed."

He pledged that if elected he would "instantly dismiss every such political employee, and no one will be put in his or her place."

He added that "those loyal employees who have attended strictly to their duties have nothing to fear from me, if elected."

"You have been told that there have been over 200,000 children added to the public schools of this state in the last year," he said, "when, in fact, the records show that there were not that many children out of school two years ago."

"Free schoolbooks were made a possibility before the present administration came in power. Just in order to keep the records straight, I want to quote from a speech I made in Ellaville, Schley county, on the twenty-fifth day of April, 1934, advocating state-supported schools: 'Speaking on taxes,' I said, 'when you come right down to the truth, it is not so much the state tax burdens as it is the local school and local city government and school district taxes. The entire school system should be maintained and kept by the entire state.'"

Private Printing. "The present Governor has boasted to you of the schoolbook covers that carry his personal advertisement, having been printed at the state penitentiary. The criminals of this state will not print covers for innocent children to use if I am elected Governor. The printers of Georgia are citizens and taxpayers like you and me, and should be treated by the state as such."

"If I am elected Governor, the waste in the construction of low type roads, as is now being practiced, will be stopped. 'Soap and water emulsion,' as they call it, made of a little asphalt, a little soap and lots of water, mixed and called a 'cold mix,' spread over the surfaces of our roads, will cease as long as I am Governor. It would be interesting to know who is getting the huge profits on this and other black top roads. Your Governor knows."

County Crews. "The counties of this state all maintain road working crews, machinery and equipment. Therefore, it would be reasonable to say that the counties can maintain the roads at much less cost than the state. They have the forces, and have to travel over the state roads in going from one section of their counties to another, and they could maintain these roads under contract with the Highway Department."

"There has been too much done, and I propose as a partial plan of relief to have a complete rest from agitation and legislation when certain errors have been corrected, which I have presented and will present to you."

"During the administration of Governor Harris, I was senator from my district. When the liquor bill was up for repeal, I voted dry, and am proud of it, for I believe it is right. In the liquor fight early this year the present Governor manipulated his politics in such a way as he thought would give him the support of both the wets and dries. You know he is strong on playing both ends against the middle. There has been further demonstration of this art very recently. Last summer just before the vote on the constitutional amendment election held on June 8...

I said in that address that if I must have legal liquor, I believed the Washington state store plan was the best plan. The state store plan was advocated in the legislature by many who believed as I did, but the Governor and his friends were determined to have the licensed stores. Naturally, many have wondered about the many reports that have grown out of the license system. There is no such thing as controlling the liquor business."

The platform announced by Mangham was: First—I favor adequate support of the public schools and reasonable expansion of the entire educational system, but on a more economical plan of operation. Second—I advocate the Washington state liquor store plan, which will bring into this state a profit of more than $8,000,000 annually, the funds to be allocated to the common schools of the state. Third—I proposed when the Washington state liquor store plan is adopted and all money from that source allocated to the common schools—to take the one-cent gas tax now allocated to replace the loss sustained by them from the hotbeds of corruption law. Fourth—I advocate the systematic elimination of waste and extravagance in the Highway Department and removal of all state forces on highways, leaving the building of public roads and highways to free labor, who need this work so much, and placing the state convicts on the state farm to produce food for the various state institutions. Fifth—I advocate the maintenance of the state highways by the various counties of the state, which already have machinery and county working forces, giving the counties this work under contract with the Highway Department, with strict supervision by the state. I propose to sell all the Highway Department's machinery and equipment, thus taking the state out of the machinery racket. Sixth—I favor abolishing all highway patrol divisions except the headquarters in Atlanta, using the sheriff's office in each county as county patrol headquarters, each sheriff and deputy to be clothed with authority as a patrolman. These county patrolmen will assume the duty of automobile tag inspection. Seventh—I advocate a two-cent a gallon reduction in the gas tax, to become effective January 1, 1935. Because of waste in the present administration, at least one year will be required to place the state back on a pay-as-you-go basis. The automobile is now paying more than its share of the taxes. Eighth—Old age pensions will be materially increased, as all unnecessary salaries, rents and other excessive overhead will be eliminated. Full co-operation with the federal government is pledged, with a view to urging the federal govfinally involves respiration and the brain.

Dr. Morris said his wife's body wasted away to almost a skeleton and seven times she came near death. At one time she went blind, and for eight or nine months he said she was helpless, unable to use her arms, hands or feet.

Now she is able to sit in a chair all day and can feed herself, although she cannot walk. She has gained 15 to 20 pounds and is getting stronger daily. Dr. Morris said it would be six months before she recovers completely.

The physician reported he applied his regular paralysis remedies in treating the patient.

SOUTH TO PROFIT FROM STEEL CUT

WAGE READJUSTMENT VIEWED AS POSSIBILITY. By CLAUDE A. JAGGER, Associated Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, June 25.—Possibility of a wage readjustment in steel was injected into the business recovery picture today as the stock market surged upward for the sixth successive day, completing a week of rising prices unparalleled in recent Wall Street history.

Conflict of opinion between the New Deal and important sectors of business management over the proper wage pay to stir recovery, was highlighted by the developments of the last 24 hours.

1. United States Steel Corporation issued a terse statement this morning that none of its officials "has given any assurance" the sweeping price reductions in its products announced yesterday would not be followed by wage cuts.

2. In his "fireside chat" last night President Roosevelt called for a united stand by capital and labor to resist wage slapping, approved United States Steel's price reduction, and added he was "gratified to know" it involved no wage cut. A White House secretary explained today the President was guided by news reports in his assumption wage adjustments would not follow.

Stock market traders began bidding up steel and other industrial shares right after Wall Street financial news tickers carried the corporation statement which left the wage matter open. Advances of $1 to more than $4 a share were common at the finish, making many extreme gains for the week of $10 to $20. Trading for the two-hour session swelled to 1,161,700 shares, approximately 10 times the sluggish volume of last Saturday.

How much the market was guided by the wage matter was of course something which could not be gauged accurately, but before the United States Steel statement appeared, prices had drifted lower in quieter trading.

In Washington, the administration's monopoly investigators indicated the controversy will be thoroughly aired when public hearings begin next September. United States Steel, they said, probably would be the first company called. In the meantime, investigators plan to collect exhaustive data on prices, costs and related matters during the summer. Observers felt the steel wage matter was vitally important in its possible implications for industry generally. Railroad management have asked for a 15 per cent wage cut, and will meet with labor leaders in Chicago June 28. Labor spokesmen have announced firm opposition.

Clues were lacking as to what the next development in the steel situation would be. When the agreement between the CIO and United States Steel was renewed last March, a clause was inserted permitting either side to call a conference on 10 days' notice to consider changes in wages. If proposed changes are not agreed upon in 20 days from the giving of the notice, the entire agreement automatically terminates.

Regardless of the wage problem, Wall Street analysts were optimistic over the prospect the lowered prices would give a fillip to steel buying. Users have been reluctant to buy for some time, they said, in view of indications the price structure might give way.

The fresh upward thrust given the stock market caused many to rub their eyes in astonishment as they viewed the extent of the week's climb. Some price averages showed it was a bigger percentage gain than experienced in any week in the spectacular climb in the spring of 1933 when prices ballooned after the banking holiday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks—30 industrials, 15 rails and 15 utilities—advanced $1 today to $45.5, the highest since March 1, and within $2.40 of the 1938 high. It rose this week $6.80, or more than 17 per cent. Statistics estimated that close to $5,000,000,000 had been added since last Saturday to the total quoted value of all shares listed in the stock exchange.

The week's stock exchange volume was 10,112,640 shares, largest since October, and nearly six times last week's.

INDEPENDENTS MATCH BIG STEEL PRICES

PITTSBURGH, June 25.—(P)—The possible effect of the cut in steel prices on the pay envelopes of the nation's mill workers became a subject of speculation today as big independent producers began to match the reduction in prices ordered by "big steel."

ment to assume the full burden, as I believe it should. Ninth—There will be no new taxes levied unless a line amount is abolished. The state will have sufficient revenue if economically administered. Tenth—I will sponsor decentralization of state government, placing all functions of administration back with local county authorities where possible. Concentrated state governments place too much authority in the state capital, which is now, and always has been, a hotbed of intrigue where the first thought is the building of political machines."

ROOSEVELT, RIVERS ASSAILED BY WOOD

'Both Are Complete Flops,' Gubernatorial Candidate Declares at McDonough.

McDONOUGH, Ga., June 25.—(P)—Robert F. Wood, of Athens, a candidate for Governor in the September 14 Democratic primary, declared today "my platform can be summarized as unalterable opposition to Roosevelt and Rivers. Both are complete flops."

"Roosevelt's policies in the last five years, almost without exception," he told a political rally here, "have been ruinous to the United States."

"My farmer friends, some of you are going to get treasury checks from Washington for not planting all the crops you can. Can you call your souls your own under such a system of indirect bribery? Take these checks, and vote the other way on September 14."

Discussing the state administration, he said Governor E. D. Rivers was "a pup and puny imitation of his master, the greater experimenter, and a little tail to the Roosevelt kite." He said "Rivers' taxes and policies have tremendously injured the finances of all Georgia counties."

Wood said if elected he would "cut all taxes to the bone." He said he favored among other things cutting the ad valorem tax at least one-third.

BROTHER TO GUIDE DUCKWORTH DRIVE

Court Candidate Will Tour State.

J. Lon Duckworth will be campaign manager for his brother, W. H. Duckworth, candidate for the supreme court, it was announced yesterday.

Duckworth said he will maintain headquarters at the Ansley hotel here while his brother tours the state.

"I know that he is honest, patriotic and courageous and that he possesses an unusual knowledge of the law," Lon Duckworth said of his brother. "At his age he is able to give to the work of the supreme court the kind of prompt and energetic service to which the people are entitled."

Duckworth is a candidate for the position of Justice John B. Hutchison, who is retiring.

10,000 EXPECTED AT GEORGE SPEECH

Senator To Open Campaign at Vienna July 4.

VIENNA, Ga., June 25.—(P)—Watts Powell, who is directing arrangements for "George Homecoming Day" here July 4, said today he expects between 10,000 and 15,000 people to hear Walter F. George open his campaign for reelection to the United States senate.

Powell said George's speech from the steps of the Dooly county courthouse would be broadcast on a state-wide radio hookup through facilities of station WGST.

LIFE-SAVING COURSE. NEWNAN, Ga., July 25.—A Red Cross life-saving course for both young and seniors will begin Monday at the municipal swimming pool here, Roy Powers, manager, has announced. The training courses are held each year at the Newman pool.

COCKING TO TALK TO WOMEN VOTERS

Dean of Peabody College Speaks Next Wednesday on Educational Topic.

Dr. Walter D. Cocking, dean of the Peabody College of Education, University of Georgia, will speak at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday before the Atlanta League of Women Voters on the roof of the Atlanta hotel, it was announced yesterday.

His subject will be "Education Conditions in Georgia." Mrs. Stephen B. Ives, president, will lead the meeting and Mrs. Calvin Sandison will introduce the speaker. After the dean's address, four members of the Emory Demonstration school will make short speeches. They are Dr. Ralph Wager, of Emory University; Shirley B. Norman, of Rose Valley, Pa.; Miss Etta Rose Bailey, of Maury school, Richmond, Va., and Miss Margaret Willis, of Ohio State University.

M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools; Willis A. Suttors, superintendent of Atlanta city schools, and Jere Wells, head of the Fulton county schools, with their staffs, have been invited to the meeting. Reservations may be made by calling Walnut 6111.

KENNESAW PARK ACQUISITION TO BE CELEBRATED TODAY

GEORGIA RESORTS BID FOR CROWDS ON JULY FOURTH

State's Wide Variety of New Playgrounds Make Choice Difficult.

By the Associated Press.
Georgians pondering that annual problem of where to go for the Fourth of July are finding the decision even more difficult this year, with numerous points bidding for the holiday crowds.

The wide variety of recreation offered within the state, from hiking through the breeze-swept mountains to swimming on the ocean beaches, will make solution of the vacation program more complicated.

South Georgians, weary of the flatlands, look at road maps leading to the north Georgia mountains. North Georgians, longing for the wide expanse of ocean, pore over maps to Savannah Beach, Sea Island, St. Simons and other coastal points.

Indications are there will be a heavy flow of criss-crossing traffic, train, bus and automobile next week end.

Nine State Parks.

Nine state parks are bidding for recognition as recreation centers, whether for a one-day outing or a prolonged vacation stay. Here is what they offer the holiday-minded Georgians:

Fort Mountain: A guess at prehistoric Georgia, with a stone fort of unknown origin perched on top of the mountain, a scenic train, an observation tower and picnic area.

Vogel: At Neel (Frogtown) Gap, including Blood Mountain, scene of a legendary Indian battle, with a 40-acre lake, fishing, boating, swimming, a picnic area, six miles of foot trails and cabins ready for the overnight visitors. Bring your own food and ice, though.

Crawfordville: The memorial park to Alexander H. Stephens.

Indian Spring: Playground, wading pool for the kiddies, four miles of foot trails, museum and historical background dating back to the Creek Indians.

Pine Mountain.

Pine Mountain: Near the "Little White House" of President Roosevelt at Warm Springs, an area once traversed by a stage coach route and Indian trail. Lodging for transients, vacation cabins, a lake, picnic areas and scenic drives.

Little Ocmulgee: Under construction near McRae, but with a picnic and recreation area completed and a 200-acre lake well on the way to completion.

Irwinville: Another memorial park, to Jefferson Davis, where he camped on the retreat from Richmond.

Chehaw: Roads, trails and picnic facilities now ready at this spot near Albany.

Santa Domingo: Brunswick is the nearest city to this point, recalling Spanish missions and garrison established on the Georgia coast as early as 1566.

Take it from Mayor J. E. McMillan, of Savannah Beach, that this Georgia resort "will enjoy the greatest popularity in its history and that more people will visit our resort this year than at any time in the past."

26 New Homes.

Mayor McMillan says 26 homes have been built thus far for this year at the beach, others are planned and "the demand for building lots this year has been the greatest in the history of the resort."

He added that the beach is becoming more and more popular as a year-around resort.

Sea Island also reports a merry season, with sports, "lazy sunbathing, surf and pool swimming, golf and swimming ranking high in popularity." This resort is so popular that about half the summer visitors are described as "northerners."

As a prosperity note, the Sea Island Company reports the resort, "which is open all year and has capacity for 10,000 people, is enjoying a season with less slacking of business between the spring and summer seasons than ever before, many of the summer guests arriving while the spring season was still in full swing."

Brunswick, St. Simons, St. Mary's and any number of other points in Georgia also will receive their share of visitors.

And for the stay-at-homes, many Georgia towns are planning programs of a patriotic nature and including fireworks displays, barbeque and political speech-making. Dublin heads this parade with its roundup of 25 political speakers and a fight program featuring motorcycle policeman and a motorist he once arrested.

WAYCROSS NEGROES ARE AWARDED PH.D.'S

Waycross, Ga., June 25.—Two Waycross negroes, who received their public school education here, have been awarded doctorate of philosophy degrees this year.

Booker T. McGraw, son of J. C. McGraw, of Waycross, is receiving his Ph.D. from Harvard University. He is dean of Missouri State College at Jefferson City, Mo.

Joseph Alphonso Pierce, a nephew of J. C. McGraw, received his Ph.D. in mathematics from the University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor, several days ago. He is professor of mathematics at Wiley University, Marshall, Texas.

Both have held their masters' degrees for some time.

They Combine Keeping Cool With Their Daily Dozen

Summer is a time for lazy living, with keeping cool the foremost thought. Misses Edith Hancock, left, of Richmond, Va., and Nancy Cooper, of Rome, right, have that idea in mind, and combine it with their daily dozen as they paddle a rustic boat on one of the many water spots near Rome.

HOSPITAL WILLED $5,000 BY WOMAN

Washington, Ga., Institution Benefits by Bequest of Mrs. Sarah Sanders.

WASHINGTON, Ga., June 25.—The city of Washington will receive $5,000 from the estate of the late Mrs. Sarah Cooper Sanders, to be used "exclusively for the purpose of continuing the operation of the Washington General hospital, in memory of my mother."

The Mary Willis library, First Methodist church, and the Women's Club will receive $1,000 each.

To be paid to the exclusion of all others, is a legacy of $3,000 to "my dear, faithful servant, Emma Scott," who served Mrs. Sanders 40 years.

Relatives and friends will receive $25,000. Emory University hospital will receive $1,000 for its charitable wards in memory of Mrs. Sanders' brother, Dr. Hunter P. Cooper, of Atlanta.

The residue of the estate will go to the Methodist Orphans' Home, Decatur; Young Harris College, Decatur; and the University of Georgia. The residue is expected to total approximately $5,000, to be divided equally among these beneficiaries.

Wife Asks Divorce-- He Talked Too Much!

MACON, Ga., June 25.—(P)—For husbands who complain about the loquacity of wives, this comes in the category of "man bites dog."

A Macon woman sued for divorce. Her complaint:

Her husband kept her awake until the wee hours—talking.

Decatur County Votes To Allow Sale of Liquor

BAINBRIDGE, Ga., June 25.—The Decatur county voters today voted to legalize the sale of liquor. With all but one precinct heard from, unofficial returns showed 586 votes for legalization of sale to 406 against.

Officials said results in the remaining precinct, Attapulgus, could not change the election's outcome.

WHITFIELD CITIZENS SEEK OPTION VOTE

DALTON, Ga., June 25.—A petition bearing more than 2,000 names, asking that an election to legalize the sale of whiskey and alcoholic beverages be called in Whitfield county, has been presented to ordinary Judd Brooks, whose staff has begun a check of the names with the registration list.

Sponsors of the petition say they have several hundred more names on the list than the required number. Thirty-five per cent of the registered voters would total 1,861.

J. E. CARNES, 61, DIES IN ACWORTH

Services Today for Cashier of Bank.

ACWORTH, Ga., June 25.—J. E. Carnes, 61, prominent in business, civic, social and church circles here, died last night.

Mr. Carnes had been cashier of the Bank of Acworth 31 years. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church, had served in city council and as a member of the school board. He was president of the Acworth Lions Club and was a past master of Acworth Lodge No. 176, Masons.

Surviving him are his wife; one daughter, Miss Frances Carnes, member of the Joel Chandler Harris school faculty in Atlanta; two sons, Erwin Carnes, of the Enslley high school faculty in Birmingham; and James Carnes, of Columbus; one granddaughter, Miss Mary Frances Carnes, of Birmingham; three sisters, Mrs. Fred Hull and Mrs. Lizzie Shipp, of Acworth; and Mrs. H. L. Johnson, of Woodstock; and two brothers, P. C. Carnes, of Atlanta, and J. R. Carnes, of Lithonia.

Rites will be held at 3:30 o'clock (C.D.T.) Sunday afternoon in the Presbyterian church here, the Revs. M. B. Denny and J. C. Colman officiating. The body will lie in state in the church from 2 o'clock until the hour of the services.

DEAN COCKING NAMED BY RESOURCES BOARD

ATLANTA, Ga., June 25.—(P)—The National Resources Board has appointed Dean Walter D. Cocking, of the University of Georgia college of education, to the science committee.

He also will serve on a national committee set up to prepare a report on the training of school administrators.

U. S. READY TO BUY ELBERTA PEACHES

Purchases To Be Made Only 'If Necessary'; Syrup Bought.

MACON, Ga., June 25.—(P)—Grant P. Border, purchasing agent of the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation, announced today his Macon office would buy peaches in the Elberta movement "if necessary." He added that 4,000 cases of syrup would be purchased in the state.

The syrup will be purchased "mostly in south Georgia," he said, the deals to be handled by the Macon and Moultrie offices of the corporation.

"We will stand by for at least two weeks and will enter the Elberta peach deal if necessary to strengthen the market," the federal man said. "Peak shipments of Elbertas will probably be reached by the end of next week, and if the market should bog down we shall start buying."

Only 21 cars of 100 the government was prepared to take in the Hiley movement were actually bought, he said.

Mr. Border said the Washington office had authorized the purchase of watermelons, but that "already the psychological effect has been so great we don't expect to have any offerings during this season."

Two more cars of south Georgia tomatoes were to move to night, the buyer said, "winding up that program." The two cars fill out a planned purchase of 20,000 bushels.

F. M. HAILEY SR. DIES IN ATHENS

Funeral Services Will Be Held This Afternoon.

ATHENS, Ga., June 25.—F. M. Hailey Sr., 66, well-known Athenian, died at his home here last night after a long illness.

Mr. Hailey had lived in Athens since his graduation from the University of Georgia in 1899, when he completed the four-year course in two years.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Miss Tommy Hailey, of Athens, and Mrs. O. W. Beale, of Spartanburg, S. C.; three sons, Francis M. Hailey Jr., of Athens; E. N. Hailey, of Watkinsonville; and Alton Hailey, of Atlanta. He also is survived by five Atlanta nephews, J. Glover Hailey, Dr. Howard Hailey, F. G. Hailey, Dr. Hugh Hailey and G. W. Hailey. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at the residence here.

School of Religious Education Will Open at Bessie Tift Today

FORSYTH, Ga., June 25.—The fourth annual session of the School of Religious Education will open at Bessie Tift College here tomorrow and will continue through Friday under the direction of Dr. T. W. Tippet, state Sunday school secretary of the Georgia Baptist convention.

Dr. Tippet reports indications of a record-breaking attendance of between 500 and 600 persons. Among the speakers for the assembly will be Dr. Jasper C. Massee, Winona Lake, Ind.; Dr. J. Dean Crain, Greenville, S. C.; Dr. W. Hersey Davis, professor of New Testament interpretation, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky.; Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, pastor, First Baptist church, Atlanta; Dr. John D. Mell, Athens; Dr. B. W. Spilman, Kinston, N. C., field worker of the Baptist Sunday School Board, Nashville, Tenn.; Dr. R. Paul Caudill, First

AFFAIRS INSTITUTE SET FOR JULY 13-15 ON ATHENS CAMPS

State's Economic and Social Problems Are Slated for Discussions.

ATHENS, Ga., June 25.—The program for the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Georgia, July 13-15, devoted this year to a study of Georgia's economic and social problems and held in conjunction with the annual state conference on education, will be divided into five round tables and four main addresses.

The institute this year will be featured by reports from university professors on specific state problems as investigated for the recently established Institute for the Study of Georgia Problems, organized last winter at the university. In addition, addresses by state leaders in welfare, politics and health are scheduled, and special educational meetings are part of the program.

Opening at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, July 13, the first round table will be devoted to problems of agriculture in Georgia and will be led by T. Mcintosh, chairman of the State Planning Board. At that session, members of the College of Agriculture faculty will discuss the cotton industry, of the state.

Second Session.
At the second round table, Wednesday afternoon, with Richard C. Job presiding, subjects under discussion will be Georgia's industrial chemistry, diversification of industry, wages, the tariff situation, utilization of clays, and discriminatory freight rates.

J. H. T. McPherson, director of the university's division of social sciences, will preside at a round-table on government problems, Friday, July 14. Problems under discussion will be the relationship of state and local governments, conflict of state and federal taxation, support of public services by counties, charges in Georgia's tax system, the relative tax burden, centralized reporting and auditing, the absorption of local functions, the county unit system, and liquor taxes.

At a round table on public welfare, scheduled for the morning and afternoon of Friday, July 15, Dr. T. F. Abernethy, director of the State Department of Public Health, will lead discussions on the WPA, unemployment insurance, population trends, public health service, malaria control, mental disorders, cost of disease, diet and health, geographic factors, public assistance, and the elementary institutions.

Three Notable Speakers.
The four main addresses of the Institute of Public Affairs will be delivered by H. T. Mcintosh, F. C. Crawford, head of the department of political science at Syracuse University; Governor Rivers, and William F. Ogburn, University of Chicago authority on population movement.

Additional speakers will address general meetings of the conference on education. Among these will be J. W. Studebaker, United States commissioner of education; Chancellor S. V. Sanford, Dean Walter D. Cocking, of the University of Georgia College of Education; Jere N. Moore, member of the board of regents; President Guy H. Wells, of the Georgia State College for Women; President Harmon W. Caldwell, of the university; Abit Nix, Athens attorney and regent, and M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools.

The institute program has been arranged by Dr. R. P. Brooks, dean of the school of commerce and director of the Institute of Public Affairs. Dr. E. D. Pusey, director of summer conferences at the university, has arranged the program of the conference on education.

RURAL GROUP FORMED TO OBTAIN ELECTRICITY

VALDOSTA, Ga., June 25.—Residents of rural Lowndes county, in sections where no electric current is available, have formed a tentative organization to work out plans for obtaining electricity.

D. E. Coleman, of Mineola, is chairman of the organization, and Mrs. Gertrude Hersey, of Grove, is secretary-treasurer. Chairman Coleman will name committees in each section of the county.

To Embark for Europe

Polk Holston (above) and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Holston, will leave tomorrow for New York City, and will embark Wednesday noon for a European tour.

Salesman's "Trademark" To Be His Epitaph

Will Peek, veteran traveling hardware salesman, of Athens, has directed the preparation of his own tombstone (left) bearing his familiar "advance notice" phrase: "Peek-a-Boo, I'll See You." At right, Peek is shown holding a prized heirloom—a decanter that belonged to his grandmother, Mrs. Robert Cunningham Daniel, and his mother, Mrs. F. G. C. Peek. It was used for two generations for serving sacramental wine in the Presbyterian church at Philomath, in Oglethorpe county.

Salesman Ready, He Orders Own Tombstone Made

ELBERTON, Ga., June 25.—When hardware merchants of northeast Georgia receive a card saying: "Peek-a-Boo I'll See You," they know it means business. It's no flattery.

Will Peek, of Athens, a veteran hardware salesman, has used the cards for many years as an advance notice of his impending arrival at his customers' stores. And no merchant fails to recognize the card and its message, for it is as familiar to them as Peek himself, with his traditional salesman's wealth of stories and the ever-present flower in his lapel.

Peek has been "on the road" 47 years—almost a half century. The years, he knows, must end some day—and he wants to be remembered by "the trade" and his other myriad friends when the time comes for his sample case to be put away.

And so, while he is yet alive, he has provided his own tombstone, which bears his trade-mark "epitaph."

Not long ago, Peek visited an Elberton manufacturer and directed the carving of a handsome Long Blue granite marker.

Across its top is his name, William Thomas Peek, and the date of his birth, all except the year. Just April 26, 18—He's spent 47 years "on the road," but isn't ready yet to reveal his exact age.

In the center of the shaft is the United Commercial Travelers' emblem, and below it: "Hardware Salesman for 47 Years." That only remains to be filled in many years in the future, he hopes.

And then, at the bottom, in a flourishing script, are the words: "Peek-a-Boo I'll See You." It doesn't bear the date of his impending visit with a customer, as is customary on his cards, and Peek is silent when asked to whom his "postscript" is directed. He hopes it'll be all his friends.

TOOTH EXTRACTED, VINSON'S HEALTH GOOD

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., June 25.—Congressman Carl Vinson was "in good shape" today following a brief stay in a Milledgeville hospital.

Congressman Vinson remained in the hospital only a few hours for observation of an infected tooth, which has been extracted, he said today.

Spanish Coin of 1796 Plowed Up on Island

DALTON, Ga., June 25.—A Spanish coin was found recently near Dawnville, in Whitfield county, on what is known as Prater's Island, by Charles D. Chaffin while plowing in a field of cotton.

The following inscription appears on one side of the coin: "Carlos, III-Dei Gratia-1796," and on the other side the coat of arms of the Spanish house of Castile and Aragon, surmounted by a crown with the inscription: "Hispano et Ind. Rex-M 8 R. F. M."

It is believed that Prater's Island was once occupied by Spanish or American soldiers returning from driving the Spaniards from Georgia.

74TH ANNIVERSARY OF BLOODY BATTLE ALSO TO BE MARKED

Tarver, Who Fought 20 Years for Establishment, Will Attend.

MARIETTA, Ga., June 25.—Success of the 20-year fight by Cobb countians and Representative Malcolm C. Tarver, of the seventh district, to establish a memorial park on the site of the battle of Kennesaw Mountain will be celebrated here tomorrow in exercises at which Governor Rivers will be the principal speaker.

The program will begin at 9 o'clock in the afternoon at Cheat-ham's hill, two and a half miles west of Marietta on Dallas road, near the Illinois monument.

The occasion will mark the third anniversary of President Roosevelt's signature of the bill creating the park.

74th Anniversary.

It will be the seventy-fourth anniversary of the battle of Kennesaw. Wilbur Kurtz, Atlanta historian, will read a detailed account of the battle—one of the bloodiest in the War Between the States—and tell of its significance as this stand of the Confederates before General Sherman in the Atlanta campaign.

Representative Tarver, author of the bill creating the park, and leader of the fight in congress for its passage for two decades, will attend.

The Cobb County Historical Society, Kennesaw chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, and other civic groups planned the ceremonies.

Marital Music.

A military band from Fort McPherson and a drum and bugle corps from Austell will furnish music. Concluding exercises will be at the grave of the "Unknown Soldier," where a "toll" will be sounded and a salute fired.

Miss Lucinda Hardage, 91, one of the only living persons who saw the battle, will probably not attend the exercises, because of illness. She was a girl of 17 at the time of the conflict and lived within sight of the battlefield.

Park Work Mapped.

Meanwhile, plans have been announced to start work on the park July 1. Olinus Smith, in charge of the local park service office here, said work on roadways, soil erosion prevention, trails and demolition of unsightly buildings without historic significance in the battle will be started by CCC boys stationed in a camp at the foot of Kennesaw mountain.

Total area of the park is 2,022 acres, and it has been acquired by the government, although a large tract on Big and Little Kennesaw, owned by the Kennesaw Mountain Battlefield Association, is still in litigation. Judge Samuel H. Sibley, of United States court, has ordered the government to pay $16,000 for this area, but William Tate Holland, of the association, said the decision has been appealed to the circuit court. He said, however, that the government is free to take possession if it deposits the amount of the judgment with the courts.

ATHENS MEN BUY WHITEHALL MILL

Plant Will Employ About 300 Workers.

ATHENS, Ga., June 25.—R. N. Fickett and Hugh Hardin, principal stockholders in the Fickett Cotton Mills, Inc., have announced purchase of the Whitehall Mill from the Oconee Textile Company, of which Walter Wellman is president.

The Whitehall mill, idle since April, 1935, will be put into operation by the new owners immediately. Fickett said, and will employ between 250 and 300 workers.

The mill will manufacture cotton yarns, mop yarns and mop heads, and it is probable a separate plant to make mop handles will be added. As soon as possible, Fickett said, cotton specialties such as braided clothes lines and rugs will be made in the new mill.

Work of renovating the mill will begin at once, but it is expected to be three months before actual manufacturing will begin.

The new owners will leave a few days for the east to buy machinery. Some of it, however, will be bought in the south. By the time the mill is ready to operate, it will have cost about $250,000.

$50,000 BOND VOTE SET IN ROSSVILLE

ROSSVILLE, Ga., June 25.—The mayor and board of aldermen have called a bond election for August 8 to determine whether or not Rossville will issue $50,000 bonds for civic improvements.

If the bonds are approved, the city will ask for a PWA grant of $45,000.

The city has purchased a lot on McFarland avenue and, if the necessary funds are obtained, a new city hall, jail and other civic improvements are planned, Mayor V. W. Bennett says.

4-H FASHION SHOW.

CEDARTOWN, Ga., June 25.—A county-wide fashion show was held this afternoon for 4-H women and girls, under the direction of Miss Zella Phillips, Polk county home demonstration agent.

REGENTS AID DEVELOPMENT OF IMPROVED PASTURE LANDS

STATE EXPERIMENT GOES HAND IN HAND WITH STOCK GAINS

Chancellor Sanford Urges Conversion of Waste Lands for Grazing.

(Pictures in Rotogravure Section)

Recent figures state that more than $42,000,000 is spent each year by Georgians for the purchase of livestock products from other states.

However, the production of livestock in Georgia has made substantial increases in recent years, and approximately 15 per cent more hogs and cattle are being raised in the state than eight or nine years ago.

It is noted also that cotton acreage in Georgia has decreased 1,300,000 acres between the years 1930 and 1937.

The following table presents comparative data:

Cattle in Georgia (head)	840,000	940,000
Hogs in Georgia (head)	1,150,000	1,360,000
Cotton in Georgia (acres)	2,900,000	2,600,000

Sanford Planned Solution.

So important a condition has not escaped the attention of the State Board of Regents and Chancellor S. V. Sanford in their plan of helping the Georgia farmer in the solution of his problems. Recognizing that among the solutions of Georgia's livestock problem is permanent pastures, Chancellor Sanford assigned to Silas H. Starr, director of the Coastal Plain Experiment station, the task of developing grasses that would possess the same fattening characteristics that are possessed by western grasses and would at the same time grow vigorously in south Georgia.

The coastal plain unit is one of the three agricultural experiment stations maintained and operated by the board of regents. It is located on Highway 31 (Atlanta Valdosta), about one mile north of Tifton. Approximately 1,500 acres of Tift county land is owned by the station and devoted to experimental work in agriculture. The property lies on each side of the highway for a distance of approximately four miles. Natural authorities consider the station to be one of the most outstanding in the United States.

Experiments in Pasturing.

The board of regents and Chancellor Sanford declare good pasturing is the foundation of successful livestock production. With the number of beef cattle in Georgia rapidly increasing, says Chancellor Sanford, it is essential that improved pastures be provided to furnish cheap and abundant feed. Improved pastures, he asserts, must go hand in hand with improved breeds of animals if livestock production is to be developed within the state to meet local requirements.

On practically every farm in Georgia, the chancellor points out, there is some waste land, bringing in little or no return, that could be converted into an improved pasture. In the coastal plain—the area lying south of Columbus, Macon and Augusta—it is estimated there are approximately 10,000,000 acres in swamps, branch bottoms, cut-over pine woods, and marginal land. Much of this land could be utilized for pastures in conjunction with the production of timber and naval stores.

The Coastal Plain station recommends the conversion of low-lying waste land into desirable lowland permanent pastures for cattle. Under south Georgia conditions, the following seeding per acre of a mixture of grasses and legumes has produced satisfactory gains in weight of beef animals, says Chancellor Sanford, and is recommended by the station: Ten pounds carpet grass, eight pounds dallis grass, five pounds white clover and 12 pounds common lespedeza.

Lespedeza is an annual and provides grazing the first year. Carpet grass, dallis grass, and white clover are perennials that grow off slowly during the first year and usually a satisfactory sod is not established until the second year.

The lowland area to be placed in pasture should be drained to remove standing water, the chancellor states. This, he says, may be done by digging a ditch along the main run of the stream with lateral or side ditches on each side where it is necessary to cut off seepage water from the hillside slopes. The side ditches will move or less parallel the main ditch.

The station suggests that all undergrowth and trees that have no commercial value be removed and that the soil be thoroughly disked with a heavy disk harrow. A disk harrow, it states, is better than a plow where roots and stumps are present. Usually it requires several diskings to destroy swamp sedges and eliminate competition of native grasses and weeds.

The grass and clover mixture, says Director Starr, should be broadcast in early March. "It is not necessary to cover the seed," he says. "However, on slopes steep enough for rains to float the seed, they should be covered lightly by a board drag. Covering the seed deep should be avoided."

Fertilizer Beneficial.

"The Coastal Plain station has found that the inoculation of the seed does not appear necessary, and that limiting lowland pastures has not proved beneficial," he said. "On soil that has never been cultivated, about 300 pounds of superphosphate per acre is beneficial. The phosphorus is particularly desirable in getting a good growth of white clover and lespedeza. Experimental results demonstrate that a fertilizer analyzing 12 per cent phosphoric acid, 6 per cent ammonia, and 6 per cent po-

Two Coveted Prizes Won by Legion Post

Two coveted American Legion prizes have just been acquired by Atlanta Post No. 1. On the left Marion L. Boswell, post commander, is seen holding the Edgar B. Dunlap trophy awarded each year to the Georgia post with the best achievement record. On the right, J. Walter LeCraw, senior vice commander, displays the Frank Kempton trophy presented annually to the Georgia post with the best record of attendance at the national convention. The attendance cup is now the permanent property of the post, having been won for the past four years.

ash applied in early spring more than doubled the gain in pounds of beef per acre as compared with an unfertilized area. Where fertilization of pastures is practiced over a period of years, there are indications that an 8-6-6 (phosphorus, ammonia and potash), is a practical fertilizer formula.

Under range conditions, where nothing is available to cattle but native growth, Director Starr states, it requires from 6 to 10 acres to furnish grazing for one steer. On improved pastures that have been fertilized, less than one acre is required to sustain one steer from early spring until the middle of November, when the cattle are removed from pastures and fattened out in fields of corn and velvet beans or in the feed lot.

Opportunity for Expansion.

There is abundant room for expansion in Georgia's livestock industry, says Chancellor Sanford. Judging by the enormous unfilled home demand and by the growth made by the industry in recent years, he asserts, it seems safe to predict that Georgia's production of livestock will continue to increase in future.

"Big business," he declares, "has confidence in this trend, as evidenced by the fact that in recent years all of the large meat-packing organizations of the country have started operations in Georgia in connection with investments that indicate they are to remain in Georgia."

Research Is Essential.

"With this growth in the importance of livestock to the Georgia farmer, it is only natural that livestock research also should increase in importance. During recent years many thousands of inexperienced farmers have taken up livestock production as a definite part of their farm operations. These conditions are making new problems that demand clear-cut and practical solutions if livestock raising is to take its proper place in Georgia's farming industry—if losses, instead of gains, are to be realized."

Ten years ago, says Chancellor Sanford, hogs fattened on peanuts were heavily penalized on the market because of the prejudice against their "soft" pork. Experimentation, research, revealed this pork was equal in many respects to that from corn-fed hogs, and had a flavor preferred by many people to that of ordinary pork. This work paved the way for the present-day prosperity of hog producers in the peanut sections. The resultant large profits from hog production have greatly stimulated and increased this agricultural activity on Georgia farms. The modern packing houses now operating in Georgia's peanut section have been made possible by the fact that this demand for peanut pork has raised prices and stimulated production.

"In entering into livestock production," says the chancellor, "Georgia will not encounter a field that is free from competition. Other sections have long engaged in the production of livestock and are well entrenched in this industry. The south cannot hope to compete successfully with these other sections if antiquated or poorly adapted methods are used. We cannot use methods which have been developed for conditions different from those existing in this state. The experiment stations of the university system must work out methods that will remedy our special conditions."

"Georgia has its peculiar problems arising from differences in climatic conditions, soils, feeds, labor, and markets. Our climatic conditions influence the nature of our pastures and feed crops as well as the kind of animals we can use."

Native Feeds Will Aid.

Many of Georgia's feeds are found chiefly or entirely in this section. Georgia ranks first in the production of velvet beans, peanuts, sweet potatoes, kudzu, and chufas—all of which are excellent feeds for livestock when properly used—and they are little grown in other parts of the country.

Mules Raised at Station. Georgia farmers need annually approximately 20,000 mules and horses to replace old and worn-

VETS OF BLUE, GRAY TO ATTEND REUNION

Soldiers Answer Call to "Reveille" From Scene of Famous Battle.

By LUKE GREENE.

From over the hill at Gettysburg comes the sound of "Reveille." They're being called back, these veterans of the Blue and the Gray. Back to the historic battlefield where more than seven decades ago they fought the bloodiest battle of the War Between the States. Back to the rolling farmland where the legions of Robert E. Lee and the hosts of General George G. Meade waged the memorable struggle that decided the fate of the United States.

Atlanta's thinning Gray line has heard that call. Even though they are almost ready to hear their last "Taps," these stooped and weary veterans who bore their cause so ably cannot rest when a "Reveille" is sounding. They're going back, too—at least eight of them.

To Begin March.

The veterans will begin their march on Gettysburg Tuesday. It will probably be their last reunion, for only 8,000 of the 2,000,000 men who bore arms in the War Between the States are still living, and most of them are past 90. But those who are able to travel will be there—about 2,000 of them. The reunion will commemorate the seventy-fifth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg and will continue until July 8.

But the Atlanta veterans will see a different group of men from those who drew their swords and charged in 1863. They have grown old now. They have white hair. Many of them are deaf or hard of hearing and some have to rely on canes to get around.

Familiar Tunes.

But their spirit will not be gone. They'll hear familiar tunes—all of the old ones like "Yankee Doodle," "Maryland, My Maryland," and others. They'll swap stories and reminisce on the days of long ago. There'll be speeches, sermons, dedication addresses and military pageantry, and then there'll be music and more music.

The veterans also will mix with soldiers of other wars, for they'll be there for the Spanish War veterans, and the World War boys. The Blue and Gray can't understand these modern fellows who ride tanks instead of horses and shoot down their enemy from the skies. But they'll get along, these men of a different day.

The federal government and the state of Pennsylvania are going to make sure the aged visitors have a good time at their last assembly.

The four-day observance will begin officially on the afternoon of July 7, when the Union and Confederate veterans open their reunion with a program at the athletic stadium of Gettysburg College. Secretary of War Woodring, Governor Earle, of Pennsylvania, and military officials will make addresses.

July 7 will be veterans' and Governors' day. There will be a parade two and one-half hours long. Nineteenth century and present-day military organizations will participate. Added to this will be a concert by the United States Marine band, a field mass and special memorial service for the dead of the army.

Climax of Program.

The program will reach a climax on July 3 when the newly completed Peace Memorial is dedicated by President Roosevelt. It will be followed by an aerial demonstration conducted by the United States army with the Confederate and Union camps as the "objective" of a spectacular night attack.

Military maneuvers, in which more than 3,000 troops of the regular army will participate, will take place in the forenoon and again in the afternoon of July 3. The anniversary events will come to an end that evening with a fireworks display. Then the veterans will entrain for their homes during the next two days.

Such a program is enough to excite the Confederates. John C. Dogden, 82-year-old veteran at 1800 Wade street, John C. Mullinix, of 1117 Glenwood avenue, and J. W. Walker, of East Point. They will do the honors for those who are unable to make the long journey—those who, like Pat Herb, 104, of the Soldiers' Home, must sit at home and picture what is going on in Gettysburg.

It's packing-up time for these Confederate veterans at the Old Soldiers' Home in Atlanta. They're going on a trip—a long trip for three men who have seen 90 years come and go. But they wouldn't miss their trek back to Gettysburg where they will discuss the days of long ago with hundreds of other veterans. Left to right are General M. Y. Griggs, W. H. Culpepper and J. C. Dogden.

Ridge and Lookout Mountain will be held in Chattanooga, Tenn., September 15-25.

Confederate, Union Veteran To Go From Georgia City of Blue, Gray

Governor Rivers has been invited to the 100th anniversary of the removal of the Cherokee Indians from east of the Mississippi river, and the 100th anniversary of the founding of Chattanooga.

Governor Rivers was asked to serve on the committee because Georgia is one of the 29 states that had troops in the famous battles that preceded Sherman's march through the state. President Roosevelt is honorary chairman of the committee.

Thousands of visitors are expected to come from all parts of the country to participate in the ceremonies. An historical spectacle, to be held two hours every night, will portray every highlight and era since the days of the Indians and the visit of DeSoto down to the present.

TRIAL DELAY WON IN MAINE MURDER

Defense is Granted Until July 25 to Prepare Case.

SOUTH PARIS, Maine, June 25. (AP)—Defense counsel won an extended trial date today for Francis M. Carroll, 43-year-old World War veteran, accused of a brutal murder for which Schoolboy Paul N. Dwyer, 18, now serves life imprisonment.

Clyde H. Chapman, former attorney general and one of Carroll's counsel, was granted until July 25 to prepare the defense to a grand jury indictment charging that Carroll slew Dr. James G. Littlefield, 67, of South Paris.

Chapman requested the time extension because, he said, when he entered the case Carroll, a church deacon and father of five children, was under $20,000 bail on a morals charge involving his oldest daughter, Barbara, 18, once an intimate friend of Dwyer. But with return of the murder indictment more time would be needed, he said, to prepare an adequate defense.

Fear, or a quixotic desire, or both, officers indicated today, apparently prompted the slender Dwyer to plead guilty to the aged physician's slaying October 13 of his November trial and withhold since his state prison incarceration information special State Prosecutor Ingalls described as "detrimental" to Carroll's future.

It was this knowledge, contained in letters reputedly written to Dwyer by Barbara Carroll that provided the motive for murder when Dr. Littlefield became aware of their contents, said investigating officers. Ingalls said the state contended "Francis Carroll and not Paul Dwyer killed the aged physician" in Dwyer's own home.

Slaying of Wife. Dwyer also confessed he strangled the doctor's wife, Mrs. Lydia Littlefield, 63, but no mention of her death entered current proceedings. Oxford officials said the Carroll charges would be disposed of first, but a further check was being made on Dwyer's claim he killed the woman in Cumberland county two days after her husband's death.

Dwyer's ex-state "death toll" with the bodies of the couple ended in North Arlington, N. J., October 16 when he fell asleep at the wheel of the car.

TEMPORARY PERMIT GIVEN LIQUOR DEALER

Revenue Commissioner Grady Head yesterday said a temporary retail liquor permit had been granted to Wolff Silver, of Savannah, conditional on removal of his business to a new location by October 1.

Silver's permit was suspended several weeks ago after protests that his establishment was closer to a church than allowed by Georgia law. Head said Silver may apply for a permanent license if he moves before October 1. If he does not move, the suspension will become effective again.

Confederate, Union Veteran To Go From Georgia City of Blue, Gray

Soldiers Who Fought on Opposite Sides in War Between States Will Attend Reunion in Gettysburg, Commemorating Famous Battle.

FITZGERALD, Ga., June 25.

Georgia's city of the Blue and Gray will be represented by two veterans, one a Confederate and the other a Union soldier, at the last reunion in Gettysburg.

William J. Bush, the Confederate, who is 93, and Henry Brunner, 96, will leave Fitzgerald Monday for the scene of the historic battle of the War Between the States. They represent the last remnant of the Blue and the Gray in Ben Hill county.

The Confederate survivor joined the southern army from Wilkinson county as a mere lad and fought in the Battle of Atlanta. He was a member of "Joe Brown's Pets," as the regiment was called.

Fitzgerald is known as the Colony City and Mr. Brunner is the last of the more than 500 Union veterans who poured into the colony in the latter part of 1895 from the Union Soldiers' Colony Company. He joined the Union forces from Newton, Kan., serving in Company F, 18th O. V. I., and later was attached to Company M, First West Virginia cavalry, in which he served three years.

Mr. Brunner will be accompanied to the reunion by his son, Henry Brunner Jr., L. D. Wright will attend for Mr. Bush.

The two will represent a city that has many reminders of the war. The city park is known as the "Blue and the Gray" and part of the streets are named for southern generals and part for northern military leaders. The population is composed of approximately one-half northern people and one-half southern. It is truly a town of the Blue and the Gray.

In Atlanta Hospitals

Sixteen-year-old Cecil Frost, of 297 Sampson street, who was struck on the head in a pop bottle barrage at a ball game Friday night, was reported "much improved" yesterday at the Georgia Baptist hospital.

Admitted for treatment after accidentally drinking a small quantity of gasoline, James C. Barnes, 20-month-old son of Mrs. Lucille Barnes, 635 State street, N. W., was discharged from Grady hospital yesterday.

Dr. S. J. Calhoun, a practicing physician of Langdale, Ala., was convalescing in the Ponce de Leon Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat infirmary yesterday after undergoing a throat operation. His condition was described as "good."

Henry A. Rain Jr., of 137 Moreland avenue, N. E., who was operated on Friday at the Crawford W. Long hospital, was reported in "fairly good" condition last night.

Thomas Frazier, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Frazier, of 122 Howard street, N. E., was reported in a serious condition at Grady hospital yesterday as a result of injuries received when his scooter collided with a truck.

Condition of General James I. Driver, past state commander of the United Confederate Veterans, was reported as "fairly good" yesterday at the Crawford W. Long hospital. General Driver, who lives in Hapeville, was admitted for treatment for a heart attack.

Mrs. J. G. Johnson Sr., of 1600 Boulevard, N. E., was reported in "good condition" yesterday at the Crawford W. Long hospital, where she was admitted for treatment Friday.

"Getting along fine" was the report yesterday on the condition of Miss Bertha Carpenter, of Wadesboro, N. C., who underwent an abdominal operation Friday at the Piedmont hospital.

THIRD MAN IS SHOT IN TRUCKING STRIKE

New Orleans Police Raid CIO Headquarters.

NEW ORLEANS, June 25. (AP)—A third man was shot today in the dispute of striking CIO truck drivers with AFL members and police a little later raided for a second time CIO headquarters, arresting 28 persons.

Eighty-four were arrested in the first raid yesterday. Officers charged members of the Committee for Industrial Organization were interfering indiscriminately with trucks as a result of the strike the CIO called against 10 drayage firms on the contention the managements refused to treat with it. The American Federation of Labor insists no strike exists.

"There's no room in New Orleans for CIO Communists and reds," said John J. Grosch, acting superintendent of police. "If I can run them out of New Orleans I am going to do it."

JOINS AUGUSTA FACULTY.

AUGUSTA, Ga., June 25.—Dr. Cecelia Mettler has been appointed instructor in medical history at the University of Georgia Medical College. She received a Ph.D. degree at Cornell the past semester. She and her husband, Dr. F. A. Mettler, professor of anatomy at the medical college, will spend the summer studying at Cornell.

Councilman J. Frank Beck, of the fifth ward, who has been under treatment at Emory university hospital, was not resting so comfortably yesterday, attaches said, but his condition was described as "good."

Continued improvement was reported yesterday in the condition of Miss Madeline Walker, of Griffin, who underwent a major operation Friday at Emory university hospital.

Henry A. Rain Jr., of 137 Moreland avenue, N. E., who was operated on Friday at the Crawford W. Long hospital, was reported in "fairly good" condition last night.

M'GILL TO SPEAK AT J. P. C. MEETING

Will Describe Nazi Treatment of Jews.

Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Atlanta Constitution, will address members of the Jewish Progressive Club at a meeting at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night. Mr. McGill, who recently returned from a tour of Scandinavia, the British Isles and central Europe, will speak on conditions in Europe, emphasizing particularly treatment accorded Jews in Germany.

McGill observed at first hand the method of procedure of the Nazi regime. He is thoroughly familiar with the terrorism and viciousness of the Nazi toward Jewry and his message is expected to be of particular interest to Jews of Atlanta.

All members of the organization have been requested to be present, and an invitation has been extended to the families to attend.

TO FUSH CANDIDACY.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., June 25. E. J. Summerour, one of five candidates for the two places as representative in the Georgia legislature, from Bartow county, will speak at Pine Log school next Saturday night.

FULTON CANNOT SHARE REED COST

High Court Ruling Forces Chamber Members To Shoulder $6,333 Burden.

Payment of $6,333 to Dr. Thomas H. Reed, governmental expert, by Fulton county as its share of the cost of the Reed city and county survey was ruled illegal yesterday by the supreme court of Georgia.

The court held the county has no right to pay out funds for any but the functions specified by constitutional provisions.

Though the county's check for $6,333 is still held in escrow by an Atlanta bank, Dr. Reed already has been paid the entire $19,000 for which he contracted to make the survey, Charles F. Palmer, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said today.

The loss caused by the county not being able to pay its one-third of the $19,000 will have to be absorbed by the businessmen of Atlanta who comprise the Chamber of Commerce membership, Palmer stated.

Suffers No Loss. "We are not willing to see Dr. Reed suffer any loss after he rendered such outstanding service to this community," said Palmer.

Dr. Reed contracted with the Chamber of Commerce, the city of Atlanta and Fulton county to make the survey which took him six months. The city has paid its $6,333. Mayor Hartsfield pointed out yesterday that the city has broader power in its expenditures than does the county.

The high court's ruling reversed Judge Virlyn B. Moore, of Fulton superior court, who refused to grant the petition of J. T. Vincent, a citizen, for an injunction to prevent Mrs. Mabel Abbott McNeill, county treasurer, from paying the sum to Dr. Reed.

Russell Writes Opinion. It held that the survey did not come within the functions for which the county officers have the right to levy taxes, and also that the county officers have no right to incur indebtedness against revenue anticipated from sources other than taxation.

Chief Justice Richard B. Russell wrote the opinion of the supreme court and all the justices concurred.

George and Leroy Finch were attorneys for Dr. Vincent, while county attorneys in the case were Walter Hendrix, Harold Shelton, W. S. Northcutt and Charles Shelton.

The county attorneys argued before the courts that since the county has the right to employ auditors, it would also have the right to pay for a survey, which encompassed the work of both an auditor and a lawyer.

It was contended, too, that the fee for Dr. Reed would come from revenue sources of the county other than taxation.

Must Be Authorized. Chief Justice Russell, however, wrote that "county officers have no right to contract a debt, except upon being authorized as therein provided, (referring to the constitution) on the grounds that anticipated revenue from sources other than taxation can be used to discharge such indebtedness."

The court held that the Reed contract was not for a purpose for which the county could legally levy taxes, and ruled that Judge Moore erred in not granting Vincent an interlocutory injunction.

Judge Moore last September dissolved a temporary injunction which had been granted Vincent by Judge Hugh Dorsey.

Finch served notice of appeal when Judge Moore refused a permanent injunction. Mrs. MacNeill and the Trust Company of Georgia, which handled the Reed money, held the county's $6,333 check in escrow.

The check, never cashed, will be returned to the county, it was said.

"Dr. Reed's service to the community was done properly and should be paid for out of public funds," Palmer said. "However, the Chamber of Commerce did not intend to see him lose any money because of technicalities of the law. He has been paid in full and the businessmen of Atlanta will absorb the loss."

McGill observed at first hand the method of procedure of the Nazi regime. He is thoroughly familiar with the terrorism and viciousness of the Nazi toward Jewry and his message is expected to be of particular interest to Jews of Atlanta.

FIVE-YEAR BATTLE IN NORTH DAKOTA TO CLIMAX TUESDAY

National Issues Turned Aside
Langer, Nye.

BISMARCK, N. D., June 25.—(AP)—A five-year fight between Governor William Langer and United States Senator Gerald P. Nye, two nationally prominent North Dakotans seeking the Republican senatorial nomination, will go before the North Dakota voters in Tuesday's primary election.

Turning national issues aside, the former friends whose fight has been symbolic of the internal strife in the Non-Partisan League dominant since it regained control of state government in 1932, have fought on state issues.

The Nye versus Langer contest overshadowed an otherwise quiet election in which five distinct tickets are arrayed for nomination in three brackets—Republican, Democratic and Union party.

Nye has concentrated against what he called "Langerism." Declaring his campaign for re-election is secondary, he has asserted it is essential that the rest of his ticket be elected for a "return of responsible state government."

Charging Nye with making a racket out of peace, Langer has declared "everybody is against war," and that Nye "lectures" instead of getting agricultural aid for North Dakota. Langer promised to "out-Huey Huey Long" to get federal aid monies for the state.

CHANDLER PROFFERS ROOSEVELT SUPPORT

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., June 25.—(AP)—Governor A. B. Chandler formally opened his campaign for the United States senate here today by declaring he was a supporter of President Roosevelt and that he wanted the Democratic voters to decide between him and Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley on the basis of their records. Chandler said after a White House visit last spring that the President had not been able to persuade him not to run in the August primary against Barkley. Roosevelt has indicated his preference for the majority leader and has indicated he may visit Kentucky on his cross-continent tour this summer.

CLARK DECLARES HIS INDEPENDENCE

FLAT RIVER, Mo., June 25.—(AP)—United States Senator Bennett Champ Clark, of Missouri, opening his campaign for Democratic re-nomination, asserted today his right to follow "my own convictions" even though they differed with those of the administration.

Clark said he would not seek office "whenever the people of Missouri . . . conclude it is part of the duty of a United States senator to agree sight unseen" upon national policies.

FRANK M. GIDEONS, TEACHER, DIES AT 29

Funeral Services To Be Held Today.

Frank M. Gideons, 29, teacher of science eight years at the David T. Howard Junior High school, died Friday afternoon at Harris Memorial hospital. He had been ill since last November.

He was a native of this city and was graduated in 1930 from Atlanta University. He taught for a while at Croghan city school and then went to Howard.

He was a member of the graduate chapter of Omega Psi Phi fraternity. Survivors include a brother, Charles L. Gideons, principal of Booker T. Washington school. Final rites will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Allen Temple M. E. church, of which he was a member.

Every Boy Who Enters Has An Equal Chance To Win

IDLE CRACKERS TAKE LEAD AS PEBBLES LOSE

Bryant Holds Giants to 3 Singles as Cubs Win; Reds Lose

GAME*
by Jack Troy

Even the most skeptical must now rally to the Cracker colors. The colors? Red. If any team of professional athletes ever deserved to wear the red badge of courage it is the Crackers of 1938.

You'd have to search far to find a finer spirit among a group of pros.

Manager Richards naturally was in a spot at the start of the season. He was succeeding a fellow who had been at the helm for two pennant-winning seasons and a third-place finish in his last year.

The snipers were ready for Manager Richards, anyway. And then things started happening in the very beginning.

Buster Chatham professedly was ill the day before opening day. Bobby Durham had a sore arm and, in addition, was suffering from a badly infected tooth. Al Rubeling was ill.

And as the season has gone along, matters have gotten worse instead of better.

They actually reached a new low when it was necessary to call upon Bob Durham to catch.

Just when it looked as if the team might straighten out, fate moved in and aimed crashing blows at the heart of the team.

Dewey Williams was operated on. Manager Paul Richards suffered a split hand. Eddie Rose broke a couple of ribs. Johnny Hill sprained an ankle. Emil Mailho injured his instep. Jack Bolling hurt his hand. Marshall Mauldin injured his arm.

Topping it all off, Larry Miller slumped from his form of the year before. So did Leo Moon.

Never at any time this season have the Crackers been able to present a full-strength lineup. They have, at times, almost looked like a pick-up nine.

And yet they haven't been below third place in the standings and today are strong candidates to be the host team for the all-star game. They are in first place now, four percentage points ahead of Little Rock.

The Cracker pitching has not been consistent. The club has been robbed of punch because of illness and injury. And yet it has doggedly hounded Little Rock from the start.

There must be an answer aside from skill. And, of course, there is. The answer is spirit and darned good management.

Paul Richards is no "know it all." He is one of the boys. He takes no credit. He gives it all to the team.

Around the league the bulldog courage and persistent fight of the Crackers is a matter of wonderment. Team spirit is the answer.

I know that the phrase is overworked generally, but it is not only applicable but peculiarly fitting in the case of the Crackers. They don't know when to quit.

Fans can't help but be whole-heartedly for such a team.

POWER IS OUT.

During spring training, this correspondent searched back through the records and pointed out that power clubs cannot win in the Southern league.

The parks are too big. Those fellows who knock the cover off the ball simply prove another big out, in the majority of cases.

Nashville a year ago had the Alexanders and the Chapmans and other power hitters. This year Manager Charley Dresen said power was out and that the Vols would go in for speed and pitching.

The result is that today Nashville is a real threat in the race after a slow start. Power just won't do.

A team that has the speed, defense and team spirit, plus reasonably good pitching, will, in the end, have it all over the slugging type of club. Chattanooga, the team that was going to overpower the league, is floundering in the depths of the second division.

THAT KEY MAN BUSINESS.

Little Rock steadily has gone from bad to worse since Roy Schalk, second baseman, has been out of the lineup. Since Schalk injured his ankle, the Pebbles have lost most of their games.

It must be the genius of Doc Prothro, in addition to very fine pitching, that has kept the defending champions from slipping into the rank and file.

Still, the Pebbles are in a precarious position and especially so with regard to the all-star game. If they keep on slipping and the Crackers or Nashville keep on winning, the game will not be played in Little Rock.

Schalk was, and is, the Little Rockers key man. They went to pieces when he was hurt.

The Crackers have been steadily winning since they acquired Nig Lipscomb from Little Rock to play second base. They have been winning despite a flock of injuries.

So there is a lot to the key man idea. One man is important. He can either make or break a team.

RUCKER IS SENSATION.

Since John Rucker, the Crabapple Cannonball, has been at Macon he has proved the sensation of the Sally league.

IT TAKES A BIT OF NERVE-----AND A LOT OF SKILL-----TO DO THIS DIVE!

Fred Lanue, who has charge of a sports program at East Lake, executes a dive for which he hasn't found any apt pupils as yet. Lanue does a full gainer followed by a one and a half.

The dive in sequence follows: No. 1, the running start; No. 2, the somersault; No. 3, hitting the board again; No. 4, start of the one and a half; No. 5, ready to straighten out; No. 6, clearing the water. Lanue, ex-intercollegiate champ of New England, expertly performs the most difficult of dives of which the full gainer and one and a half is one.

CHIEF RUNS 1ST, STAGEHAND 2D

Pompoon Finishes Out of Money in $20,000 Brooklyn Handicap.

NEW YORK, June 25.—(P)—The Chief and Stagehand, 3-year-olds owned by Maxwell Howard and trained by Earl Sande, ran one, two in the mile and eighth of the $20,000 Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct today. Parker Corning's Unfailing was third as J. H. Louchheim's highly regarded Pompoon finished out of the money for the first time this year.

The Chief, ridden by Johnny Longden, stepped the distance in the fast time of 1:48 2-5, the same time he made in winning the Dwyer Stakes last Saturday, and only one-fifth of a second off Discovery's track record. Stagehand trailed by five lengths while beating Unfailing, an outsider, by two more lengths.

Pompoon, winner of the Dixie Handicap and second to Snark in the fast-run Suburban, never was a serious contender. He finished sixth in the 10-horse field.

The Chief and Stagehand went postward the favorites at even money to take the purse of $18,450.

John Hill Favorite In All-Star Contest

Barrage of Letters Arrive as The Constitution's Poll Comes to Close.

A last-minute barrage of letters from fans who wanted to see just how the league race was going to stack up, brought The Constitution's All-Star baseball contest to a close last night.

Johnny Hill, Cracker third-baseman, continued to lead the field by gathering more votes than any other player in the field.

However, if the Crackers are in first place, Ray Honeycutt, of Chattanooga, has shown enough popularity to give him the hot corner spot, in the fans' opinion.

The response to The Constitution's contest, which, by the way, was the first of such contests, was overwhelming, in fact, far greater than was expected.

Three cash and two other prizes will be awarded the persons having the nearest correct team to the one which will play the July 1 leaders on July 7. The all-star team will be selected by Southern league sports writers.

Winners will be announced just as soon as the team is selected.

Among the most popular players in the league, judging from the entries, are Hill, Sunkel, Richards, Mauldin, Williams, Rose, Peters, and Mailho, of the Crackers.

Fans like Miles, Gill, Honeycutt, Millies and Alexander, of Chattanooga; Rich, Campbell, Coble, Braxton and Schalk, of Little Rock;

BRYANT ALLOWS ONLY 3 SINGLES

Virgil Davis' 12th Inning Homer Beats Cincinnati Nine.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Clay Bryant gave the Giants three singles and no other hit yesterday and the Chicago Cubs whipped the National league leaders, 5 to 0. Phil Cavarretta hit a homer for the Cubs in the second.

A home run by Spud Davis in the twelfth inning gave the Phillies a 7-to-6 victory over Cincinnati after the Reds had scored three unearned runs in the ninth to tie the score.

Curt Davis pitched eight-hit ball and, with the aid of a two-run uprising by his mates in the eighth inning, hurled the St. Louis Cardinals to a 3-to-1 victory over the Dodgers.

With Mace Brown starring on the mound and at bat, the Pittsburgh Pirates took the first game of their series with the Boston Bees, 8 to 7.

Brown won his tenth game of the year and drove in Pittsburgh's last two runs with a double. (Boxes in Second Sports Page.)

Luman Harris, Miller Face Barons Today

Saturday's Game Rained Out; Johnson, George Slated to Hurl for B'ham.

By JACK TROY.

Maybe they were showers of blessing. Because, although rained out yesterday, the Crackers went into first place for the second time this season as Nashville defeated Little Rock, 12-9. The Crackers hold a four-point lead.

Today the league-leading Crackers will resume their baseball business with the Birmingham Barons in a double-header, starting at 2 o'clock.

Manager Paul Richards has nominated Luman Harris and Larry Miller to hold the fort for the crippled Crackers. Henry Johnson and Greek George are expected to fire away for Birmingham in that order.

The Crackers have a real chance to be in first place on July 1. They open a four-game series with Nashville here Monday.

PEBBLES ON ROAD. Little Rock plays on the road. And there is an interesting angle connected with the all-star idea.

Atlanta and Little Rock open a series at Little Rock on July 1. The team that is in first place on July 1 not only plays the all-star team but plays that team at home.

Only a few points separate Atlanta and Little Rock now. Sup-

BOBBITT, MOORE CAPTURE CROWN

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., June 25. (P)—Russell Bobbitt and Bill Moore, of Georgia Tech, today won the doubles tennis title of the third district National Collegiate Athletic Association.

They defeated Johnny Foreman and Carl Rood of the University of North Carolina.

When rain came yesterday each team had won a set and the Tarheels were leading, 3-2, in the third.

Foreman and Rood took the third set—first on today's card—6-4. The Georgians came back to win, 6-0.

Bobbitt and Moore took the final set, 6-4.

Helen Moody's Great Rally Wins, 8-6, 6-4, Mako Extends Austin

FURIOUS MENZEL QUILTS THE COURT, FORFEITS MATCH

Czech Had Asked for a Postponement, Favoring Bad Ankle.

By SCOTTY RESTON.
WIMBLEDON, England, June 25.—(AP)—Defeated a d defenseless for 20 desperate minutes, Helen Willis Moody staged a valiant comeback on Wimbledon's center court today and marched triumphantly into the quarter-final round of the All-England tennis championships today.

Unable to hold her first three service games and trailing 1-5, Queen Helen, in her own calm, cold fashion, suddenly took command of play in her fourth-round match with Mrs. Bobbie Heine Miller, blistered the South African star's backhand with hard-spinning drives and won out at 8-6, 6-4.

This was the feature of an exciting day which saw these developments:

1.—Infuriated Roderich Menzel, gigantic third-seeded Czech, marched off the court and forfeited his match with Scottish Don MacPhail because of an ankle injury.

2.—Gene Mako, of Los Angeles, in faultless form, carry Henry Wilfred (Bunny) Austin deep into the fifth set before going down.

BUDGE MARCHES ON.
Thus at the end of the first week of play, red-headed Don Budge, easy victor over Ronald Shays, of Great Britain, 6-3, 6-4, 6-1, alone remained to carry United States' against seven other survivors in men's singles.

Mrs. Moody alone had reached the last eight. A round happens to win, he then will have to play a much harder schedule than the other quarter-finalists in order to catch up.

"We always reach the quarter-finals by Saturday night," he was told. "If your match is postponed and your opponent happens to win, he then will have to play a much harder schedule than the other quarter-finalists in order to catch up."

So Menzel went out and played. Towering six feet six inches, he scarcely could put any weight at all on his left foot and his service, usually his strongest point, was ineffective. He won the first set, 8-6, but when MacPhail carried the second set to deuce and then won it, 9-7, Menzel gave up. "I do not understand how it is possible for some players to get matches postponed while others can not," Menzel said afterwards. "I am not suggesting that it was wrong for Miss Jacobs' match earlier in the week to be postponed but my doctor was here to vouch for my inability to play and they would not listen."

(Early in the week Miss Jacobs fainted in the clubhouse and tournament officials approved postponement of the match she had scheduled that day.)
Miss Jacobs herself got a bad break today from the committee. After she had beaten Freda James, of England, in singles, 6-4, 6-2, it suddenly was announced she and Miss Bundy must play doubles. But Helen still was too weak to stand two matches in one day and she and her partner, Monica Cal, partner were eliminated in the second round by Valerie Scott and Joan Saunders, of England, 6-2, 8-6.

ANDERSON LOSES.
The only other American to go down today was Owen Anderson, of Los Angeles. He and his English partner, Rita Jarvis, were eliminated in the third round of mixed doubles by A. D. Russell and Miss James, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1. United States players, altogether, won six matches.

Budge as usual was incomparable and the longer the tournament lasts the stronger becomes the conviction that the United States can carry off all four titles.
Mako certainly indicated he was at top form in his long match with Austin. A much better performer at doubles than singles, Mako nevertheless gave the British stylist a terrific battle before succumbing, 6-4, 4-6, 9-7, 0-6, 6-4. Austin was not at his best, mainly because of lack of sleep. He spent most of the night at the hospital where a daughter was born to his wife, the former Phyllis Konstam, during the early morning hours.

Cartersville Nine Wants Tilts With Local Clubs

The Cartersville baseball team, ex-member of the old Kenesaw league, wants games with any good team within a 100-mile radius of Atlanta.

Manager John R. Tidwell said he was especially desirous of games with Atlanta clubs.

He may be called at Cartersville at 9110.

The Atlanta White Sox play the Hapeville Black Barons at 3:30 o'clock today at the Barons' new park just south of Hapeville.

Red Marion Sent To Greenville Club
TRENTON, N. J., June 25.—(AP)—Trenton, of the Eastern league, today announced the release to Greenville, of the South Atlantic league, of Johnny (Red) Marion. Formerly an outfielder, Marion was converted into a pitcher last year.

New Jersey Welcomes One Red-- Vander Meer

The Double-No-Hit Sensation is "All-American Boy" Who Overcame Handicaps.

By PAUL MICKELSON.
NEW YORK, June 25.—(AP)—A tintype from the old professor's notebook on another champion—John Samuel Vander Meer, the double no-hit, no run game pitching sensation of the surging Cincinnati Reds.

He stands six feet one, weighs 187 pounds and wears size 11-12 shoes. He insists he's older than the official records show—that he isn't 22 but will be 24 next November 2. His cheeks are creased with deep dimples, his hair is light brown and wavy and his eyes are blue. He never slicks his hair. Just douses it with water and pushes it back. He has six fairly good suits but wears one for a week. The Dutch translation of his name means "From the Sea."

His sense of humor is good. Laughingly he says he's one of the few "Reds" welcomed in New Jersey. His home is in Midland Park, N. J., not far from New York. He's like a freshman at college in many respects. At Chicago, he paid a negro souvenir hawker $2.50 to show him a chain tie clasp with a charm reading "Reds" in large letters. He always wears it.

He isn't interested in movies but likes the radio, and dancing. Jack Benny is his favorite radio star. He doesn't care much about reading but is a great outdoor boy. He fishes both in the summer and winter. After he pitched his second straight no-hitter against Brooklyn, he slept two hours and got up before sun-up to go fishing with one of his best pals, a New Jersey state trooper. But, when the fish aren't biting, he's a great sleeper, averaging close to 10 hours nightly.

GOT A GIRL.
Yes, Johnny has a girl. Her name is Miss Lois Stewart, daughter of a Scranton, Pa., policeman. He met her when he pitched for Scranton. She is a stenographer out of work right now so she came down to New York on a bus to see Johnny pitch his second straight masterpiece. She visited for a couple of days at Johnny's modest home at 43 Rea street, Midland Park.

Johnny admits he likes Lois extra well because she doesn't use lip stick, smoke or drink. Johnny learned to smoke when he pitched at Durham, where cigarettes are made. He takes an occasional glass of beer but nothing stronger. His favorite dish is boiled potatoes.

One of the reasons Johnny doesn't like the movies is because he was the hero of a newspaper short in 1933 entitled the "All-American Boy." The short showed his home life and his pitching form. He never saw it on the screen but has been a little nettled about the business because a ball

Ozmer, Allen Battle In Black Rock Final

Charlie Ozmer and Gerrard Allen will battle 18 holes today over the Black Rock course for the club championship.

The finals have been postponed several weeks due to the players being out of the city, and it was agreed to play today.

Plans for a four-ball tournament, consisting of a low and high scoring team, are rapidly being completed for members of the Black Rock Club.

Charles Ozmer defeated W. W. Whitaker, 8 and 6; Dan Gottesman defeated A. M. Kennedy, 8 and 6; Joe E. Roberts defeated R. H. Bennett, 3 and 2; Lee McLure defeated Fred Tosch, 2 and 1; Gerrard Allen defeated Luke Carroll, 4 and 3; George Allen defeated A. T. Kennington, 5 and 4; Ted Huff defeated Frank Blake by default; H. ## BARNES, GIBSON WIN 1ST PRIZE IN SCOTCH PLAY

Helen Modie, Dawson Ragsdale Also Cop at West End.

Luke Barnes, captain of Tech High's undefeated city prep golf team, and Hoot Gibson, a former Tech athlete, won first prize Saturday afternoon in a Scotch foursome play on the West End course.

Barnes and Gibson had a 68, two strokes under par.

Helen Modie, daughter of Jeff Modie, professional at the James L. Key course, and Dawson Ragsdale, shared a nine-hole low gross prize with Ed Choate and C. W. Franks with 34's.

Players who got away from the first tee before the rain started completed 18 holes, while others participated in the nine-hole contest.

Mrs. Dave Mitchell, who last week won the driving contest in the Georgia Women's Golf Association tournament, added another trophy to her collection with first place in the West End driving contest.

Mrs. Mitchell had three drives well over 200 yards each and all three were well within the out-of-bounds limits.

Miss Martha Daniel, Georgia's 1937 woman's champion from Rome, was second, and Mrs. Lucile Brown third in the driving contest.

Gene Dahlbender Jr. and Mrs. Colleen Butler, Atlanta's champion, won the draw prize.

Following the annual Scotch two-ball foursome play, A. J. (Goat) Cochran served members of the club and their friends with a fish fry.

A dance in the clubhouse topped off the evening's entertainment.

Hairston, two up; Don Garvan defeated F. L. Stowe by default; J. O. Courtin defeated T. W. Beasley, 2 and 1; H. E. Barr defeated Loy W. Davis, one up; H. S. Link defeated J. H. Horace by default.

FIFTH FLIGHT.
Sam Luchese defeated Ricardo Cottingham, 4 and 3; Jim Smith defeated C. E. Ray by default.

Chapman, Barnett Gain Caddie Finals.
Bruce Chapman and Charles Barnett, star caddie golfers, will renew their rivalry Monday with a 36-hole match for the title in the Candler Park Caddie Invitation tournament.

Some two weeks ago the youngsters met in the finals of the James L. Key caddie meet, and Barnett emerged victorious.

Chapman, the medalist, entered the finals of the Candler tourney with a one-up victory over Hal Adams; Barnett bested Louie Whitley, 4 and 3.

CONSOLATION FLIGHT.
Charles Meninger beat Roy Cook, 6 and 4; James Aycock beat George Wilson, 4 and 2.

FINST FLIGHT.
Tub Bryan beat Virgil Atkinson, 3 and 2.

SECOND FLIGHT.
Hulsey Hamcock beat Hollis Copeland, 2 up.

Qualifying in the Candler Park Membership Association tournament will begin next week.

Twelve Golfers Tie In East Lake Bogey.
An even dozen golfers tied for top honors with 76's yesterday afternoon in the weekly blind bogey at East Lake.

Preston Chambers Upset by Suttles

Victor Meets Crawford Today; Fowler Wins; All Other Matches Postponed by Rain.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.
Rain forced postponement of all but two of yesterday's matches in the annual Atlanta tennis championships but one of the battles provided a sensational upset in the men's singles.

Youthful Cortez Suttles, Russell High stoker and member of the Junior Davis Cup team, blasted his way into the quarter-finals with a 6-4, 6-0 victory over fourth-seeded Preston Chambers, regarded by many as the man to beat in the tournament.

SLIGHT CHANCE.
Unseeded and given only the slightest chance to gain more than the fourth round in the meet, Suttles found little trouble with Chambers' powerful wrist shots and terrific service.

The Russell player demonstrated excellent form and will give eighth-ranked Hank Crawford plenty of trouble this afternoon.

The other match saw second-seeded Louise Fowler gain a semi-final berth in the women's singles with a victory over Kate Jackson, 10-8, 6-3.

Miss Fowler plays third-seeded Polly Taylor, defending champion, today at 3 o'clock in the women's feature.

COURTS VS. ENLOE.
All quarter-final matches are scheduled to be completed today. Feature of the round will be the battle between top-ranked Maion Courts and Red Enloe, who drew the fifth spot, at 4 o'clock.

One of the fourth-round affairs promising much action and probable upsets, brings together Dr. Kels Boland, No. 2, and Bud Lindsay, unseeded surprise package, at 2 o'clock. The winner will play Champ Reese in the quarter-finals at 6 o'clock.

Miss Gladys Vallebuona, top-seeded woman player, meets Florence Camp, upset winner over Eugenia O'Bryan, at 2 o'clock.

Two seeded players meet in a quarter-final round at 5 o'clock when Dr. Glenn Dudley, No. 6, attempts to stop Campbell Gillespie, No. 3.

QUARTER-FINALS TODAY.
Weather permitting, all men's quarter-finals will be played today.

TODAY'S COMPLETE SCHEDULE.
11 A. M.—Chambers-Chambers vs. Suttles. Aiken. Boyer-Knox vs. Coyne-Sears. 2 P. M.—Max and Carl Lindsay vs. Corrigan-Nunnally. 2 P. M.—Dr. Kels Boland vs. Bud Lindsay. 2 P. ## York Beans Gordon, Yankee in Hospital

DETROIT, June 25.—(AP)—Joe (Flash) Gordon, the New York Yankees' rookie second baseman, suffered a head injury in today's game with the Detroit Tigers and was taken to a hospital (Providence) for an X-ray examination.

Dr. William E. Keane, the Tigers' club physician, examined Gordon and directed his removal to the hospital.

The accident occurred in the seventh inning. Gordon was on first base after singling to center. Detroit's catcher, Rudy York, tried to pick him off the bag, and made a low throw to Greenberg. Gordon dived back to first base and the ball struck him on the back of the head.

He remained in the game for a few minutes, going to third after Red Ruffing singled. Then, however, he was removed from the contest and Billy Knickerbocker took his place.

It was the third time this season the rookie had been injured. He crashed with Joe DiMaggio in fielding a fly ball in a game April 30 and was laid up several days.

day. Women will be seeking berth in the finals.

National Intercollegiate Golf Meet Opens Tomorrow at Louisville

LESLIE FAVORED TO WIN TOURNEY IN 3D ATTEMPT

Tommy Barnes, Tech Entry, Gets 73 in Practice Round.

By KENNETH GREGORY.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 25.—(AP)—If there is anything to the adage about the third time being the charm, Paul Leslie, slender captain of the Louisiana State University team, will be the next national intercollegiate golf champion.

Twice the 22-year-old son of a Jefferson City (Mo.) physician has fought his way to the intercollegiate finals only to be thwarted by more experienced golfers.

The tournament opens Monday with the first of two 18-hole qualifying rounds over the 6,448-yard par 36-35-71 Louisville Country Club course, which has been pronounced in perfect condition by the assembled forces of a record 45 colleges.

PRINCETON LIKED.
Princeton University, winner of the team championship last year with 644, is on hand to defend its laurels. Observers predicted that Yale and Louisiana State will be the teams to beat for the crown. The team title will be decided in the 36 holes of qualifying. Six players each with the four best scores being figured.

The individual championship, itself, shapes up as a "wide open" scramble. There are around 175 entries. The low 32 scorers in the qualifying will form the title bracket for match play, opening Wednesday with two 18-hole rounds of eliminations.

Three of last year's semi-finalists are back. Leslie defeated Barclay in that round, 3 and 2, and Vincent D'Antoni, of Tulane University, a former Southeastern conference champion, lost to Haas, 5 and 4.

Practice ended today for the Country Club course closed to all but members for Saturday afternoon and Sunday, but in preparatory rounds this week the collegiate club swingers have paid little respect to Old Man Par. Leslie did himself a fine 67, four under; Billy Cooper, of Minnesota, had a pair of 2's; Jimmy Rea, of Stanford; Ed Meier, of Yale, and Arthur Doering, of Stanford, knocked around in 70 blows and William Boyd, of Stanford, had a 71.

ANOTHER 67.
John Hobart, of Illinois, duplicated Leslie's 67 in a practice this afternoon. In last year's quarter-finals, Frank Perlich, of North-western, had a 69 and Sid Richardson, a teammate, fired a sub-par 70. Walter Hagen Jr., son of the veteran "Hag," gave indication he would represent Notre Dame with colors flying with a nice 72.

With 73's were Tommy Barnes, Georgia Tech, the Southern intercollegiate champion; Bert McDowell, of Kansas City, playing from L. S. U. and Frank Sou-chak, a Pittsburgh University football player. Bill Daddio, who also plays football at Pitt, carded a 74, as did Phil Donahue, of Sioux City, Iowa, who represents Notre Dame.

BARNES, GIBSON SCOTCH WINNERS

Neely, Gene Brooks, R. E. Cox, Travis Johnson, Hugo Burgess, George Moga, Cliff Curry, A. G. Gomilla, J. R. Wham, J. R. Harris, L. D. Thompson, George Hiles. In second place with 77's were H. A. Kline, T. L. Reed, E. A. Brooks, J. C. Thomson, W. L. Markert and J. P. Wilhoit.

A. J. Jones, J. P. McConaglier and E. R. Page tied for third place with 75's.

Woolford Wins Bogey At Bobby Jones.

Joe Woolford won the weekly blind bogey yesterday afternoon at Bobby Jones with a 75. Buck Hudgins and C. D. Frazier tied for second place, each posting 72's.

Forrest Hills Bogey Goes to Campbell.

J. A. Campbell, with a 74, won first place Saturday afternoon in the weekly blind bogey on the Forrest Hills course. Second place went to C. W. Key, with E. F. Hatcher in third position.

Alf Branch took first place Saturday in qualifying for the annual Forrest Hills Club championship tournament. Branch had a 79 for his preliminary round.

The qualifying will extend through Sunday, July 3, giving every member of the club ample

MAX BAER CHEERS—FOR THE MAN HE'LL FIGHT

Max Baer, who is slated to meet Joe Louis in a title bout late this year, leaped out of his seat and cheered as the Brown Bomber kayoed Max Schmeling in the first round at Yankee stadium. Note the size of Max's fist. He is one of the greatest physical specimens the ring has seen. Max was knocked out in four rounds by Louis in 1935.

CRACKERS PLAY 2 GAMES TODAY

pose, then, there is only half a game difference between the clubs when they open their next series. The winner of the game on July 1 would get the all-star contest.

It is no secret, really, that most of the clubs would like to see Atlanta get the game. Not that they are pulling for Atlanta, but the crowd angle is very appealing.

CRACKERS GOOD.
Please don't everyone speak at once, but who would have any idea when the season opened that the Crackers would be so well in the race at this time?

The Crackers seem to be a pretty good horse to ride in the Southern league race. This writer picked them to finish first in the race and is sticking to it.

Yesterday's rain-out game provided a chance to review a few matters and point out that for all-around ability, Tom Sunkel is one of the Southern league's best. He is one of the top pitchers and the best hitting pitcher. He is an ace pinch hitter. He probably could do a turn in the outfield and do very well indeed.

Buster Chatham, who never has fully recovered from an attack of malaria, is an excellent utility man. He can play anywhere. To date he has missed only a few positions. Namely, first base, the mound and back of the plate.

Return of Dewey Williams is very encouraging. Williams showed his old-time form behind the bat Friday night. He hasn't had time yet to get his eye on the ball at the bat, but he'll come around soon. Dewey's return was most welcome.

John Hill also was a most welcome figure in the lineup again. They have done remarkably well, all things considered.

If you like to see keen baseball, drop out to Ponce de Leon park today. The Crackers are determined to be the team in first place on July 1. The Barons have an eye on the pennant.

The double-header really is a bargain attraction. John hasn't fully recovered from his ankle injury but can get around.

Now, when Eddie Rose and Manager Richards are able to perform again, the Crackers may get straightened out. The only thing that has kept them from being ahead of the pack so far has been injuries and illness.

opportunity to compete in the tournament. The matches will be extended over a period of several weeks.

Reeves Is Winner At Ansley Park

H. G. Reeves captured the Ansley Park blind bogey yesterday afternoon, with an 80.

Tied for second place were A. C. Miller and H. E. Mayfield with 79's. Low net prize went to W. G. Brown.

Qualifying for the Nat Kaiser tourney will be held June 25-July 3.

Jacobs Signs Baer, Max Schmeling Out

By ALAN GOULD.
NEW YORK, June 24.—(AP)—Discarding, for the time being at least, the recuperating claims of Max Schmeling for a return "rubber" match with Joe Louis, negro heavyweight champion, Promoter Mike Jacobs today took definite steps to rebuild Max Baer as the next title challenger.

Jacobs came to terms with Baer and the Californian's manager, Ancil Hoffman, on a contract giving the promoter a three-year exclusive right to control Baer's fight services. A public signing of papers was staged at the West End casino, Long Beach, N. J., where Baer has trained for many of his past fights.

Jacobs plans to put Louis and Baer into the ring this September. As usual, however, the date and place will be left open for bids and ballyhoo. San Francisco would like to stage the fight, if it could be put off until the spring of 1939 as a feature of the coming World's Fair there, but the choice probably will rest between New York and Chicago for this year.

Baer is one of the five former heavyweight champions among the knockout victims of Louis. He was flattened in four rounds in 1935 at the Yankee stadium in a match that grossed more than $1,000,000 from all sources.

Mike Jacobs meantime tossed cold water on Schmeling's prospects for another bout with the man who put him in a hospital, with a cracked back, after a one-round knockout this Wednesday night.

Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's American agent, emerged from a visit with Max in the hospital to declare "negotiations" already were under way for a return bout in 1939. In behalf of Promoter Mike Jacobs it was said flatly "no promises or assurances of any kind have been given Schmeling."

It is the attitude of the 20th Century S. C. Mike Jacobs' organization, that Schmeling has had his chance, proved no match for Louis, and is out of the picture, unless and until he demonstrates another come-back.

Schmeling's condition was so satisfactory today that Polyclinic hospital announced no further bulletins would be issued. Joe Jacobs said Max was unable to move without pain but otherwise doing all right and saying he "wants very much to fight Louis again."

After returning to Germany on the Bremen, leaving here July 2, Max will take a long rest and then consider taking two or three "test bouts" in Europe, Joe Jacobs said.

Moon Hurls, Bats Canton to Victory

CANTON, Ga., June 25.—Leo Moon, Cracker hurler who is on the suspended list at present, pitched and batted Canton to a 2-1 victory over Clarksdale in a 10-inning game here today.

Moon scattered 10 hits and obtained two for himself. Ragdale and Harris also collected two hits for the winners. Parris led Clarksdale's batting.

Clarksdale 000 001 000 003-7 16 1
Canton 000 000 100 004-8 10 3
Dubley, Thomson and Clark; Millard, Hornburg and Frazier.

Turbize Captures Third Over Dixie Spinners, 4-1

ROME, Ga., June 25.—Turbize scored a triple slam last night when they beat Dixie Spinners from Chattanooga, it marking their third win over a Tennessee team.

"Lefty" Wilburn pitched for the winners and gave up 7 hits, but was untouchable in pinches. Maxey got two hits for Rayons. McClure, Ivey and Medcalf collected two hits each for losers.

Score by innings:
Dixie Spinners 000 100 000-1 7 3
Turbize 100 000 015-4 8 3
Chilvington and Daugherty; Anderson, Wilburn and Anderson.

LAKEWOOD SETS AUTO RACE CARD FOR TOP PILOTS

Program With Indianapolis Speedway Talent Opens Next Sunday.

Three-A auto racing will return to Atlanta one week from today when the first of a two-day auto race card will get under way at Lakewood speedway with old favorites, new blood and Indianapolis speedway talent vying for honors on the thrill track of Dixie.

The July 3-4 auto races will be the first A. A. A. events since Labor Day, 1936, and will be under the personal supervision of Ralph Hankinson, Orange City, Fla., who has promoted many meets in the past here by remote control.

When the Southeastern fair swung to non-A. A. racing in the fall of 1936, many wisecracks predicted that the IMCA events would not last after 1937. Their predictions came true and Southeastern fair and Lakewood will go back on the Triple-A books with good recognition and with the "King of Lakewood," Chet Gardner, the top-garaged ace.

Having finished fifth at Indianapolis this year after being 13 minutes in the pits, Chet went to Milwaukee June 5 to beat Billy Winn, Ted Horn, Tony Wilman, Frank Beeder and George Connor. At Langhorne last Sunday he burned out bearings before the race started and had to be content in watching Duke Nalon roll home ahead.

In addition to Gardner, Frank Moore, Frankie Beeder, Bill France, Speed Goff, Mike Cone, Robert E. Lee Wallace, Gordon Bracken, and Floyd Hunt have made early entries for the two days of petrol jousts.

Beeder made a good showing in May, 1936, the day Mauri Rose won the race, Bob Sall threw a wheel and came in for a fast time change. He led in eastern AAA ratings in 1937.

Hankinson is known as a smart matchmaker and is now dickering with numerous drivers hoping to have at least three Indianapolis money winners in the lineup. He also realizes that a field for two days must necessarily be larger than for just one day.

STAGEHAND RUNS SECOND TO CHIEF

all the way over Unaffiliated. Stagehand, as usual, was slow getting started, but he moved up to third at the top of the stretch and while unable to catch his fast-stepping stablemate, he had no trouble beating unaffiliated for runner-up honors.

Burning Star from the Shandon farm was fourth, two more lengths back. Then came High Velocity, Pompon, Tatterdemalion, Count Arthur, Isolator and Danger Point.

SPEEDWAY STAR RACES HERE

Chet Gardner, old Atlanta favorite, is entered in the holiday races at Lakewood. Gardner, who finished fifth in the 500-mile race, made the mistake of cutting off his motor and had to spend 13 minutes in the pits. Otherwise, he might have had a chance to win the most famous of all Iron Derbies.

War Admiral To Meet Seabiscuit Wednesday

BOSTON, June 25.—(AP)—The long-awaited racing duel between War Admiral and Seabiscuit tonight seemed a certainty for next Wednesday, when the two ace thoroughbreds are billed to match strides with 10 to 12 other strong horses in the $50,000 Massachusetts handicap at Suffolk Downs.

Pronouncing Seabiscuit "absolutely fit and ready to run," Trainer Tom Smith asserted C. S. Howard's equine was completely recovered from the leg ailment which forced cancellation of his $100,000 match race with the Admiral at Belmont Park on Memorial Day.

Reports that War Admiral likewise was in top shape and ready to go came from Trainer George Conway, and about the only thing that appeared likely to prevent their meeting this time over the mile and a furlong route was the possibility of rain.

In the event the track was muddy, Seabiscuit probably would be scratched, for he is rated a poor mudder.

Amateur Baseball

Amateur baseball games scheduled in the Atlanta Commercial, Dixie, Georgia and Chattahoochee leagues Saturday afternoon were postponed because of rain.

RAINED OUT.
All games in the Atlanta Textile league were rained out Saturday afternoon. The second half will begin next Saturday afternoon.

SPECIAL MEET.
There will be a special baseball meeting of all team managers of the Georgia and Dixie baseball leagues Monday night at 97 Pryor street. Managers are to come prepared to pay the last-half playing fee as the second half starts the following Saturday. The meeting will start at 7:30 o'clock.

HILL IS WINNER IN ALL-STAR POLL

Howell, Clancy and Majeski, of Birmingham; George and Red Evans, of New Orleans; Parks and Crouch, of Nashville; Warren, Powers and Caldwell, of Knoxville, and Monzo, Reese and Botarini, of Memphis.

However, other players received numerous votes and have good chances.

SEMI-PRO MEET SLATED AT ROME, BEGINNING JULY 9

Dixie Steel Defends; District Tourney Set at Warren.

Georgia semi-pro baseball teams will gather in Rome, Ga., July 9 for the opening of the second annual state tournament.

The tournament was shifted to Rome last week after State Commissioner Joe Stearns had conferred with Rome officials. The Rome Chamber of Commerce is planning to take a hand in the big event and all games will be broadcast over the Rome radio station. The highly modern Tubize park, recently equipped with the latest thing in lights, will be the site of the games.

The tournament will open July 9 and run every day up to July 20. The champion will be presented the official gold Honus Wagner trophy by the mayor of Rome at the conclusion of the title series.

Dixie Mills, of LaGrange, is the latest team to sign up for the state tournament. In O. Davis, Dixie Mills has one of the finest young pitchers in the south. Davis has several no-hit, no-run games to his credit this year.

Dixie Crystals, of Savannah, and several others are expected to sign up in the near future. The state tourney will be limited to 16 teams. Single eliminations will be in order with the finalist playing in a best two-out-of-three series.

Dixie Steel Is Defending Champ.

The district tournament, scheduled for Warren field early in July, will supply at least two teams for the state tournament brackets. The Warren trophy will put many of the Atlanta teams through the paces and all clubs are urged to participate. Teams will share in the gate receipts of both the state and district tourneys. Additional information on the semi-pro program may be secured by writing State Commissioner, Box 551, Atlanta, Ga.

District Meet To Start July 5

Semi-pro baseball's first tournament will get underway here July 5 it was announced yesterday by V. P. Warren II, as he stated his district tournament will start on the Warren Athletic field on that date.

All teams in and around Atlanta that has not been contacted and are desirous of entering this tournament should communicate with V. P. Warren II, district commissioner, at the Warren Arena, Inc., here in Atlanta.

Mr., Mrs. Harlan Celebrate Fiftieth Wedding Date

Mr. and Mrs. Julian W. Harlan celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on June 18, at their home on Nelson Ferry road in Decatur, at which they were assisted by their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Rosser Jr.

The marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan took place in 1888, in Ottumwa, Iowa. For the past 36 years Mr. and Mrs. Harlan have made their home here and are numbered among this city's most beloved and highly esteemed citizens. For 35 years they have been active members of the North Avenue Presbyterian church and have taken an important part in all phases of church work.

Before his retirement seven years ago Mr. Harlan was active in the city's business circle, having been associated with Armour & Company for 30 years. Judy Harlan, former football star on the Georgia Tech team, who now resides in Chicago, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan. Their other son, Charles A. Harlan, lives in Dayton, Ohio. Miss Marion Harlan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Harlan, is their only grandchild.

Seventy-five friends of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan called to extend congratulations and best wishes to the beloved couple on their 50th wedding anniversary.

Simmons-Klausman Betrothal Announced.

Of social interest is the announcement by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Charles Simmons of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Rosalind Simmons, to Nat F. Klausman, the marriage to be solemnized in the fall on a date to be announced later.

The bride-elect was graduated from the Girls' High school in 1936 and attended the Marjorie Webster school in Washington, D. C. Miss Simmons is a popular member of the young set. Mr. Klausman is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Marcus Klausman. He attended Emory University and is now connected with Montag Brothers.

D. A. V. Auxiliary To Hold Dinner.

The Betty Harrison Jones Chapter, No. 1, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, and the Auxiliary will install officers at a dinner to be held Thursday evening at 7 o'clock in the Henry Grady hotel.

Mrs. Robert Williamson and J. K. Finch, retiring commanders, will preside and Mrs. T. A. Furlong, national chaplain of the Women's Auxiliary, will install the officers. Reports of the year's activities will be given by the chairman.

Members are requested to make reservations by Wednesday, at Raymond 6581 or Main 3923.

Miss Lucy Hamner Weds Mr. Blackwell.

SMITH'S STATION, Ala., June 25.—The marriage of Miss Lucy Hamner and Preston Ernest Blackwell was solemnized on June 18 at the Methodist church here. Rev. J. W. Hamner, father of the bride, officiated in the presence of friends and relatives.

Mrs. Virginia Neal Mann, organist, and Sergeant George Moxham, of Auburn, soloist, gave a musical program. Hollis Blackwell, of Parrish, brother of the groom, and Watson Daughtrey, of Auburn, were ushers.

The bride and groom entered alone from separate aisles. The bride was lovely in an ensemble of navy triple sheer crepe with coral pink trimmings, her felt hat and other accessories being the same shade. She carried maiden-hair fern and pink radiance roses.

The wedding party and out-of-town guests were entertained at the home of the bride after the rehearsal on Friday and at a buffet luncheon preceding the ceremony.

These guests were Mrs. J. Hardy Blackwell, mother of the groom; Hollis, Billy and Katherine Anne Blackwell, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Cornelius, and Peggy Cornelius, all of Parrish; Mrs. Mable Massey Cobb and Miss Frankie Cobb, of Tuskegee; Sergeant and Mrs. George Moxham; Mrs. Martha Hornsby and Watson Daughtrey, all of Auburn; Miss Bary Brown, of Parrish; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Mann, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Haggitt, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Chadwick and Edwin Chadwick, all of Columbus, Ga.; Mrs. Lillie Bell Windham, Gordon Windham and Mrs. Ois D. Richards, all of Phenix City; Mr. and Mrs. Herman B. Hamner, Herman George and Drim Hamner, of Seale; Miss Ruth Hamner, of Talladega.

The bride is a graduate of Huntington College and has taught in the Central High school, Phenix City, for the past year. She belongs to the well-known Golden and Cochran families of Georgia, and the Hamner family of Virginia and Alabama.

The groom is a graduate of Alabama Polytechnic Institute. He is a member of the Sigma Phi Kappa Tau honorary societies. He belongs to the Blackwell and Meadows families of the Carolinas and Alabama. He holds a position with the United States Department of Agriculture and is located at Auburn, where the couple will reside.

Mewborn-Craig.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Mewborn announce the marriage of their niece, Miss Alline Mewborn, of Tucker, to Candler Craig, of Lawrenceville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. Rauschenberg on June 15. The couple is residing in Lawrenceville.

Under the Cherokee Rose

By Rose Marie

Mrs. E. M. Bailey, who has recently been made first vice president of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, announces her first new club since the convention in Albany. Waverly Hall, in the third district, has been accepted into membership and heartily welcomed. The president is Mrs. H. H. Armstrong; secretary, Mrs. W. L. Slaughter, and treasurer, Mrs. E. F. Hall.

Since the report of the Ella F. White Endowment committee was given at the state convention in April the following "Founders" have been enrolled: Cairo added to former gifts and made the goal, honoring Mrs. W. B. Roddenberry; Waycross built up gifts to $100 and honored Mrs. J. L. Walker; Albany has been on the Founders' roll a long time, but has named Mrs. George A. McArthur, honor; Macon honored Mrs. Lewis Waxelbaum by naming its gift for her on the Founders' roll. For years, only Albany, Augusta and Brunswick, of the clubs, were on the Founders' roll; now 14 clubs have reached the coveted goal.

Each name on the Ella F. White Founders' roll augments the endowment by $100; each name on the "honorary roll" adds $25 to the total, each smaller gift from club or individual is welcome and needed. The new yearbook will carry each gift received up to July 1. Contributions that come in after this date will be included in next year's report, and the jubilee year does not close until October.

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, speaking at the recent convention of the general federation at Kansas City, asked for an aroused public consciousness of the country's women which would solve overnight the situation in which every man, woman and child in America pays a crime bill of $120 annually.

In the final formal message of the retiring president of the general federation, Mrs. Roberta Lawson, she said: "If every government agency, every national and local organization, every citizen in our country, would really try out the Golden Rule, life would reach that higher plane of spiritual existence. We have tried all other things and failed, why not try this? It is the duty of every woman to interest herself in government."

Have you made reservation for the Club Institute in Athens July 7 and 8? There will be a house party in Miller Hall on the coordinate campus of the university where Mrs. Julian McCurry will be hostess for the college. Among the members will be the institute director, Mrs. H. C. Houghton; Florida's president, Mrs. J. Ralston Wells, and Athens leaders, Mesdames Rucker, Pusey and Ritchie. Everything is arranged for your comfort and nothing has to be supplied. Write to Mrs. E. D. Pusey, Athens, for reservation.

Twelve enthusiastic clubwomen

Prominent Clubwomen of Georgia Featured on Club Institute Program

Members of the club institute committee of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, with Mrs. Lamar Rucker as chairman, have arranged a program rich in club news and interest for the two-day sessions of the annual summer institute which will be held in Athens July 7 and 8, in Memorial hall of the University of Georgia.

The menu will be varied in manner of service and satisfying in all details. On Thursday afternoon, at 6 o'clock, the Athens Woman's Club will honor its members, Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, recording secretary of the General Federation, with a reception at "Pinwydd," home of Professor and Mrs. John W. Jenkins, on Milledge circle.

Thursday evening at Lucy Cobb Little theater, there will be a pageant, "Georgia Women's Part in Georgia's Development," directed by Miss Katherine Lanier, chairman of the special committee on urban-rural co-operation, and Miss Laura Blackshear, of Athens.

Mrs. J. W. Bailey, president of Athens Woman's Club, is chairman of the hostess committee, and Mrs. R. H. Powell is chairman of the committee on registration which will be in session Thursday morning before the opening exercises at 9:30 o'clock. For the two days, the fee of $1 will include the two-day luncheon.

That Mrs. H. I. Shingler, of Ashburn, will open the sessions with assembly singing is a magnet of great strength. Mesdames Lamar Rucker, E. D. Pusey, S. V. Sanford and John W. Jenkins, committee on arrangements, will welcome the visitors, and Mrs. Albert Hill, state president, will respond. The president of the Florida federation, Mrs. J. Ralston Wells, of Daytona Beach, will be introduced by Mrs. Hill, and Mrs. H. B. Ritchie will introduce Mrs. H. C. Houghton, of Red Oak, Iowa, who will lead the institute.

At 11 o'clock Mrs. Houghton will deliver an address on "What Is are attending summer school at Emory University as members of the class in forum leadership, taught by Raymond Nixon. This is the second year Emory, through the generous gift of 12 scholarships, has afforded clubwomen the privilege of this class and Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs appreciates the rare opportunity. Attending are Mesdames L. M. Atway, F. C. Durham, E. M. Bailey, of Acworth; Ray Griggers, V. C. Green, of Smyrna, and from Atlanta, Mesdames W. P. Dunn, Herbert Taylor, W. L. Hunnicutt, Hinton Blackshear, E. Stewart, W. L. Ballenger and R. H. Johns. The class will continue for five weeks.

Members of Macon Woman's Club, with the president, Mrs. Leonard Booth, worked in a local department store last week to augment the building fund for their new clubhouse in which they are centering their interest. There will be no vacation of idleness for this ambitious group.

Ninth district executive board roster, published last week, carried the name of Lonie Reece Couch as recording secretary. This should have been listed Mrs. J. C. Harris, which is the same efficient person, only she has changed her name very recently.

Perfect Hiley Belle peaches were received at federation headquarters this week from Mrs. Maxwell Murray, of Fort Valley, who had written the secretary that Third District Federation of Women's Clubs simply had to be suspended while she assisted in marketing the bounteous peach crop. She proved her alibi in a generous way and the secretary has extended the time for her report.

Too often clubwomen forget their club ethics, one of the rules of which is to answer letters promptly. Publication of the annual yearbook is delayed on account of unanswered letters to the club and district presidents who are asking women to serve on their executive boards. One month was allowed for procrastination, but the book material will positively be in the hands of the publisher by July 1.

Mrs. E. M. Bailey, of Acworth, recently elected first vice president of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, was honored at a tea Friday afternoon given by members of the Acworth Carrie Dyer Reading Club at the clubhouse. The affair was in the nature of a surprise to the hostess, who was the recipient of much attention on this lovely occasion. Talks were made by the president, Mrs. E. L. Collins, Mrs. J. E. Good and Mrs. L. M. Atway, expressing the club's deep appreciation of the splendid and unselfish work of Mrs. Bailey, who is a charter member, the large crowd assembling during the afternoon attesting the love and esteem in which she is held. Tea was served by members of the clubroom where brilliant summer flowers were tastefully arranged.

The Challenge of the New Day? Discussion of the Georgia Federation as a "Sturdy Tree" will be led by Mrs. Albert Hill, assisted by Mrs. A. P. Brantley and Mrs. Jenkins. The "groundwork" will be discussed by Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, Mrs. Ralph Butler and Mrs. Harvie Jordan. Tallulah Falls School and "Our New Hope—The Juniors," will be led by Mrs. John K. Ottley, of Atlanta, and Miss Louise House, of Winder.

After luncheon, Mrs. J. Ralston Wells will lead the continued discussion of the "Federation Tree," and will be assisted by Mrs. E. M. Bailey, of Acworth; Mrs. James R. Little, of Atlanta; Mrs. J. W. Oxford, of Concord; Mrs. Emma Holbrook, of Fairview, member group of Franklin County Federation. Taking part in the panel discussion on "Are We Meeting the Challenge of the Day?" will be Mrs. Albert Akers, College Park; Mrs. Dice R. Anderson, Macon; Mrs. L. M. Bradford, Manchester; Mrs. Wilbur Dunson, LaGrange; Mrs. A. B. Conger, Bainbridge; Mrs. J. M. Murrah, Columbus; Mrs. Phil Ringel, Brunswick.

"Casting Our Shadows" will be subject of a talk by Mrs. Houghton, which will close the Thursday session. At 6 o'clock there will be a reception given by the Athens Woman's Club honoring its members, Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, recently elected recording secretary of the General Federation.

Mrs. Ritchie will conduct the parliamentary drill Friday morning at 10 o'clock. The "Three Ps of Progress: Program, Procedure and Project," will be the subject of Mrs. Houghton's talk at 11 o'clock. Discussion on "Necessities for Growth" will be led by Mrs. Frank Dennis, of Eatonton, assisted by Mrs. J. W. Mobley, of Pelham. Mrs. Houghton and Mrs. Wells will discuss "The Federation—A Sturdy Oak," and will answer questions asked by members of the institute.

Nominating Group Is Appointed By Lavonia Club

Lavonia Woman's Club held its final meeting of the season at the home of Misses Sarah and Leila Stovall, with Mesdames Ralph Cannon and Claude Phillips assisting hostesses. Annual reports heard were interesting and gratifying, showing that under the leadership of the president, Mrs. Alton Haley, the club has completed a successful year. In giving an account of her stewardship, Mrs. Haley reviewed the definite achievements of the club and expressed her appreciation for the hearty co-operation.

Members of the committee on nominations appointed were Mesdames O. D. Cannon, R. R. Cason, Duane Shirley, J. E. Conwell and Ralph Cannon. In order to pay for publishing a yearbook, it was decided to charge 10 cents a copy. Mrs. Alton P. Haley, the president, reported that Lavonia had been selected for a speakers' forum. Members will co-operate with the Lions' Club in sponsoring a county fair in the autumn. The club fostered the movement designed to stamp out syphilis and the request will be made that the grand jury petition the enactment of regulatory measures contributing to this end.

Amendments to the by-laws approved were that meetings be held the year round; that school teachers be associate members. As chairman of the program, Mrs. Dab Cheek gave the main points from the annual message of the state president, Mrs. A. B. Conger. Miss Louise Chappelear concluded the program with a piano solo, after which a social hour was enjoyed with the hostesses.

Meansville Club.

The Meansville Woman's Club meeting on June 11 was particularly inspirational with eight of the junior high school students being featured.

The general plan for the year's monthly program, character training. Each month outstanding virtues are followed. Refinement with the sub-virtues, gentleness, sympathy, courtesy, modesty, kindness, poise and personal appearance, was beautifully portrayed by the following girls: June Stamey, Doris Lifsey, Elsie Parker, Emily Horne, Frances Horne, Araminta Kendrick, Hazel Langford and Patricia Slade.

Each club member gained inspiration from the reports, featuring selected quotations, poems and impressive illustrations. A Scripture lesson was given by Mrs. Robert Carmichael, followed by a piano selection by Mrs. Pauline Fackler. The club has an average attendance of 45.

Parliamentary Law Pointers Are Given.

It is the duty of every state, district and county chairman of a department, division or committee in Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs immediately, on receiving notice of her appointment, to inform herself as to the program of work being promoted by the organization. She should read the year book; procure and study all available material; especially should she study everything pertaining to her respective activity that is published on the club flag or in the general Federation magazine, The Clubwoman.

Preparation should include also, a study of the geographical area for which appointment has been accepted, and a conference should be held with those particularly interested in the same line of work. After this comprehensive study, each chairman will be prepared for the instructions pertaining to the federation program that will come to her from her superior officer. This should harmonize with the clubs in her community, with other organizations, with the needs of the locality, and then proceed to work with all her ability to accomplish the job.

may be a public welfare or health project, and it may be made possible through the co-operation of all local welfare agencies; or an art project promoted by art lovers of the community; or an educational project existing in the interest of the school, libraries, students of all kinds. It may be a citizenship celebration or a series of international relations round table discussions; but whatever phase of federation work is desired, the chairman, by her knowledge and active interest, should be associated in the minds of the community and the clubwomen with that particular thing.

All outgoing chairmen should report to their successors all work undertaken and all accomplishments. All literature received by outgoing officers should be turned over to the incoming official, since federation literature belongs to the office, not to the individual. This is in keeping with the continuation policy which is being stressed so constantly in federation activities. The summer months provide an excellent time for preparation and for getting acquainted with co-workers. Be prepared to submit objectives for the year to the autumn meeting of the state executive board on the sixth of October.

Sixth District Leader Acclaimed By Appreciative Co-Workers

MRS. CARL K. NELSON, OF DUBLIN.

Mrs. Carl K. Nelson, of Dublin, who, as president, assumed leadership of the Sixth District Federation of Women's Clubs, has the highest recommendations from her appreciative co-workers. As Dorothy Fordham, she attended Bessie Tift College, received her A. B. degree from the Georgia State Woman's College at Milledgeville, and her "master's" from the University of Georgia. She taught in Dublin high school until her marriage to Carl K. Nelson, Dublin attorney and president of the Lions' Club. They have a small boy of 7.

Mrs. Nelson has been active in club work, having been prominent in the Parnassus Club of Dublin and in the district, where she was chairman of adult education before being elected to the office of second vice president. She was the district's choice for president after the resignation of Mrs. W. W. Stone. Her able first vice president is Mrs. Leonard Booth, president of the Macon Woman's Club. Mrs. Nelson writes that she will announce her executive board as promptly as possible and her official family and the members of Georgia Federation offer her full co-operation during her administration.

Americanism for D.A.R. Stressed By Mrs. Bun Wylie, State Chairman

By Mrs. J. Harold Nicholson, Assistant Editor Georgia D. A. R. The making of true citizens, which is loyalty to country, government and flag, is emphasized as important work for the D. A. R. by Mrs. Bun Wylie, honorary state regent and state chairman of Americanism committee, Mrs. Wylie says:

"In this day and time when 'isms' of all kinds are battling for a place in the world, it behooves American citizens to be aroused concerning the greatest work in our country today—Americanism—the making of true, loyal American citizens—be they foreign or home born. Much has been heard in recent years of 'Americanization' and much of the discussion rests on a false basis—that the end to be attained is to reform the minds and character of our immigrants so as to make them as closely as possible the Anglo-Saxon type. Many think the new arrival has nothing to contribute; that it is his duty to abandon his heritage, language, habits, customs and tastes and magically emerge as an American citizen. It will take years of study, teaching, and experience to evolve out of this American mixture something of a homogeneous type—and we are not assured that this new race will have all the physical, mental and moral characteristics of the descendants of the Mayflower, or settlers of Jamestown.

The so-called 'native American' has many attributes, surpassing his fellow-citizens of other derivations, yet in traits essential to a fully rounded man, he has much to learn from various sections of Europe. Numerous as are the faults of America, the country unquestionably rests on a more solid rock than any other in the world today. Freedom, justice, popular enlightenment, progress in all the arts and comforts of life exist here on a more comprehensive scale, than history has ever known. Endowing the common citizen with self-respect, dignity, social and economic opportunity, making him a 'man' in the complete sense of the word—such is America's contribution to human progress. The 'new citizen' not only enjoys these privileges, but becomes an influential force in their more perfect realization. He should regard it his first duty to participate in this great work.

The as an American citizen is based upon two great charters: the Declaration of Independence, which sets forth the circumstances under which the nation came into being and the objectives it hopes to attain; the other is the federal Constitution which lays down the laws or mechanism for achieving these results. It is the duty of every American citizen to study these American textbooks, which will give us a solid understanding of American citizenship. The everyday American citizen, for whom the Constitution was drawn, is more prosperous, better satisfied with life, has wider opportunities for realizing his finest aspirations than the citizen of any other country on earth.

"It was Daniel Webster who said: 'I was born an American; I live an American; I shall die an American, and I intend to perform the duties incumbent upon me in that character to the end of my life. I mean to do this with absolute disregard of personal consequences. What are the individual man—with all the good or evil that may befall him, in comparison with the good or evil which may befall a great country?'

"The treasurer reported that school medals were received and presented at commencement. The new regent will proceed with plans for the yearbook, and announcement was made of the appointment of Mrs. Albert Sealy as state chairman of the D. A. R. manual for citizenship.

New officers installed were: Mrs. S. A. Hearn, regent; Mrs. A. K. Walker, vice regent; Mrs. Albert Sealy, recording secretary; Miss Alva Hatcher, corresponding secretary; Miss Claude Blackwell, treasurer; Mrs. E. C. Teel, historian; Mrs. N. M. Weaver, registrar. Mrs. Hearn paid tribute to the retiring regent, Mrs. Albert Sealy.

The chapter presented an American flag and pole to the Cuthbert public school recently with ceremonies on the campus. John Huie, cornetist, sounded the call to colors, after which "America" was sung, accompanied by three

Griffin Clubwomen Sponsor Benefit For 'T.B.' Cottage

Griffin Woman's Club, of which Mrs. Joe Vason is president, sponsored a "womanless wedding" as a benefit to raise money for a tuberculosis cottage to be given to the Tuberculosis Association for use in Griffin. The entertainment was directed by Ann Powers and music was furnished by Warren Halsten, pianist, and Eddie Goldenberg, violinist. The following staged the wedding of Jack and Jill, the bride, Lum Bonnet; the groom, Grady Daniel. The minister was H. G. Hutchinson. Matron of honor, J. B. Moore; maid of honor, Frank Hood; bride's maids, John Hammond, Ed Willis, T. O. Vinson, Censon Vance; ushers, Preston Bunn, Dewey Hopper; ribbon-bearers, D. M. Malone, G. B. Rice, James Gibson, Harvie Reeves; flower girls, J. M. Whitten, Chapel Johnson, Dick Mitchell, H. Hembrick.

Guests included Mrs. Roosevelt, impersonated by Jim McCoy; Duchess of Windsor, Joe Vason; Maggie (Jigg's wife), Marvin Beckman; Jeanette McDonald, A. B. Other guests were Ned Roberts, Martha Camp Lewis, Bob Arnold, Jane Rogers, Dab Lawrence, Jacqueline Clark, Bobby McDonald, Bobby Shepard, Don Gore, Jene Evans, Eloise Molder, Bell Marie Adams, Georgia Bell Christopher, Gloria Calahan, Mary Wheaton, Betty Capel, Jane Molder, Joan Virden, Delphine Powell, Sara Wheaton, Wilson Allen, Allen Imes, Sally Whately.

Uncle Remus Club Plans Garden Center.

A garden center is being established at the Eatonton Public Library by the home and garden department of the Uncle Remus Woman's Club. The purpose of the center will be to make available books, magazines and catalogs to all interested in beautifying home or public grounds. Speakers and open forums will be a feature of the center this fall.

Books will not be available for circulation but may be enjoyed during library hours. The following books have been placed on the shelf: A complete and valuable book of garden plans, from Wayside Garden Company; "Book of Shrubs," by Hottes; "Vines for Every Garden," by Jenkins; "Spring Flowers From Bulbs," by Norton; "Fragrance in the Garden," by Dorrane; "The Blossom Circle of the Year in Southern Gardens," by Dillion; "The Plant Doctor," by Westcott; "Modernistic Flower Arranging," by Mussen; also pamphlets on care of roses and lilies. Discussion of "Garden Planning" led by Mrs. Tom House and a review of the Pulitzer prize-winning novel, "The Late Mr. Appleby," by Wilson Knight, will be features of June meeting of the fine arts and home planning department, held at the home of Mrs. John L. Adams.

cornetists: John Huie, John Gunn and Jim Winslow. Mrs. Albert Sealy, regent, extended greetings to Mrs. Emilio Suarez, who presented the flag and spoke on its history and meaning. T. E. Wilkinson, superintendent of the school, officially accepted the gift. It was raised by a group of Girl Scouts led by Miss Echo Patterson, and included Misses Anne Phillips, Clarice Atkins, Bonnie Bell and Betty Phillips. The salute and oath of allegiance followed, led by Miss Elizabeth Powell.

Mrs. Ober D. Worthen, of Vidalia, has recently been honored by Mrs. Henry Roberts, president general N. S. D. A. R., having been appointed national chairman of conservation and thrift. Mrs. Worthen served as state treasurer, during Mrs. Roberts' term as treasurer general N. S. D. A. R.

Hancock Chapter D. A. R., of Sparta, met recently at the country home of Mrs. W. S. Rives, with Miss Lora West as assistant hostess. Reports of officers and chairmen of committees followed the opening exercises.

Newly elected officers are: Regent, Mrs. Frank M. Tufts; vice regent, Mrs. W. T. Moore; secretary, Mrs. T. C. Moore; treasurer, Mrs. H. A. Berry; chaplain, Mrs. F. H. Britt; registrar, Mrs. George S. Rives; historian, Miss Emily Brown; curator, Mrs. C. S. Cary; press reporter, Mrs. Loyd Barrett.

Mrs. George S. Rives was leader of the program, which consisted of the following numbers: Music, Mrs. George F. Dickens; "The Flag, Comments and Quotations," Mrs. George S. Rives; James Madison, Mrs. H. A. Berry; "Alexander Hamilton," Miss Ruth Lowe; "Benjamin Franklin," Mrs. G. L. Dickens; "Two Original Songs," Mrs. George F. Dickens.

Price—Wynne.

Mrs. and Mrs. Amasa Kellogg Brown announced the marriage of their daughter, Mrs. Barbara Brown Price, to Lucien Fischer Wynne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Wynne, on April 11.

First District W. C. T. U. Holds Quarterly Meeting at Lyons, Ga.

The first district W. C. T. U. of which Miss Martha Kelley, of Reidsville, is president, is a gold star district. This is the second district to win a gold star in this state. The first was the eighth district south, Mrs. A. E. Martin, of Waycross, president.

The first district has just held its third quarterly meeting for this year at Lyons.

At the morning session the welcome was given by Miss Parepa Moore of Lyons, response by Mrs. R. N. Rogers, of Vidalia. Opening prayer was led by Mrs. St. James B. Alexander, of Reidsville. An evangelistic message was brought by Rev. J. M. Glenn.

Mrs. C. L. Cowart gave an inspiring report of work among the children and young people of Greenville.

Mrs. Rogers, of Vidalia, reported fine essay and medal contests held in her town.

State Corresponding Secretary Mrs. R. L. Miller brought a forceful message on citizenship, Miss Martha Page, of Lyons, who recently won the second place in state meet, gave a violin solo, "The Holy City." Miss Wimberly, of Waynesboro, led the nontide prayer. Dr. J. M. Glenn addressed the delegates on "The Forward Temperance Movement of Youth."

During luncheon Ouida Suddeth, best of medal contestants in high school, gave a reading, Roy Grace led a program of pep songs. Mrs. J. P. McNatt at the piano. Charles Branch, who recently won first place in district meet and second place in state meet, sang "Open Mine Eyes." Flag poem was given by Katherine Page. The Kiwanis club complemented the delegates with ice cold soft drinks.

Mrs. Mary Scott Russell, leader of the membership campaign as well as state president, reports that 525 women have joined the Georgia W. C. T. U. this year; an average of 25 new members every month since the state convention.

Three new gold star unions this week: West Point, Manchester and Reidsville. Also four double gold star unions: Waynesboro, Pelham, McPherson, Atlanta; and Peachtree road, Atlanta. A double gold star union is one that has contributed $8 per capita or more to the Million Dollar National Temperance Education Fund.

"The Beneficent Reprobate," a film pronounced by experts to be technically correct and scientifically accurate, which shows what alcohol is and what it does is being distributed throughout the country without charge, as a part of the W. C. T. U. program of alcohol education. The film is being shown at the August churches Friday. The district president, Mrs. C. C. McGinty, of Augusta, reports that much good was accomplished, and the teacher of science at the academy desires to show the film in the school which is this fall.

Florence Elizabeth Atkins, granddaughter of Florence Ewell Atkins, of Milledgeville, carried off almost all the honors at her recent graduation from Peabody High. The chief of them being the D. A. R. medal—known as the citizenship medal—and awarded for outstanding patriotism, dependability, leadership, co-operation and cleanness of speech and habits.

Macon W. C. T. U. has honored the memory of Mrs. Ellen Grille-wed Hardman, and Mrs. Lella Mart Warwick, outstanding temperance workers by placing two sets of books on the nature and effects of alcohol in the libraries. Vienna and Milledgeville unions have recently placed shelves of books and pamphlets on the subject of "Alcohol, Its Nature and Effects," in their respective libraries.

South Carolina Club.

The South Carolina Club holds a luncheon meeting tomorrow at the Atlanta Woman's Club at 11 o'clock. Mrs. Olin Coffey, the president, will preside and taking part on the program will be Judge John D. Humphries who will speak on "The South Carolina Judiciary," and Mrs. George Adams, who will speak on "South Carolina Homes and Gardens."

Scott—Locklear.

Mrs. Colonel Minton DeVore, of Alpharetta, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Catherine Scott, to Robert W. Locklear, of Atlanta, which took place on June 4.

Miss Mary Bennett Weds Thomas Curlee

ATHENS, Ga., June 25.—The marriage of Miss Mary Edna Bennett, daughter of M. A. Bennett and the late Mrs. M. A. Bennett, of Jackson Springs, N. C., to Thomas Haywood Curlee, of Ansonville, N. C., and Orangeburg, S. C., was solemnized June 14 at 6 o'clock at the home of the bride's brother, B. M. Bennett, in Athens, Ga.

Rev. Claude Fullerton, student pastor of the First Methodist church, officiated, and a musical program was rendered by Mrs. Claude Fullerton, pianist, and Miss Edna Sanders, soloist.

The bride was gowned in white moire taffeta, with a closely fitted bodice and puffed sleeves. She wore a finger tip veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of calla lilies.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Bennett entertained at an informal reception. Assisting in entertaining were Miss Shirley Allgood, Mrs. O. W. Haygood and Mrs. E. T. Harms and Miss Doris Jordan kept the bride's book.

Following the reception the couple left for a wedding trip in the mountains and on their return, will reside in Orangeburg, S. C.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were M. A. Bennett, the bride's father, and Miss Edith Poole, of Jackson Springs, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Stuart, of Raleigh, N. C.; Miss Nancy Curlee and Henry Curlee, of Ansonville, N. C.; Dr. and Mrs. L. S. Bennett, of Fayetteville, Ark., and New York city, and Franklin M. Bennett, of Fayetteville, Ark.

The bride attended the University of Georgia. She is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic fraternity; Phi Upsilon Omicron, home economics fraternity; Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman honorary fraternity, and she served as president of the college 4-H Club her senior year. Since the first of the year she has been teaching at Blue Ridge, Ga.

The groom is a graduate of the University of North Carolina. For three years he was a member of the track team, being co-captain of the cross-country team in 1931. Mr. Curlee was principal of the Morven City school, Morven, N. C., one year, and since has been in business in Orangeburg, S. C.

Gillespie-Thompson Plans Announced

THOMASVILLE, Ga., June 25. Interest centers in the announcement of the wedding plans of Miss Mary Carolyn Gillespie and the Rev. Cecil Asbury Thompson, of Valdosta, whose marriage will take place in the First Presbyterian church here on Tuesday at 8:30 o'clock. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Richard T. Gillespie, brother of the bride.

A program of wedding music will be given by Cyrus Mallard, organist, of Thomasville, and Mrs. A. V. Cortelyou, of Marietta, Ga. Miss Gillespie has chosen for her matron of honor her cousin, Mrs. Charles New, of Greenville, S. C., and for her maid of honor Miss Frances James, of Atlanta, Ga. The bridesmaids will be Miss Alice Gillespie, of Effingham, S. C.; Miss Josephine Greene, of Sumter, S. C.; Miss Annie Hall Sims, of Rock Hill, S. C.; Mrs. John Richards, of Waynesboro, and Miss Lucille Cairns, of Gainesville, Fla. The flower maids are little Misses Patricia Cortelyou and Harriet Mitchell, of Marietta.

Paul Lamar Dorn, of Atlanta, will be Mr. Thompson's best man. The groomsmen will be Thomas Mitchell and Wallace Montgomery, both of Marietta; Rev. John Richards, of Waynesboro; Rev. Freeman Parker, of Tifton; Rev. John H. McKinnon, of Cairo, and Lindsey Watt, of Thomasville.

The bride will be given in marriage by her brother, Dr. Robert Hall Gillespie, of Atlanta. Mrs. Gillespie is being widely entertained at a series of pre-nuptial parties.

Marriage Is Announced Today

Mrs. William B. Schreeder, the former Miss Elizabeth Johns, whose marriage is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Johns, of Lullwater road, the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Schreeder was solemnized last February 3. The bride and groom have a wide circle of friends interested in the announcement of their marriage and they will be popular additions to Atlanta's young married ranks.

PLEASANT HOMES

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

DISCOVERING THE FORGOTTEN ROOM -- THE DINING ROOM

Eighteenth century mahogany furniture is in the end the handsomest thing of all for a dining room of dignity. Here it is shown against walls papered in interesting scenic panels and with a Chinese rug.

New Furniture or Old—Color Is the Formula; Decide What Duty Your Dining Room Must Do, Then Decorate to Fit.

In many homes in America the dining room is the forgotten room. By that we do not mean that room furniture has, in years past, become rather stereotyped, and perhaps that monotony is contagious. After all, any lady may decide, you can't get very whipped up over a table, a china cabinet, a sideboard and six chairs. However, they're necessities, as you'll discover if you try to eliminate any one of them.

And yet we've always felt pretty sentimental about dining rooms, for here it is that the family gather together from all their various fields of activities. Here it is that the keynote of family life is established, whether it is to be gay and genial, sober and sedate. So it deserves more than an it-will-do attitude.

Things are looking up for the dining rooms of the nation, however. More and more ladies are demanding that different touch, that unmistakable stamp of individuality in their dining places. And the forgotten room is remembered at last. Many brides are demanding something better than the old combination of rose-and-blue and rust-and-green.

First of all, the furniture should be as good as you can afford. Nothing does so much for a hostess as the knowledge that she is flanked by furniture of dignity and character. Keep style in mind in selecting dining room furniture but don't be carried away by it at the expense of comfort. After all, dining chairs will get a lot of sitting through the years, so they should be easy on the human frame. Then your dining furniture should be staunch to hold the men of the family without sighs and groans.

All things considered, eighteenth century mahogany seems to be about the best choice if you want the points stressed above in a wood of some formality. This period has a classic line and a graciousness that isn't likely to go out of style.

If you want something simpler and heartier, then maple in early American design is the answer to your problem. Walnut in either Queen Anne or provincial design has its own appeal. Oak in the heavier styles still has its place—grand if you have a beamed ceiling to contend with and wood paneling.

To Save the Day. In re-doing the dining room there's one happy fact to remember though. If you can't afford, or don't need all new furniture, you can still perk up the old picture by variations in arrangement. By color of walls, rugs, draperies and accessories. Sometimes one or two new pieces will save the day. Many an out-of-date set of furniture has been completely rejuvenated by the discarding of the old and the widely sideboard and adding a pair of corner cupboards. Many times the side pieces are good—the buffet or serving tables—but the table is outmoded. Sometimes it is a matter of new upholstery for the chairs. Or a new mirror over the buffet.

With a little thought and planning, almost any suite of furniture, provided its lines are basically good, can be made to sit up and take notice if sufficient effort and imagination are used in the general setting of the room.

Let's consider a room that had a very discouraging beginning but now is fresh and bright and blithe and gay. Nothing could seem more disconsolate than a set of 1900 golden oak dining furniture—squarish table, uncompromising leather-seated chairs, unwieldy sideboard and china closet. With the introduction of a little modern color and imagination a miracle was performed! The walls of the room were papered, using a paper with a beige background and a small lighter beige symmetrical pattern. The floor was carpeted in a deep red-brown shade. The fancy china closet was sold to a grateful second-hand man and a pair of hanging shelves added. The varnish was removed from the rest of the furniture, making it look almost bleached blonde. The chair seats gladly gave up their dull leather coverings and jade green leatherette took their place. The mirror was removed from the sideboard and an oil painting of a landscape was hung in its place. Curtains were plain beige to add to the wall paper and then, to add zest, the windows got Venetian blinds in jade green. What happened? For the first time the honey tones of the furniture were appreciated against the dark rug. And the dining room is now a proud place instead of a forgotten corner.

Then there are any number of little tricks for little changes that can make all the difference. Be a bit audacious in your dining room, and watch the general family appetite pep up. If your dining room has a fireplace (lucky lady!) decide to treat the room as a half-and-half proposition (as sitting room as well as dining room), thus adding an extra entertaining corner to the house. If your dining table isn't too large, place it nearer one set of windows instead of right in the middle of the room. Add a pair of comfortable chairs—slip covered in harmony with the dining room curtains or rug—near the fireplace. What could be better for a family that likes privacy for reading or studying now and then. Sometimes a dining room can give up a wall for the muse of music. A small spinet type of miniature upright piano might fit in very well with a colonial or English dining room—and make a room used only once or twice a day into a more serviceable part of the house.

For a Handy Hand. If discarding an out-moded sideboard cramps your style for drawer space, try having a carpenter build a unit into the room. Take the end wall of the dining room, for instance. A niche formed by two cupboards at either end can be filled in, buffet height, with drawers and cupboards, the remainder outlined with a ply-board valance and the interior lighted indirectly for an unusual effect. Paint the entire arrangement the same color as the dining room walls and what you will lose in actual room space will be balanced by the advantage of plenty of cupboard space for linen china. And the indirectly lighted niche is a splendid place to display unusual silver arrangements, a fine picture or a holiday shrine-like decoration.

If real elegance is your forte, you might try dark olive green walls, chateaufort draperies, at least one picture framed in wide, old gold and a fine oriental rug on the floor. This combination is guaranteed to give that staid dinner feeling and will make even a lowly stew into a distinguished chef's specialty ragout.

Let's have a new deal all our own for the forgotten room—the dining room.

WOOD WILL OPEN CAMPAIGN TUESDAY

5th District Candidate To Speak in East Point.

C. L. Wood, candidate for congress from the fifth district, will open his campaign at a mass meeting at East Point's city auditorium at 8 o'clock Tuesday night, he announced yesterday.

His speech will touch on the many issues of vital interest to the south, friends said as they urged residents of Rockdale, DeKalb and Fulton counties to attend the meeting. Wood said he intends to conduct a vigorous campaign all over the district.

comfortably launched our dream-land journey. "Finally, climaxing the drudgery of the day, they have often transfixed us in the ethereal mystery of night with the strange melody of their spirituals. Though they have been our slaves, they have served with devotion. They have revered our loved ones and mourned our dead. I submit the following question in response to all this, Can we do less than vouchsafe to our brothers in color reasonable protection against disease, suffering and death, and the best possible chance to achieve the fullness of life?"

Miss Jessie Lawrence To Wed Mr. Denney at July Ceremony

The interest of hosts of friends centers in the announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lawrence, of Habersham county, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jessie Lawrence, to Louis Earl Denney, of this city, the marriage to take place in July.

Miss Lawrence is librarian of the Lighthouse for the Blind, a branch of the Carnegie Library of Atlanta. She is a first honor graduate of Tallulah Falls high school and holds an A. B. degree from the University of Georgia and the library science degree of Emory

Smallens To Open Fourth Season Of Lewisohn Concert Broadcasts

Carole Lombard To Be Guest On The Don Ameche Variety Hour.

Alexander Smallens will conduct the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra in the opening program of its fourth season of broadcasts from the Lewisohn stadium to be heard over WGST at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

These stadium concerts, which enter their 21st season, are to be broadcast each Sunday at the same hour for eight weeks from the outdoor amphitheater of the College of the City of New York.

Smallens will direct the first two programs and return to conduct a third on August 7. The program includes: Overture to "The Bartered Bride," by Smetana; "Scherzando," by Rimsky-Korsakoff.

VARIETY.

Charles McCarthy winds up his birthday celebration which has been going on for the whole month of June, when he entertains Carole Lombard on the Don Ameche Hour to be heard over WSB at 7 o'clock tonight. Carole Lombard was the first of the "glamour girls" to welcome Charlie to Hollywood a year ago and Charlie thought his birthday celebration wouldn't be complete unless he invited her back to the program again.

Don Ameche, Edgar Bergen, John Carter, the Stroud Twins, Dorothy Lamour and Robert Armstrong's Orchestra are the two other features of the hour-long variety show.

EVERYBODY'S MUSIC.

The third of Brahms' four symphonies will be given its first performance in 1883 at Vienna and despite the hissing of a determined group of Wagner-Bruckner supporters who had attended in a malicious spirit, it proved a triumph for the composer.

MUSIC HALL.

For the third broadcast in its current summer radio festival of great chamber music, Radio City Music Hall will present the distinguished Coolidge Quartet during the program to be heard over WAGA at 11:30 o'clock this morning.

This fine ensemble will bring a program of music by Schubert, Beethoven, Mendelssohn and Paul Hindemith.

The personnel of the Coolidge Quartet comprises William Kroll and Nicolai Berezowski, violinists; Nicolas Mdelavan, violonist; and Victor Gottlieb, cellist.

The program includes: Quartet in G Minor, Opus Posth. by Schubert; (Allegro con brio) (Andantino) (Menuetto-Allegro vivace) (Allegro) Middle Movement from Quartet Number 3 Opus 22, by Paul Hindemith; Scherzo from Quartet in E Minor, by Mendelssohn; Quartet Number 2, Opus 18, by Beethoven; (Allegro) (Adagio cantabile, allegro) (Andantino) (Allegro molto, quasi presto)

Miss Ernelle Blair
Weds James Fife
At Church Rites

The marriage of Miss Ernelle Ruth Blair and James Alexander Fife took place at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Druid Hills Presbyterian church. Dr. C. B. Williams, of Gastonia, N. C., officiated.

The altar was decorated with palms and white gladioli.

Mrs. S. M. Hastings presented a program of wedding music during the ceremony, and Mrs. Walter Ward sang.

Groomsmen were Charles Lawton, of Greenville, S. C., and Harry Hagan, of Due West, S. C., and Billy Fife was best man.

Miss Ruby Blair, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and only attendant. She wore a gown of robin's egg blue chiffon posed over taffeta. The dress had a V-shaped neckline, short puffed sleeves and a full skirt. Her bouquet was of pink rosebuds and blue delphinium.

The bride entered with her father, John Henry Blair, who gave her in marriage. Her gown was of white chiffon over white satin and was made with a V-shaped neckline and puffed sleeves of lace. She carried a white handkerchief which the groom's mother carried in her wedding and wore a gold pin which her mother wore in her wedding. It was a gift of the bride's grandfather, J. J. Brown. Her veil was of illusion tulle made with three folds over the head and held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms. Her flowers were calla lilies.

The bride's mother, Mrs. John Henry Blair, wore a navy blue lace dress with navy accessories and her bouquet was of pastel sweetpeas.

Mrs. Herchel A. Fife, mother of the groom, wore ablack chiffon dress with white accessories and a shoulder spray of white sweetpeas.

After the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception at their home on Allen road. The house was decorated with pastel garden flowers. A three-tier wedding cake centered the dining room table.

Serving punch were Miss Lena Wagon, Miss Majorie Biggs and Miss Catherine King. The bride's book was kept by Miss Floyd Butler.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Fife left for a wedding trip to Florida before going to Ware Shoals, S. C., where they will reside. The bride chose for traveling a light blue crepe model navy and white sash and accessories.

Miss Hearn Weds Milton McGarrity.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Hearn, of College Park, of the marriage of their daughter, Hazel Christine, and Hugh Milton McGarrity, of Atlanta, the ceremony having been solemnized on June 18 by Rev. Walter Scott Robison, pastor of the College Park Methodist church at the bride's home.

The nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. C. E. Thrasher, of Hapeville, and the marriage vows were taken in the living room before an improvised altar of banked ferns interspersed with lighted tapers in crystal candelabras.

The bride wore a street-length model of white Ming-Toy crepe with Chantilly lace bolero. A sash to match the material was tied in front ending in streamers. Her hat was of white velvet with short dotted veil and she wore white accessories and corsage of gardenias and lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a pair of old gold bracelets belonging to and worn by Mrs. Freeman Doss at her wedding and also by Mrs. Doss' mother on her wedding day.

Mrs. Hearn, mother of the bride, wore a floral print in Copenhagen and white, with blue sash and her corsage was of white carnations. The bride's book was kept by Miss Kate Cagle.

Mr. McGarrity and his bride left by motor for a wedding trip to Florida, the bride traveling in an ensemble of navy blue silk crepe with hat and accessories to match. Upon their return they reside at 115 West Vesta avenue, in College Park.

Miss Kelman Weds Sam Moskowitz.

Miss Ruth Kelman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Kelman, became the bride of Sam Moskowitz, of New York, at a beautiful ceremony at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Max Danneman, on Atlanta avenue, on June 19, with the Rabbi Harry H. Epstein officiating.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Milton Danneman, as matron of honor. She was gownned in a navy blue lace and wore a corsage of red roses.

The bride entered with her parents, who gave her in marriage, and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Joseph Kelman. Also attending the groom were Mr. and Mrs. Mose Moskowitz.

The bride wore a net dress of navy blue with harmonizing accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Max Danneman were hosts at a reception. Quantities of garden flowers were used in the reception rooms.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Moskowitz left for New York, where they will reside.

Akin-Lomax.

Mr. and Mrs. Leemon R. Akin announce the marriage of their daughter, Dorothy Harriette, to William Hudson Lomax, the marriage having been solemnized June 20.

Miss Jane Clark To Become Bride Of Dr. Dismukes, of Ft. McPherson

DUNEDIN, Fla., June 25.—The interest of hosts of friends in army and civilian circles centers today in the announcement made by Colonel John A. Clark, U. S. A., and Mrs. Clark, of Dunedin, formerly of Atlanta, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Meriam Jane Clark, to Dr. Jackson B. Dismukes, of Fort McPherson. The marriage of Miss Clark and Dr. Dismukes will be solemnized on July 6 at the home of Colonel and Mrs. Clark in Dunedin.

Miss Clark is a popular member of the army's younger contingent. She was born in Washington, D. C., and has lived in various sections of the world in which her father was stationed with the United States army. She received her education at Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash., and Agnes Scott College.

The bride-elect's father has a long and notable career in the medical corps of the United States army. At the time of his retirement a year ago he was surgeon of the fourth corps area with headquarters in Atlanta.

Miss Clark is the sister of John A. Clark Jr., of New York; Robert S. Clark, United States navy, now on duty with the Asiatic fleet in Hongkong, China, and of Mrs. Paul Vasser Seydel, of Atlanta.

Dr. Dismukes was born in Geneva, Ala. He studied medicine at the University of Alabama and at the University of Illinois. He served his internship at the Cook County hospital in Chicago and at the Charity hospital in New Orleans. Dr. Dismukes also instructed in the medical schools of the University of Illinois and at the Louisiana State University. Since coming to Atlanta he has been on duty as reserve medical officer at the station hospital at Fort McPherson.

The groom-to-be is a representative of pioneer families in the south. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Lewis L. Dismukes, of Geneva, Ala. His mother was before her marriage Miss Gertrude Justice, member of a prominent Alabama family. His father, Dr. Dismukes, is of French pioneer descent and is one of Alabama's most valued citizens.

The groom-elect is the brother of Henry Dismukes, Mrs. Carlton Collins and Miss Mary Dismukes, of Geneva, Ala., and of Lewis L. Dismukes Jr., of Montgomery.

After their marriage Dr. Dismukes and his bride will go to Miami Beach, Fla., where the former will begin private practice of medicine.

Trousseau-Tea Given For Miss Bellinger.

Miss Florence Bellinger, whose marriage to Adolph William Beckmann will take place on July 2, was central figure at the trousseau tea given by her mother, Mrs. B. H. Bellinger, at the home on Bonaventure avenue yesterday.

Mrs. Bellinger and her daughter received the guests in the living room, which was decorated with gladioli, roses and snapdragons. The dining room table was overlaid with a lace cover, in the center of which was a crystal bowl of yellow roses.

The guests included Misses Emily Perkerson, Elizabeth Bodne, Mae and Algie Currie and Mesdames H. E. Doster, Sam B. Hubbard, John Poole, Alonzo Norris, W. Monroe Butler, Albert Erwin Jr., C. C. Marshall and Richard Carlsen.

Miss Verna Lou Jackson Becomes Bride of R. E. Hilburn at Church

Miss Verna Lou Jackson became the bride of Ralph Edward Hilburn at a beautiful ceremony taking place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Rock Springs Presbyterian church. The Rev. Henry Edward Russell, pastor of the church, officiated in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives.

Mrs. Ben Berry, soloist, and Roland Tomlinson, organist, gave a musical program prior to and during the assembling of the guests. Palms and ferns were banked in front of the altar and placed amid the greenery were seven-branched candelabra holding white tapers. Floor baskets of Easter lilies and white snapdragons were placed at intervals, adding to the effective decoration in the church.

Ushers were Champ Jackson, brother of the bride; Brotherton Bullard, Stephen A. Avery and Jessie James, of Waycross. The best man was Robert W. Wynne.

Miss Verna Jackson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Alma Jackson, another sister of the bride, and Miss Sarah Thompson, of Gainesville. The attendants wore similar models of marquisette, fashioned on empire lines and accented by contrasting bands of grosgrain ribbon, which bound the ruffles on the skirts. The maid of honor wore hyacinth blue marquisette and the bridesmaids wore aqua and pink. The attendants wore veils of French maline, trimmed with pastel flowers which formed a halo around their heads and carried bouquets of spring flowers in pastel shades.

The lovely bride entered with her brother, William L. Jackson, who gave her in marriage. She was becomingly gowned in imported white net, trimmed with Valencia lace medallions and made on old-fashioned lines with a basque waist and full skirt. She wore a shoulder length veil trimmed in lace and caught to her hair with a halo of orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Arthur Lonzo Jackson, of Dahlgren, mother of the bride, wore a navy blue chiffon model in floral design with white hat and accessories and corsage of yellow roses and valley lilies. Mrs. N. E. Hilburn, mother of the groom, wore triple sheer round thread voile in floral design with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow roses and valley lilies.

Following the ceremony the couple left on their wedding trip to the North Carolina mountains.

after which they will reside at 858 Springdale road, N. E. The bride traveled in a navy blue gaberdine suit with white organdy blouse and white accessories. Her corsage was of sweetheart roses.

Atlanta Society Packs Its Luggage For Summer Travel in Foreign Lands

By Sally Forth.

SUMMER TIME is vacation time and Atlantans are busily packing their bags preparatory to trips that will take them to interesting parts of the world. Each day some traveler is off, and though Sally can't possibly tell you about all of them, she's learned of a few who are eagerly anticipating their travels and she is passing the news of their wanderings on to you today.

Those comrades, Mrs. William B. Lamar and Mrs. Wilton J. Lambert, of Washington, D. C., have chosen an itinerary which will carry them through England by motor, a most delightful way to spend the summer. They sail on the S. S. Europa on July 9 and will dock at Southampton some five days later. They will travel for 30 days before going to London, where they will tarry for a month before sailing homeward in September.

Mrs. Lamar and Mrs. Lambert have traveled together in Europe upon previous occasions and they are the most congenial companions. Their friendship dates from the time Mrs. Lamar lived in the national capital many years ago.

Motoring in far places has also been chosen as the chief form of entertainment and education by Mrs. DeLos Hill and Mrs. George Brine, who leave Atlanta on Thursday. These close friends, who have also enjoyed previous extensive travel together, will sail from New York on July 2, making Paris their headquarters for some weeks. They have planned motor trips through Normandy, Brittany and the Chateau country and later will enjoy the same type of trip through the British Isles, making London their headquarters. They are planning to visit many places which they have missed in former travels and to learn much of each country as they traverse it by motor. They will return home late in the summer.

Beautiful Hawaii, the Pearl of the Pacific, has been chosen as their destination by Mrs. C. Boyd Woolford and her lovely young daughters, Charlotte and Isabelle. This charming family threesome leaves Atlanta late in July, going from Chicago to Los Angeles on the streamlined City of Los Angeles. They sail August 3 on the Lurline for Honolulu, where they will spend ten delightful days basking under Hawaiian skies. Landing at San Francisco on their return, they plan to visit Yellowstone Park and other points of interest en route home.

A delightful visit to her sister, Mrs. C. A. Pennington, in Tacoma, Wash., is being anticipated by Mrs. Arthur Moore, who leaves on July 10 for some weeks in the west. Mrs. Pennington, the former Miss Mary Johnson, of Thomson, is the wife of Brigadier General Thomas A. Pennington, United States army. Mrs. Moore is principal of the Marion Smith school here and is a well-known educator.

AN EXQUISITE diamond engagement ring and a diamond and platinum wrist watch which Emma Middlebrooks has been wearing for several months have created a flutter of excitement in gatherings for some time. Today her engagement is announced to Bill Woods and the donor of the beautiful jewelry is revealed. The ring, of course, seals her betrothal to the popular young clubman, and the watch is her engagement present. The two pieces form handsome accessories for the chic costumes of the lovely bride-elect.

Emma, by the way, is planning to dash away at the end of the week for an extended visit to Canada. She will go to Ontario, where she will be the guest of Anne Bolling Graham, whom Atlantans remember as a frequent and popular visitor here. Grand times have been planned to center the interests of the two belles, who will this summer mark their fourth year of vacationing together. When Emma returns later in the season, she will be accompanied by Anne, who will be maid of honor in the former's wedding.

A ROYAL welcome is being extended to Mrs. Duncan Grant Richart, who arrived here yesterday from Washington, D. C., for a visit of several weeks to Atlanta friends and relatives. The visitor, as you know, is the former Mary McCleskey, who resided here for several years and was considered one of Atlanta's most beautiful women. Those greeting the former Atlantian last evening on the Driving Club terrace, where she was central figure in a dinner party, declare that she is more beautiful than ever.

The visitor is the wife of Colonel Richart, U. S. A., and since their return from Panama, where

Women's Overseas League Holds Annual Convention Here in July

Plans have been completed for the eighteenth annual national convention of the Women's Overseas Service League to be held here at the Biltmore hotel, July 3, 4, 5 and 6. Over 200 women, who served overseas during the World War, will attend the convention with members of the Atlanta Overseas Club as hostesses. The convention opens on the afternoon of July 3 with a memorial service to be held at 5 o'clock at All Saints Episcopal church, at which time honor will be paid the 347 women who died overseas during the late war. Miss Frances Woodberry is in charge of the service and Bishop H. J. Mikell will deliver the address. Members of all military organizations and patriotic groups are invited to attend the service.

The initial social event planned in compliment to the visitors is a supper to be served on the Biltmore hotel terrace on Sunday evening, with Miss Helen Muse as chairman for the occasion. The first business session of the convention is scheduled for the morning of July 4 and in the evening of this date the delegates will be tendered a barbecue at the Druid Hills Golf Club, the affair to be presided by a motor trip to Stone Mountain. Mrs. Perrin Nicholson Jr. is chairman for the barbecue and will be assisted by other members of the local overseas club.

On July 5 the visitors will assemble at the Piedmont Driving Club for luncheon, arranged by the chairman, Mrs. Walter E. DuPre. Rev. Herman L. Turner, who served with distinction with the American Expeditionary Forces during the World War, will speak at the luncheon on the subject of "Service."

In the afternoon of this date the visitors will be entertained at tea at Brookhaven, the Capital City Country Club. The banquet on the evening of July 6 will conclude the social program planned for the visitors. General Charles P. Summerall, commandant of The Citadel in Charleston, S. C., and an outstanding military figure during the World War, will speak. Mrs. Helen Douglas Mankin will be toastmistress at the banquet, of which Mrs. John T. Toler is chairman. Madam Cara Gina, of New York, a prominent figure in grand opera circles, and a member of the Women's Overseas Service League, is listed on the banquet program for several songs.

Miss Mildred Parsons is general chairman for the convention and is being assisted in completing plans for the meeting by Miss Sara Inman Bell, president of the Atlanta Overseas Club, and other members of the local organization. Mrs. Richard is spending the first week of her stay here with her cousins, Mrs. Cecil Strobhar and Mrs. Arthur Clarke, at their home on Andrews drive. On July 5 she goes to St. Simon's Island to spend a week with Mr. and Mrs. Langdon Quinn, who have taken a cottage at the Georgia resort.

Upon her return here in mid-July Mrs. Richard will divide her visit between Mrs. John O. Donaldson, Mrs. Sidney Daniel and Mrs. J. B. Keough. In early August she will join Colonel Richart in Des Moines, Iowa, where the latter has been transferred by the army.

Upon her return here July 15 Mrs. Richard will divide her visit between Mrs. John O. Donaldson, Mrs. Sidney Daniel and Mrs. J. B. Keough. In early August she will join Colonel Richart in Des Moines, Iowa, where the latter has been transferred by the army.

ALL DURING the spring, Mrs. J. W. Gholston, of Comer, and her son, Polk, made extensive and enthusiastic plans for a summer's travel in Europe. In fact, the trip has been planned for many years, for when Mrs. Gholston used to teach her son his history and geography lessons as a little boy, they discussed the interesting places in other countries, and she promised to take him to see them some day.

But there was just one drawback to their trip—Mr. Gholston was not planning to accompany them. That, till last week. They had used all their persuasive powers, it seems, to tempt him to go—but he had no avail. So imagine their surprise a few days ago to have him suddenly announce that he was making the

Atlanta Debutante Presented to British Royalty

Lovely Miss Flora Wright, daughter of General and Mrs. Wallace Wright, of London, England, as she appeared at her presentation to King George VI and Queen Elizabeth at Buckingham Palace. Miss Wright, who was presented at the Court of St. James's at the first drawing room of the season, was a member of the 1937-1938 Debutante Club of Atlanta and was formally presented to Atlanta society at a brilliant dinner-dance given at the Piedmont Driving Club. She returned to England the first of the year and was presented to London society at a dinner-dance. Miss Wright is the granddaughter of Mrs. E. T. Donnelly, who leaves tomorrow to visit General and Mrs. Wright in London. Mrs. Wright is the former Miss Flora Bewick, only daughter of Mrs. Donnelly and the sister of Harry Bewick, of Atlanta.

P.-T. A. Seminar Is Announced

Announcement has been made that anyone interested in the National Congress of Parents and Teachers seminar, July 5 to 10 in Washington, D. C., could register. News comes that the registration will be limited to only educators and teachers.

Calls have been made for a special conference on high school associations at the summer institute in Athens, June 29 through July 1. The president and institute program committee will arrange for such a conference and also any other special conference requested. The report is that the attendance at the institute will be large this year.

Mrs. J. S. Gordy, state P.-T. A. president, attended the regional conference held here last Tuesday on safety. Present were parent-teacher presidents from Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia besides Georgia, and also the invited Georgia officials. The conference was called by Miss Marian Telford, national chairman of safety for the congress of parents and teachers and the secretary of the National Safety Council.

A review of the traffic safety education project to date was discussed. Discussion of the highway safety program for states was held. The consultations with Major Phil Brewster, of the Georgia Highway Department; Mrs. Sullivan, of the Georgia Traffic Department; of the State Board of Education, were productive of results. The fact that the public gets what it wants was brought out and plans for continuing the safety education program were decided upon. It was pointed out traffic accidents have decreased but there is need for law enforcement.

Clark-Fleming Wedding Solemnized At Greenville Methodist Church

GREENVILLE, Ga., June 25.—The marriage of Miss Josephine Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Cleveland Clark, to Thomas Oatman Fleming, of Atlanta, was solemnized at the Methodist church here this evening at 8:30 o'clock. Rev. Eugene L. Daniel, of Jackson, performed the ceremony.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. James Davis, of Leslie, pianist, and Miss Azile Parker, of Macon, violinist. Joseph B. Freeman, of Greenville, sang "At Dawning" and "Be-cause."

The church was beautifully decorated with palms, interspersed with cathedral candelabra holding white tapers and floor baskets filled with Easter lilies. The chancel rail was covered in white and garlanded with asparagus fern. In the center of the rail was a pair of seven-branched candelabra holding white tapers, at the bases of which were clusters of Easter lilies.

The ushers and groomsmen were J. J. McLendon Jr., of Chattanooga; Thornton Deas, Joe Thrash, Elmore Thrash, LeRoy Rogers and Dr. J. D. Manget Jr., of Atlanta.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Julia Ann Clark, as maid of honor, and her cousin, Mrs. E. Dixie Beggs Jr., of Pensacola, Fla., as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Louie Clark, Miss Orville Culpepper, of Greenville; Mrs. W. D. Thompson, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Frederick R. Freyer, of Shreveport, La.

The bridesmaids' and matron of honor's gowns which were made alike of pink chiffon posed over matching taffeta, featured pleated bodices with square neck lines that were caught with small blue clips, puffed sleeves and full skirts. The maid of honor wore blue chiffon with pink clips of the same design. Their flowers were bouquets of yellow roses and blue delphinium tied with yellow ribbon.

The lovely bride was given in marriage by her father, Louis Cleveland Clark. Her blonde beauty was enhanced by her wedding gown of white marquisette made along princess lines with long sleeves and featuring a V-neck applique with satin flowers. Her veil of exquisite rose point lace belongs to her cousin, Mrs. E. Dixie Beggs Jr., and was worn over a tulle veil caught in cap style with a band of orange blossoms and bridal lilies. The bride carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley with an orchid center. She was met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, W. A. Fleming Jr., of Atlanta.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. C. Clark, the bride's parents, entertained at an informal reception at their home on La-Grange road in honor of the bride and bridegroom.

The bride's book was kept by Miss Ruth Fleming, sister of the groom, and Miss Willie Clark, cousin of the bride.

Assisting in entertaining were Mesdames J. L. Robeson, M. Z. O'Neal, B. R. Freeman, W. S. Allen, F. C. Strozler, J. E. Virgin, Misses Mary Witt, Virginia Moreland, Isabella Prather, Evelyn Estes, Joe Estes, Mary Estes, Helen Strickland, Mary Estes, Fannie Cole Blackburn, Doris Crouch and Mrs. John L. Wheeler.

In the dining room, the lace-covered bride's table was centered with a two-tiered bride's cake, placed on a mound of white flowers.

Mr. Fleming and his bride left by motor for a wedding trip to North Carolina. The bride traveled in a two-piece navy chiffon with accessories to match.

The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Fleming Sr., of Atlanta; Mrs. J. M. Strickland, Houston, Texas; Mrs. Ernest Hefflin, Pensacola, W. Va.; Mrs. J. L. Robeson, Brunswick; Lieutenant and Mrs. F. R. Freyer, Shreveport, La.; Mr. and Mrs. E. Dixie Beggs Jr., Pensacola, Fla.; Miss Eugenie Wiggs, Fayetteville, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Walther, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McLendon, of Atlanta.

Miss Emma Middlebrooks To Wed Mr. Woods in Fall

Paramount social interest due to the popularity of the young couple and the prominence of the two families, is centered in the announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. Grover Middlebrooks of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Emma Middlebrooks, to William S. Woods. The marriage is scheduled for September, and will be one of the brilliant social events on the early fall social calendar.

Mrs. Middlebrooks, mother of the bride-elect, was before her marriage Miss Grace Sims, daughter of the late Thomas LeRoy Sims and Martha Hallam Sims, pioneer residents of Atlanta. The paternal grandparents of the bride-to-be are the late William M. Middlebrooks and Martha Turner Middlebrooks, of Atlanta.

Miss Middlebrooks is a graduate of the North Fulton High school and later attended Mount Vernon Seminary in Washington, D. C., and Hollins College in Virginia. She is a member of the Pi Phi sorority, the Girls' Cotillion Club and the Junior League. She made her formal bow to Atlanta society as a member of the Debutante Club of 1936-37 and was honored at a series of social affairs which further attested her wide popularity.

The beautiful bride-elect is slender and graceful and has soft, wavy blond hair and green eyes fringed with heavy brown lashes. She has a charming personality and a sweetness of manner which have won for her countless friends here and wherever she has visited.

Mr. Woods, the bridegroom-elect, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. James B. Woods, medical missionaries in China. Mrs. Woods was before her marriage Miss Elizabeth Witherspoon Smith, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. James Powers Smith, of Fredericksburg and Richmond, Va. The late Rev. and Mrs. Edgar A. Woods, of Fairfax and Charlottesville, Va., are the paternal grandparents of the groom-elect.

Mr. Woods was graduated from Davidson College in North Carolina, where he was a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and the Phi Beta Kappa society. He later attended Harvard University, where he received his master's degree in business administration. Since moving to Atlanta to reside several years ago he has been associated with the Trust Company of Georgia.

Like his bride-to-be he is a popular member of the younger social contingent and is a member of the Piedmont Driving Club, the Capital City Club and the Nine O'Clocks.

Miss Mize and Ray Bowen Marry At Capitol View Methodist Church

Miss Mary Alice Mize, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. B. F. Mize, became the bride of Ray Franklin Bowen, of Knoxville, Tenn., formerly of Gainesville, at a beautiful ceremony taking place yesterday at the Capitol View Methodist church, of which her father is pastor. Rev. Mize officiated at 5 o'clock in the presence of relatives and friends.

Prior to and during the ceremony a program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Elizabeth Tillman and vocal selections were given by Mrs. H. B. Jeffcoat, of Augusta.

The interior of the church was beautifully decorated for the nuptials with the altar banked with quantities of palms and fern and other rich greenery. In the center was a basket of Easter lilies and gladioli and on either side were seven-branched candelabra holding white burning tapers. Pews reserved for members of the two families were marked by clusters of lilies tied with white tulle bows.

The ushers were Hamby Mize, brother of the bride, Colonel Glenn Roberts, brother-in-law of the groom, of Lawrenceville, Ga.; Elmer Phillips, of Knoxville, and Rev. J. D. Maxwell, of Mountain City, Ga., cousin of the bride.

Miss Eunice Marie Mize was maid of honor for her sister and was beautifully gowned in a pink marquisette posed over taffeta of the same shade, and fashioned along becoming bouffant lines. Her small hat was a pancake model. The bridesmaids, Misses Marion Davis and Mary Rostie Elvite, who wore blue, and Misses Daisy Davenport and Martha Bagwell, who wore yellow, were all gowned in dresses fashioned alike in becoming bouffant style marquisette posed over taffeta of the same shade and made with sweetheart necklines and short puffed sleeves. They all wore poke bonnets matching their dresses. All the attendants carried shower bouquets of talisman roses, combined with a variety of pastel flowers with colors predominating to match the dresses. Little 6-year-old Betty Bartlett was the flower girl and wore a dainty model of green organza trimmed in lace. She carried an old-fashioned nosegay of assorted flowers.

The bride, who is a handsome brunette, was lovely as she entered the church with her uncle, Rev. J. J. Mize, pastor of the Conyers (Ga.) Methodist church by whom she was given in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man Garland Smith, of Gainesville. She was beautifully gowned in her wedding gown of white marquisette fashioned along becoming lines with bouffant waist, sweetheart neckline. Her long maline veil was caught to her hair in half effect and fell in graceful folds over the dress. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Mize, mother of the bride, was handsomely gowned in hyacinth blue chiffon posed over satin of the same shade and her hat and other accessories were of white. She wore a shoulder bouquet of gardenias. Mrs. M. B. Bowen, of Gainesville, mother of the groom, was lovely in her model of navy blue chiffon worn with white accessories. Her flowers were gardenias.

After the ceremony, Rev. and Mrs. Mize entertained at an informal reception at their home on Beattie avenue for their daughter and Mr. Bowen. A profusion of summer garden flowers in pastel shades were used as the decorations. In the dining room the table was covered with a lace cloth and was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake. Flanking either side were silver candelsticks holding burning tapers.

Mr. Bowen and his bride left for a honeymoon trip to the mountains and upon their return will reside in Knoxville. The bride traveled in a navy blue chiffon model with white accessories.

First Christian Council Meeting Featured by Splendid Reports

The annual meeting of the Woman's Council of the First Christian church was held at the church Tuesday, with the general vice president, Mrs. G. W. Harlan, presiding. The reports from the ten groups revealed advance throughout the organization. Mrs. A. R. Mayfield, head of the finance department, reported increased receipts for the year. Mrs. L. G. Tourney, who led the social service work, revealed that a large volume of work had been done in many worth-while projects in helping those in need.

The fellowship department, led by Mrs. Allan Day, announced that over 6,000 calls had been made by the women during the year. Mrs. W. T. Jameson, assisted by Mrs. F. L. Eyles, had charge of the house committee and also of the church night suppers and reported that the weekly fellowship suppers had been a success and that the annual house-cleaning had been supervised as usual.

They also reported that the council through its various groups had provided a tea for young people each Sunday evening throughout the year.

Mrs. C. R. Stauffer reported for the departments of spiritual life and missions that unusual interest had been shown in the monthly missionary programs and that the council continues to support Mrs. J. D. Montgomery as its living link missionary in Buenos Aires, Argentina. The educational department, led by Mrs. H. C. Phipps, reported progress, while the librarian, Miss Ruby Cartwright, brought a report that revealed an increasing interest in reading missionary books.

Mrs. G. W. Harlan's report on World Call revealed that during the year the First Christian church stood at the top of the churches in its class in the number of subscriptions to the missionary magazine and stood second among all the churches among the Disciples of Christ, irrespective of size. As a result of this fine record the church of First church was honored by being the toastmaster at the annual World Call banquet at the international convention which was held at Columbus, Ohio, last October.

Following the reports, the pastor, Rev. C. R. Stauffer, addressed the meeting, after which he installed the newly elected president, Mrs. M. J. Stevens, and the group of officers who will serve with her. Luncheon was served in the dining room of the church under the direction of Mrs. F. L. Eyles.

Misses Cowart Become Brides at June Ceremony Brilliantly Solemnized at Parents' Home in Fairburn

Left, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Russell Hurd, of Clintondale, N. Y., and at the right is Mr. and Mrs. George Donald Campbell Jr., of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Mrs. Hurd is the former Miss Elizabeth Cowart and Mrs. Campbell was formerly Miss Emily Cowart. The brides are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cowart and their marriages took place recently at the home of their parents in Fairburn.

FAIRBURN, Ga., June 25.—The marriages of Miss Elizabeth Cowart to Jerome Russell Hurd, of Clintondale, N. Y., and Miss Emily Cowart to George Donald Campbell, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., were solemnized on Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock at an alfresco ceremony at the home of the brides' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cowart, at Fairburn. Dr. M. D. Collins performed the impressive double ceremony attended by a number of relatives and friends.

An improvised altar was formed in the lower garden with an artistic arrangement of palms, pines and foliage plants forming a background. On either side were baskets of red carnations and gladioli with an arch formed of candles over the altar.

Mrs. Euclee Skinner, of East Point, violinist, and Mrs. Rochelle Weldon, of East Point, pianist, presented a musical program prior to the ceremony. They were seated on the terrace and accompanied Miss Betty Fleetwood, of Cartersville, who sang appropriate selections before the arrival of the bride.

The bridesmaids and groomsmen walked in pairs down the long aisle and took their places on either side of the altar in semicircle position. The former included Misses Lillian Ledbetter, Elizabeth Redwine, Margaret Wells, Berna Jarrard and Mrs. George Carroll and Mrs. Trimble Huey. They wore exquisite gowns fashioned of white net over white taffeta made with floor-length skirts, short puffed sleeves and tight bodices. Their wide-brimmed crownless hats were made of white horsehair braid and they carried bouquets of American beauty roses tied with red satin ribbon.

The maid of honor, Miss Frances Cowart, sister of the brides, wore a gown like those worn by the bridesmaids and her hat was of white horsehair braid and she carried a bouquet of American beauty roses.

The groomsmen included Phillips Turner, Douglas Campbell, Franklin Ellington Jr., West Van Schotten and Charles Grubb. Little Misses Jackie Skinner, Georgia and Jane Cowart were flower girls. They wore dainty frocks of white net made with long skirts and short sleeves. They carried nosegays formed of red and white flowers.

The brides were accompanied to the altar by their father, who gave them in marriage. They presented attractive figures wearing wedding gowns fashioned of white net posed over white taffeta. Features of the becoming gowns were tight bodices, high necklines, long sleeves and wide circular skirts that extended into trains of several yards in length. Their veils of illusion tulle were held to their hair by coronets of orange blossoms and they carried shower bouquets of valley lilies.

The grooms were escorted by their brothers, Melvin Hurd and William Campbell, who were their best men.

Mr. and Mrs. Cowart entertained at a reception after the ceremony, the latter wearing a gown fashioned of electric blue sheer. Mrs. G. D. Campbell Sr., of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., mother of Mr. Campbell, was attired in pink lace made over matching silk.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Windle, of Millbury, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Campbell Sr., William Campbell, Douglas Campbell, Charles Grubb, West Van Schotten, all of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; M. G. Hurd and Melvin Hurd, of Clintondale, N. Y.; Phillips Turner, of Smithville, Tenn., and H. O. Thomas, of Birmingham, Ala.

After the reception the bridal couples left for a motor trip. After July Mr. and Mrs. Hurd will be at home in Clintondale, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Campbell in Poughkeepsie.

BEAUTIFUL GEORGIA BELLES TREAD THE ORANGE BLOSSOM TRAIL

Miss Emma Middlebrooks, above, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Middlebrooks, whose engagement is announced today to William S. Woods. The couple will reside here following their marriage, which will be an important social event of September.

At the left, Mrs. Benjamin Harvey Hill Jr. is shown in her beautiful bridal robes. Mrs. Hill is the former Miss Emily Smith, charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smith Jr., and her marriage was solemnized on Thursday, June 9, at Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

Mrs. Harry DuPre Jr., of Marietta, is pictured in her wedding gown. The former Miss Ruth Hunnicutt, attractive daughter of Lute T. Hunnicutt and the late Mrs. Hunnicutt, was married to the popular Marietta resident on June 15 at Sacred Heart Catholic church.

Mrs. Lawrence Lott Edge, who prior to her marriage at the First Presbyterian church on June 15, was Miss Sarah Simms, lovely daughter of Mrs. A. B. Simms and the late Mr. Simms. Ensign Edge, United States Navy, is stationed in the Hawaiian Islands, where he and Mrs. Edge will reside.

Mrs. Charles Mitchiner pictured in her becoming bridal gown, is the former Miss Jean Pennington. She and Mr. Mitchiner are temporarily residing with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Pennington, on Vermont road.

Mrs. Thomas Fuller III is pictured in her charming wedding costume. Mrs. Fuller is the former Miss Deas Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Y. Smith, and her marriage was solemnized on June 8 at All Saints' church. Mr. and Mrs. Fuller are residing in Philadelphia, Pa.

Covington Chapter U.D.C. Honors Division President and Officers

By Miss Mary Lizzie Wright, of Elberton, Editor Georgia Division U. D. C.

Covington Chapter, Mrs. I. H. Rainwater, president, entertained at a buffet luncheon at the home of Mrs. W. Trox Bankston, honoring Mrs. Clyde F. Hunt, division president, Mrs. Henry Allen, third vice president general, and Mrs. A. Belmont Dennis, third vice president, Georgia division. Receiving with the honor guests were the hostess, Mrs. Bankston, vice president of the hostess chapter and past division president; Mrs. Joseph Vason, Madison, division recorder of crosses of military service; Mrs. R. M. Mobley, division chairman of Helen Plane Educational Loan Fund. After lunch, the guests assembled on the lawn and a program on Flag Day was given. Talks were made by Mrs. Hunt and Mrs. Allen, who complimented Mrs. Dennis on her splendid work with the children of the division. The president of the local Children of the Confederacy, Miss Elizabeth Stillwell, was presented by Mrs. Dennis and announced that her chapter had made Mrs. Allen honorary life director.

At the June meeting of the Sidney Lanier Chapter, Macon, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. I. L. Domingos; first vice president, Mrs. Ben Barnes; second vice president, Mrs. R. J. Taylor; third vice president, Mrs. Perry Copeland; recording secretary, Mrs. Culver Corbin; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. P. Stevens; treasurer, Mrs. Kelly Allen; registrar, Mrs. T. H. Boone; historian, Mrs. Frank P. Jones; recorder of crosses, Mrs. Florine B. Davis; auditor, Mrs. W. C. Kilpatrick; chaplain, Mrs. J. P. Boone. Mrs. Boone begins her 28th year as registrar.

Mrs. J. E. Crouse presided over the business session, when Mrs. Frank Jones, chairman of sales of the reprint of President Davis' book, "The Rise and Fall of the Confederate Government," reported that the quota of 10 percent of the chapter membership had been passed and that an effort was being made to have a copy placed in every school, college and library in Macon. The five visits of Jefferson Davis to Macon were discussed, based on a recent sketch written by Oliver Orr. Patricia Childs, one of the six winners in the historical essay contest, read her essay upon President Davis. Of particular interest was the large Confederate battle flag on display, this flag being among the decorations at the home of the late Captain and Mrs. Marshall Johnston, when Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Margaret Davis Hayes and Miss Winnie Davis were their guests in 1887. The flag is a prized keepsake of the hostess of the afternoon, Mrs. Samuel T. Coleman, being a gift from Mrs. Johnston.

Turner County Chapter, Ashburn, Mrs. John Ewing, president, met recently with Mrs. Alex Story, at which time four new members were welcomed. A shelf of southern literature has been placed in the city library in memory of deceased members of the chapter, Mrs. O. T. Burch being chairman of this work. A C. of C. chapter, named in honor of Jefferson Davis, has been organized with Mr. M. T. Mathis leader. The chapter has ordered 49 markers to be placed on Confederate soldiers' graves.

Oglethorpe County Chapter, Lexington, Mrs. R. P. Brock, president, met with Mrs. Mell Blanchard in Crawford, Mrs. Kate Little serving as joint hostess. The chapter voted to make a pilgrimage to Liberty Hall in lieu of its July meeting. Mrs. T. W. Crawford read an article from the Southern Magazine on "Jefferson Davis," and a discussion of the girlhood home of Varina Howell Davis, wife of President Davis, was given by Mrs. Gray Rowland. A poem was given by Mrs. Katherine Howard, and Mrs. Earl Reynolds read a letter from a private in the Confederate States army to President Davis. A tap dance was given by Little Misses Jane Blanchard and Peggy Howard.

The June meeting of the Lizzie Rutherford Chapter, Columbus, took the form of a memorial birthday celebration, honoring its founder and president for more than 40 years, Miss Anna Caroline Benning, daughter of General and Mrs. Henry L. Benning. Miss Benning served the division twice as first vice president and was made honorary president in 1917, a distinction which she held until her death in 1935. The C. of C. Miss Elizabeth Long, president, had charge of the service and each child placed a white flower in a vase, these later being placed upon the grave of Miss Benning. A short sketch of Miss Benning's life was given by Lillian Brinson. A tribute was paid by the president, Mrs. H. F. Gaffney, to the life and work of the beloved historian, the late Mrs. M. J. Stone. The chapter's scholarship pupil, Mary Ward, was presented and received commendation upon being elected to membership in the national honorary society. The three students winning prizes in the essay contest were also presented and each received a set of the reprint of "The Rise and Fall of the Confederacy."

Georgia division mourns with the Lizzie Rutherford Chapter at the passing of Mrs. M. J. Stone, who has filled many offices in her chapter and important chairmanships in the division. At the time of her death, she was serving with distinction as chairman of the historical essay contest, to which she gave her talents and best thought. The division also extends sympathy to Mrs. Ira E. Farmer, president Thomson Chapter, and division chairman of publicity, in the loss of her sister.

Miss Rosemary Patton Weds Mr. Mann at Church Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Rosemary Patton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Earl Patton, and George Galloway Mann was a beautiful event taking place yesterday afternoon at the Peachtree Road Presbyterian church. Dr. Herman L. Turner, the pastor, performed the ceremony at 5 o'clock in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends of the young couple.

Prior to and during the ceremony a program of nuptial music was presented on the organ by Mrs. W. A. DeLamar, and Mrs. Howard H. Beckett, soloist.

The interior of the church was beautifully decorated for the nuptials. A bank of palms and cydonium ferns formed an effective background for the altar and was centered with a seven-branched candelabra holding white burning tapers.

The interior of the church was beautifully decorated for the nup-

Home Ceremony in Albany Unites Miss Thelma Bott and Mr. Hilsman

ALBANY, Ga., June 25.—Of wide social interest throughout the state, due to the prominence of the families of the young couple, was the marriage of Miss Thelma Madora Bott and Thomas Brumby Hilsman, which was solemnized on Thursday at noon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Bott.

The Rev. Dr. L. G. Henderson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, assisted by the Rev. Harry S. Cobey, of St. Paul's Episcopal church, performed the ceremony before an improvised altar of palms, ferns, Queen Anne's lace and white roses.

Miss Frances B. Knight, the bride's maid of honor and only attendant, wore a white silk sport frock with matching accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds and swansons.

The lovely bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage, and they were met at the improvised altar by the groom and his brother, Agnew H. Hilsman Jr., of Atlanta, who was best man. The bride was becomingly gowned in a white crepe sports dress with Washington blue bolero and sash. She wore white accessories and a corsage of white orchids and valley lilies.

Mrs. Bott, mother of the bride, wore powder blue sheer with matching accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Agnew Hilsman Sr., mother of the groom, was gowned in madonna blue lace over navy with navy accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. Later the couple left on their wedding trip to North Carolina, following which they will reside

Afternoon Ceremony in Greenwood Unites Miss Hooten and Mr. Keen

GREENWOOD, S. C., June 25.—Of wide social importance, due to the prominence of the young couple and their families, was the marriage of Miss Mildred Hooten and Charlton Keen, of Atlanta, Ga., which was beautifully solemnized this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Associate Reformed Presbyterian church here. The bride's father, the Rev. J. R. Hooten, performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. W. L. Pressley, pastor.

The bridal motif of green and white prevailed in the church decorations. The altar was banked with palms and ferns and placed at intervals were baskets of white gladioli. Interspersed among the greenery were candelabra holding burning white tapers. Mrs. M. G. McDonald, pianist, and Mrs. W. L. Pressley, soloist, gave a musical program prior to and during the ceremony.

Ushers were J. Lee Groves, G. C. Strickler and Rufus Darby, all of Atlanta, and F. E. Grier, of this city. Miss Harriet Todd, the bride's matron of honor, wore a lovely model of green net with a picture hat of horsehair of the same shade and carried a bouquet of mixed garden flowers. Little Mary Leslie Keen, of Tallahassee, Fla., niece of the groom and the flower girl, wore green organza and carried an old-fashioned nosegay. Henry Edward Jackson, of River Junction, Fla., nephew of the groom, wore a white satin suit and carried the ring on a white satin pillow.

Mr. Hilsman attended Culver Military Academy, Riverside Military Academy, and the University of Georgia, and is a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

The lovely bride entered with her father and they were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, J. Velma Keen, of Tallahassee, Fla., his brother. The bride was becomingly gowned in a model of white satin, fashioned with a yoke of Chantilly lace and a short train. Her fingertip-length veil was caught to her hair with a wreath of orange blossoms and showered with blossoms. She carried a bouquet of orchids and valley lilies.

After the ceremony the Rev. and Mrs. Hooten entertained at an informal reception at their home on Jennings avenue for the relatives and out-of-town guests. Mrs. Hooten received her guests wearing pink lace, with a pink felt hat and a corsage of roses and valley lilies. Mrs. J. H. Keen, of Marianna, Fla., mother of the groom, was gowned in blue lace with matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Keen left on their wedding trip to the North Carolina mountains, following which they will establish residence in Atlanta, where they will be prominent acquisitions to the younger married contingent of society. Mrs. Keen traveled in a gown of black chifon, embroidered in white, with black accessories and a corsage of white orchids.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Keen, of Marianna, Fla.; Mrs. C. E. Jackson and Henry Edward Jackson, of River Junction, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Velma Keen and Mary Leslie Keen, of Tallahassee, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brown, of Sandersville, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Darby, Mr. and Mrs. J. Coy Luise Rainer is Melvyn Douglas' "Toy Wife" but Robert Young is her lover. It's an amusing comedy of a three-cornered love affair in the gay New Orleans in the days just preceding the War Between the States. The men found Miss Rainer irresistible, but the women—they saw her for what she was. "The Toy Wife" is this week's feature at Loew's Grand.

'Toy Wife,' 'Josette' and Western Are New Films Playing in Atlanta

'Adventures of Robin Hood' Moved to Paramount for Another Week; Rialto Is Holding 'Holiday'; Fox Is Showing Fight Pictures.

By LEE ROGERS,
Motion Picture Editor.

Robert Young has the role of the unsuccessful lover in two new pictures in Atlanta this week. Both are films of New Orleans—one in an antebellum background and the other in modern times.

In "The Toy Wife," at the Grand, he plays the role of the dashing gambler who wins Luise Rainer, the irresistible belle of old New Orleans, from her husband only to find it means death and disgrace. But, he comes to life quickly, so to speak, because by moving on out to the Fox we see Mr. Young, in the dress of the modern young businessman, chasing Simone Simon and attempting to win her from his "brother," Don Ameche. The only other new picture this week is "The Heart of Arizona," which features Bill Boyd in another Hopalong Cassidy role. It's at the Capitol with a stage show. The Rialto is holding "Holiday," which stars Katharine Hepburn and Cary Grant and the Paramount is playing "The Adventures of Robin Hood" which last week played at the Fox. Errol Flynn is the star.

Luise Rainer Is Very Good In 'Toy Wife,' at Loew's.

It's a different role for Luise Rainer at the Grand this week, but it's the same accomplished actress delivering her accustomed top-notch performance.

The picture is called "The Toy Wife" and in it Melvyn Douglas plays the role of Froufrou's husband and Robert Young appears as her lover. Miss Rainer is called Froufrou because the rustle of silk always heralds her approach.

After seeing Miss Rainer in "The Good Earth" and "The Great Ziegfeld," one would never expect to find the Academy Award winner playing the role of a frivolous New Orleans belle in the days preceding the War Between the States. She makes all the men fall at her feet and they find her irresistible. She wins the love of Melvyn Douglas, the most promising young man in the city, and marries him, but Douglas soon finds Froufrou as a wife is as irresponsible as she is irresistible to the men.

He calls her a "Toy Wife" and she runs away with Young. Tragedy follows. There are scandals, duels and death. Froufrou returns to New Orleans to find herself an outcast. Her husband refuses to let her see their son. She lives in a small room and develops pneumonia, from which she finally dies, but not until after she has brought her husband and her sister together.

The ending is long drawn out and tends to detract from an otherwise fine performance. Most people will find this good entertainment, despite its many adverse criticisms.

Simone Simon Pleases Audience In 'Josette' at Fox Theater.

Simone Simon, who plays ingenue roles in such a charmingly naive way that she provides a pleasant contrast to the usual heavy sophistication Hollywood dumps on the public, has the lead in "Josette," currently unrivalling at the Fox.

There is nothing startlingly original about the story. Renee (Simone), a little French girl, is wardrobe mistress in a New Orleans night club. When Josette, the famous singer, runs out on Barney (Bert Lahr), the cabaret manager, to follow a wealthy retired business man to New York, Renee appears in her stead—and the patrons are no wiser.

The man Josette followed is the father of two sons, David (Don Ameche) and Pierre (Robert Young) who run his business. Naturally the two sons are anxious to get the old man back to earth again, so they go to the night club to settle with Renee, thinking she is Josette. The imagination doesn't have to be vivid to guess the nature of the sequences which follow.

The technique of modern love may have been revolutionized had Joan Davis, who gets into positions which seem to defy all three of Newton's laws of gravitation, and Bert Lahr been allowed to clinch, but, alas, the script didn't ever call for a big hug. Others in the cast are Paul Hurst, Tala Birell and William Collier.

Cary Grant, Hepburn Continue 'Holiday' at Rialto Theater.

"Holiday" at the Rialto has been extended from one week to two weeks—and apparently with "pay" judging from the crowds. It's the second big comedy success for the team of Cary Grant and Katharine Hepburn. The movie is an adaptation from the story by Philip Barry.

This Columbia picture is produced with restraint and the comedy prevalent in the Barry play has not been ruined by the additions of movie comedy bits.

The story concerns a young man who has made a large sum of money on the stock exchange and who wishes to marry and "blow" it while he and his wife are young. The fiancée objects to such philosophy of life, but her sister, Miss Hepburn, approves and tries to reason with her sister, Doris Nolan.

Katharine gets nowhere with this. She loves Grant, too, but won't admit it. But, in the end, when she sees both sister and man she loves will be unhappy. Grant leaves Doris and sails for Europe alone—only to find Katharine on the boat with "Uncle" Edward Everett Horton and his wife waiting for him.

'Robin Hood' Held by Paramount; Errol Flynn Has Leading Role.

Just as most people who saw it last week predicted, "The Adventures of Robin Hood" has been held over another week, playing now at the Paramount theater.

Robin Hood is ably portrayed by Errol Flynn, who seems well adapted to the portrayal of adventure roles—remembering "Captain Blood" and "The Charge of the Light Brigade." Olivia De Havilland, his leading lady in those pictures, is again cast opposite him. The film tells the story, in technicolor, of the adventures of the guardian of the poor. Flynn performs the miraculous feats with the greatest of ease, it seems, and the picture is filled with thrills from start to finish. The acting is good. Basil Rathbone, Claude Rains and Ian Hunter are also in the cast.

'Under Western Stars' Opens Today at Cameo

"Under Western Stars," featuring Roy Rogers and Smiley Burnette, opens today for three days at the Cameo theater.

"The Big Broadcast of 1938," with W. C. Fields and Martha Raye, is booked in for Wednesday and Thursday. The remainder of the week's program is to be announced later.

Hopalong Plays At Capitol Theater

Hopalong Cassidy rides this week in defense of a woman rancher on the screen of the Capitol theater. On the stage is "Stork Club Scandals" with a cast of 25 entertainers.

Appearing again in the Hopalong role is Bill Boyd and with him are "Windy" Hayes and Natalie Moorhead. The story concerns a gang of rustlers who are attempting to "ride" out a woman rancher. Hopalong hears about the plot and he and his men go to the rescue.

Featured with the vaudeville attraction are the Gabby Brothers in comedy-juggling sensations; the Three Sophisticates doing songs and dances; Moore and Berg; the Three Rockets, adagio trio; Baby Gregory, master of ceremonies.

Friday night at 9 o'clock there will be another amateur contest with the winner being awarded a place on the next week's vaudeville program.

Rhodes Playing Nelson Eddy Musical

California in its romantic glory of the gold rush and mission days is brought back to the screen in "The Girl of the Golden West," co-starring Jeannette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy, now playing at the Rhodes theater.

Adapted from the David Belasco play, "The Girl of the Golden West" is the story of the girl owner of the Polka saloon and dance hall, loved by the sheriff, Jack Rance, but who falls in love with the bandit Ramerez. When the bandit is captured by the sheriff, Miss MacDonald plays the sheriff a game of poker for Ramerez's life and wins but the sheriff catches her cheating in the game. Then Miss MacDonald offers to marry the sheriff if he turns Ramerez loose which he does. But later at his proposed wedding, Rance again finds Miss MacDonald in Ramerez's arms and he then realizes that she loves no one but Ramerez so he leaves them to their happiness.

From the classics are drawn "Dream of Love," by Liszt, sung by Miss MacDonald in the Polka Saloon sequence, and Gounod's "Ave Maria," which she sings in the scene in the Monterey mission.

NEGROES TO PRESENT PAGEANT OF HISTORY

A pageant of negro history, in three episodes, will be presented at 8:30 Monday night, July 11, at the municipal auditorium.

The first episode will deal with the negro during the slave period, the second episode will deal with negro life on southern plantations, and the third will depict the modern-day negro.

HOLLYWOOD TODAY

Director Offers Cash Expresses Confidence
For New Gags No One Will Win.

By Sheila Graham

(Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, June 25.—Wanted: An original gag! If you, or you or you can think up some funny business that has not yet been used in the movies, veteran Director Edward Cline will pay you $5,000 for it.

Sounds easy, doesn't it? But Mr. Cline, currently making "Breaking the Ice," starring Bobby Breen, is confident he is in no danger of losing his money—"because," he says, "there are no new gags."

Cline, who started with Mack Sennett 20 years ago, claims there are only 112 basic gags—movie language for a humorous situation. The most popular and the most frequently used has to do with the dignified fall of the dignified or plump person. There are 14 main variations of the fall. During the recent cycle of crazy comedies, you saw at least three in every film.

Chase Oldest Gag.

"The oldest gag of all," says Cline, "is the chase. Some form of the chase has appeared in practically every picture from the crazy shotgun chases of Chaplin and Sennett, cowboys and Indians, police and racketeers, right down to pictures like 'Bringing Up Baby,' in which Katharine Hepburn and Cary Grant chase a leopard—and vice versa. Incidentally, lions and big cats are always good for a laugh, especially when mixed with a little terror."

"At the preview of 'Three Blind Mice' the other day, I saw a very old gag revived successfully, judging by audience reaction," continues Cline. "The scene in question concerned two men—Joel McCrea and David Niven—trying to get out of a doorway at the same time. They were stuck and it was very funny, as it always has been."

"Now this gag has as much gray hair on it as any I know. It used to be a stock comedy situation between the late Mack Swain, who was very big and very fat, and the very lean Mr. Chaplin. Whenever we had to get a sure-fire laugh, we sent the two out a door and Mr. Swain would crush poor Mr. Chaplin. I must have done this identical thing at least 100 times."

Revival of Chaplin Stunt.

"As a matter of fact, I have so much faith in it that I am reviving it in 'Breaking the Ice.' This time I am using Charlie Ruggles and Bobby Breen, who get stuck in a tunnel. It is the same gag, but with a change of environment, setting and personalities."

In "The Awful Truth" audiences howled when Irene Dunne and Cary Grant traveled on the handle bars of police cycles. This gag is at least 25 years old. "Chaplin used it in the second or third picture he made, with only a slight variation," says his former director. "Charlie was being chased by a bicycle policeman. The wheel hit the curb, throwing the officer. Charlie abandoned his running, picked up the policeman, put him on the handlebars and rushed him to the police station."

Two years ago, this same gag, but with a slight twist, was incorporated in "Thanks a Million" in which Dick Powell, escaping in an automobile, is chased by a score of motorcycle police. The scene and the picture faded out with the police telling him he is free to go as he likes and they form an escort behind him, conveying him triumphantly into town.

"The goofy-girl-falling-for-the-butler gag is not as new as modern picture men would make you believe," according to Cline. "My Man Godfrey" used it, with Lombard and William Powell. Bill repeated this identical situation within a year in 'The Barones and the Butler' with Annabella." (Both were taken from the old French farces.)

Girl Thrown to Vultures.

In "The Adventures of Marco Polo," Basil Rathbone throws Sigrid Gurie to the vultures and exhibits this refined bit of cruelty to hero Gary Cooper. "This gag is the rankest form of melodrama and used to be a stand-by in the old days when lions were used for the purpose. And, if I remember correctly, it was a stock property of melodramas of 100 years ago. I guess Daniel started it when he was thrown to the lions."

The Ritz Brothers' gag in "The Goldwyn Follies," in which they sink into a pool of water and emerge as mermaids, was originated by Cline in 1918. He confesses to lifting it from Greek mythology. The picture which introduced it to the screen was called "Eat More Fish," a government propaganda film for the fish industry. This picture, by the way, quite by accident, introduced the Mack Sennett bathing beauties.

Bathing Girls an Accident.

"I was shot 200 feet of film and trained my camera on a group of girls playing volleyball on the beach. The girls were clad in the most abbreviated bathing suits of that day and they started the vogue for leg shows of all sorts as well as a more liberal point of view in respect to swimming suits."

Cline, who maintains that 100 per cent of the gags of today were first introduced by the Mack Sennett school, is hoping for the return of the most certain laugh-producer of them all—the pie throwing gag which reached its zenith in the old John Bunny days.

Man Mountain Gets 'Okay' From Joe

Win or lose in his candidacy for a seat in the Georgia legislature this fall, Man Mountain Dean is declared the winner by Comedian Joe E. Brown, with whom he is now making a picture called "The Gladiator." The two clash, in the film, in a two-out-of-three-fall match for the movie "world's championship." Dean will return to Gwinnett county to complete his campaigning when the picture is completed.

GROUP TO HEAR TALK ON TRIP TO VESUVIUS

G. W. Withers will speak on "A Trip to Mount Vesuvius," at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at the monthly meeting of the Georgia Mineral Society in the Central Y. M. C. A. building, John H. Olden, secretary, announced yesterday. Mr. Olden said definite arrangements for a field trip will be made at the meeting. Specimens of quartz and quartz crystals will be exhibited at the meeting, he added.

Fox Film Shows Louis Knocking Out German

Complete picture of the Louis-Schmeling fight, with introduction of the former champions included, are being shown this week at the Fox theater as an added attraction.

The film runs for 13 minutes and shows in slow motion the blows which are said to have knocked the German out. The Fox management announced they had signed a contract for exclusive showing of this picture this week.

Youthful Sweethearts

Tommy Kelly, the Bronx school-boy who was taken to Hollywood to play Mark Twain's immortal Tom Sawyer, is shown with Ann Gillis in a scene from the "Adventures of Tom Sawyer," current attraction at the Center theater.

AUTHOR, BIBLE EXPERT TO TALK ALL THIS WEEK

Dr. W. D. Herrstrom, of Akron, Ohio, nationally known author and Bible teacher, will speak at 7:30 o'clock each night this week, beginning tonight, at the Dixie Gospel tent, Peachtree street and Prescott street, sponsored by the Atlanta Bible Institute.

His subject tonight will be "The True Key to the Scriptures." During the week, illustrating his lectures with motion pictures, Dr. Herrstrom will speak on Palestine, Russia, Chicago's crime and other modern subjects in the light of Biblical prophecy.

Center Playing
'Tom Sawyer,'
'Wise Girl'

The Center continues through tomorrow "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer," with Tommy Kelly, the 12-year-old discovery who has the role of Tom.

Jackie Moran, plays the part of ragged, irresponsible Huckleberry Finn. The cast includes May Robson, Walter Brennan, Victor Jory, David Holt, also a score of other well-known child and adult players.

"Wise Girl," co-starring Miriam Hopkins and Ray Milland in a unique romance between a determined young heiress and a poor artist whom, with the best intentions in the world, she tries to doublecross, plays Tuesday.

The newest thing in college musicals, "Start Cheering," featuring a large cast of star names, plays Wednesday. Jimmy Durante, Walter Connolly, Joan Perry, Gertrude Nissen, Three Stooges and Professor Quiz are in the cast.

Thursday and Friday, "The Big Broadcast of 1938," with W. C. Fields, is booked. The supporting cast includes Martha Raye, Dorothy Lamour, Shirley Ross, Ben Blue and Rufe Davis.

"Checkers," starring Atlanta's own Jane Withers, is scheduled Saturday.

Makes Big Broadcast

Martha Raye has one of the leading roles in "The Gold Diggers in Paris," which opens Wednesday at the Cameo theater.

After Dark
In Atlanta

Patrons of the Atlanta Biltmore's terrace dinner-dancing parties next week have a surprise waiting for them. The management is going to offer novel and new entertainment, the nature of which will not be divulged until tomorrow night. You can expect something in the music line.

Cecil Rhodes and his Biltmore orchestra went out to the Veterans' hospital yesterday and played a concert for the patients there. Reports indicate that the boys were well received and were asked to come back "more often."

L. H. Cook, research chemist, of Menlo Park, Cal., is spending two weeks vacation in Hollywood, visiting his son, Bill, 11, who is now on location with Paramount's "Men With Wings" company.

'Trumpet King'
Plays Here
July 4

Louis Armstrong, "The King of the Trumpet," and his orchestra will make a personal appearance at the city auditorium, Sunday midnight until dawn of July 4.

Armstrong brings with him his entire musical aggregation, consisting of "swing" stars and vocalists. The two vocalists are Sony Woods and Midge Williams.

Midge Williams is a newcomer to the Armstrong orchestra, since she has recently completed a year's contract with NBC. During that period she performed several times with Rudy Vallee during his weekly variety program. Ranked as one of the most outstanding performers of the musical world, Armstrong comes to Atlanta after a record breaking appearance at the Paramount theater in New York, where he broke attendance records.

The dance at the auditorium commences at one minute after 12 next Sunday night, and the "swing" stars will be entertained by Armstrong's music until dawn. A special section has been reserved for white spectators.

Atlanta Music Notes

By MOZELLE
HORTON YOUNG

Atlanta Music Notes.
Today is the "signing off" column until September. It has been the custom of "Atlanta Music Notes" to close with the column of the last Sunday in June and go on vacation through the summer months. So, here's wishing each of you a happy and restful vacation, and may we meet again in September!

We have a brilliant season to look forward to next fall, with the All-Star Concert Series programs being given in the new auditorium. It's a gala series that both the All-Star Series and the Atlanta Music Club will present.

On the All-Star schedule of concerts is Lily Pons, coloratura soprano, on October 3; Helen Jepson, soprano, and Nino Martini, tenor, in joint recital on October 22, the newly-organized Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, with a symphony orchestra of 50 pieces, on November 22; Jascha Heifetz, violinist, on December 15; the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, with Eugene Ormandy conducting, January 14, 1939; Josef Hoffman, pianist, January 27, and Grace Moore, in late February or early March, the date to be announced.

The artist series of the Atlanta Music Club will present Jose Iturbi, pianist, on October 6; the Kolisch string quartet on December 13, and Sigrid Onegin, contralto, on February 21.

And remember, now is the time to reserve your season tickets for both series!

Attend Sorority Convention.

A number of Atlanta musicians left this morning to attend the 25th annual national convention of Mu Phi Epsilon national honor music sorority in Chicago, with headquarters at the Drake hotel. They are Frances Collins Hutcherson, president of the Atlanta Alumnae Club; Willa Beckham Lowrance, president of Mu Omega chapter; Louisa Allensworth, national alumnae secretary-treasurer; Dorothy Hyatt, secretary of the Atlanta Alumnae Club; Nina Hurst and Frances Buchanan.

Bertha Marron King, of Minneapolis, Minn., is the national president of the sorority.

Frances Collins Hutcherson has been honored by being selected to be one of the artists on the national alumnae program. She will play Corelli's "Sonata in E Minor for Violin." Mrs. Lowrance will play her piano accompaniments.

Mrs. Hutcherson will also give the introductory toast from the Atlantic province at the national banquet.

Studies in St. Louis.
Edith West, well-known young Atlanta musician, enrolled last Friday for six weeks' study at Washington University, in St. Louis, Mo. In addition to normal courses she will study piano with Godfrey Gallison. For the past two years Miss West has been chairman of junior radio programs for the Georgia Federation of Music Clubs, and will continue to hold this chairmanship for the coming season. She is also an active member of the Atlanta Young Artists' Club.

Elizabeth Hopson in Florida.
A card from Elizabeth Hopson this week let us know that she is on a vacation at Daytona Beach. She said she is resting, but she is probably gathering new ideas for teaching compositions, of which she is becoming a prolific composer.

Billy Munn's New March.
Billy Munn, who is also represented in all the worth-while lists of teaching material, has recently received copies of his newest publication. It is called "School and Fraternity March." It should be welcomed by all persons using marches as a long-needed variety.

These "Gold Diggers" in Film With Vallee

Here are four of the girls who will do the gold digging in the new production, "Gold Diggers in Paris," which opens Friday at the Fox theater. In the leading male role is Rudy Vallee, the crooner.

When Colin Tapley talked to his 16-year-old sister via short-wave radio the other evening she asked him two questions. One concerned plans she has for a dramatic career and whether or not he thought it advisable for her to come to Hollywood. Then she asked him to send her a bright red dress.

Miss DuPree Weds Principals in Summer Wedding Ceremonies Mr. Oley, of N. Y., At Home Ceremony

NEW YORK, June 25.—John DuPree, of New York, formerly of Brownsville, Tenn., announces the marriage of his sister, Miss Catherine DuPree, to Neil S. Oley, of New York, formerly of Atlanta, Ga. The ceremony took place today at 1 o'clock at the country estate of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Powell at Hopatcong, N. J.

The ceremony was followed by a luncheon party with the bride and groom as guests. Mr. Oley and his bride took an airplane in the early afternoon at Newark for Detroit. After a visit there they will tour Canada before returning to New York on August 1 to reside at 401 East Eighty-sixth street.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John L. DuPree, of Brownsville, Tenn. She is a niece of Miss Berda J. Thomas, of Atlanta, Ga., with whom she resided for several years. She has a wide circle of friends in Atlanta, where she graduated from the Girls' High school, who will be interested in the announcement of her marriage.

Mr. Oley is a native of Knoxville, Tenn. He graduated from the University of Pennsylvania and is now president of the Mapor Corporation Engineers in New York.

CALLING ALL CARDS.

Bridge nips-ups from yesterday's mail bag for post-mortems.

Bridge Hands.

To the question so many times asked: "What is the number of ways in which 52 cards can be dealt into four hands?" the answer is:

8,940,789,627,581,465,473,206,240,000.

Authority for this statement is Dr. Harold W. Sibert, professor of mathematics, University of Cincinnati.

According to Dr. Paul V. Sangren, president of Western State Teachers' College, Kalamazoo, Mich., it figures up to eight nonillion, nine hundred and forty octillion, seven hundred and eighty-nine septillion, six hundred and twenty-seven quintillion, five hundred and eighty-one quadrillion, four hundred and sixty-five trillion, four hundred and seventy-three billion, two hundred and six million, two hundred and forty thousand times.

Practically all figures used today in applying mathematical probabilities to card distribution go back to the work of Dr. William Pole, published in 1866, and based on results of some 2,000 hands which leaves considerable room for error. Another error which disturbs Pole's laws of frequency from operating perfectly is because they were based on a perfect shuffle.

Professor L. F. Woodruff, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, believes four good shuffles will cause the resulting distribution to approach mathematical expectancies as applied to actual bidding and play.

spade suit to bidding two diamonds.

Bid Two Clubs.

Answer: Two clubs, which is a free raise over East's heart overcall.

Four Notrump Overall.

I held the following hand after opponent on my right opened the bidding one heart. Spades, A G 10 5; Hearts, none; Diamonds, K J 10 9; Clubs, A K 10 9 7 6. What was my correct bid? . . . Mrs. J. H. Wells, Tucson, Ariz.

Answer: Bid four notrump as a forcing takeout for partner to show his best suit. A double might have been left in for penalties and to overall five spades, diamonds or clubs would only be trying to guess a fit in partner's hand.

Douglas—Arnold.

MACON, Ga., June 23.—The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Douglas, of Macon, and W. C. Arnold, of Danville, took place Monday in the rectory of St. Joseph's church here. Father Peter McDonnell performed the ceremony in the presence of a few friends and relatives.

The attendants were Miss Cortz Douglas, sister of the bride, and Ernest Williams. Miss Douglas wore Copenhagen blue chiffon with white accessories.

The bride was lovely in royal grape chiffon with white accessories and a white off-the-face crepe hat. Her corsage was of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Douglas, parents of the bride, entertained at an informal buffet supper.

After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Arnold will reside in Danville.

WHEN JUSTICE TRIUMPHED

By PETER LEVINS.

"My name is Allen Waite—I live in the apartment above Dr. James Seder, the minister, at 2051 Eighth avenue," the caller told the police. "I'm afraid something may have happened to Dr. Seder because the lights burned in his place all last night, and I noticed today that his mail is still in the box and his evening newspaper is still on the porch."

Patrolman Charles Clark hastened to the scene in a radio patrol car—the time was 8:30 p. m., Tuesday, November 2, 1937, the city was Huntington, W. Va. When the officer found the back door unlocked he immediately called headquarters, and three members of the homicide squad arrived a few minutes later. They quickly encountered some mystifying developments.

1. All bed clothing, except the sheet next to the mattress in Dr. Seder's bed, was missing. The remaining sheet was torn, as if it had been jerked violently.

2. All three white canes, which the minister owned, were in the house. Waite pointed out that Dr. Seder never went without one of these at night as his sight was failing.

The police learned that Dr. Seder, an unusually tall, heavily-built man of 79, had been living alone for four months, his wife having become ill while visiting a son in St. Paul, Minn. (This son was Arthur Raymond Seder, comptroller of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railroad. Another son, Willard, who lived in Pittsburgh, was an official of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.)

LAST SEEN BY TENANT AT 6 IN THE EVENING.

On the previous day the minister had seen friends and acquaintances, as well as Mrs. C. S. Chandler, his secretary for nine years. Mrs. Chandler had called as usual to handle his correspondence, and to take dictation for the religious articles he wrote for English and German publications. She told the police that he seemed highly nervous and worried. He talked at length, she said, about money matters and about hiring a man to watch his houses.

Dr. Seder had been last seen at 6 p. m. Monday, when T. A. Keller, a tenant in a house he owned around the corner, called to pay his rent. Keller said that the minister seemed cheerful and in good health.

When Willard Seder arrived from Pittsburgh he requested the Federal Bureau of Investigation to assign agents to the case, and summoned his brother, Arthur, and a sister, Mrs. Allan T. Burns, who lived in New York city.

Willard was convinced from the start that his father had been kidnapped—and this theory was substantiated seven days after the disappearance, when a ransom note reached the Seder residence. It had been mailed in Huntington the previous Saturday.

The letter read:

"Raymond Seder: Your father being held for $30,000 ransom—now hold level head—call all law off—pretend you found him in St. Paul. He wrote you a letter left here Wed. Morn. to 1357 or 1175 N. Cleveland street, St. Paul. Now Raymond its up to you; when you see the old gent again—you get this money all used bills no serial no's taken $15,000 in five dollar bills, $18,000 in ten dollar bills, $17,000 twenty dollar bills. We hold old gent one week after we get the money so we can exchange it. If one of my companions get caught exchanging this money then dont expect to see him alive again. Now we want axion now at once. When you get the money ready put this add in Huntington Advertiser special notice column. (Peg—Am waiting call Sally). When the add appears then you will get full instructions until then you can hear no more. He has red cane, 2 double blankets a comfort 1 dark blanket we'll say he had it 40 years. Act at once and dont for get if you dont follow instructions you will not see him alive again."

The Seder family was sure that the ransom note was authentic, since it was true that one of the missing blankets was 40 years old and since the minister's red cane had also been taken. The envelope and two sheets of paper were placed in cellophane and delivered to the Federal men. (Cellophane envelopes had been provided in anticipation of a demand for ransom.)

Use of the U. S. mails automatically brought the case under federal jurisdiction, and ten agents went to work under the command of R. E. Vetterli. The Seder brothers told him that it would be very difficult for them to pay as much as $50,000, but he advised them to play along with the kidnapers for the time being to avoid injury to the victim. Accordingly the following advertisement was published in the personal columns of both Huntington dailies:

"PEG: Anxious to see you, but haven't enough money to make the trip. Write and advise. Am waiting SALLY."

This notice failed to bring a response of any kind.

Meanwhile, on Wednesday, the 10th, Albert Ronk, a farmer of Gragston Creek, remote mountainside community in adjacent Wayne county, heard what he thought was a man moaning in the woods near his place. He did not do anything about it at the time, but the next morning he got his nephew, Edgar Ronk, and they visited the spot, which was about half a mile from the road.

They found Dr. Seder, bruised and very weak, on a wooded slope, several feet from the entrance to an abandoned mine. He was muttering incoherently.

Since the Ronks realized that they would not be able to get him out alone, they hastened at once to Wayne, and presently the missing man arrived there in an automobile. As the machine skidded to a stop in front of the office of Dr. Glenn Johnson, someone in the crowd shouted, "Is it Dr. Seder?"

"There is no doubt about it," replied M. E. Ketchum, deputy United States marshal for the district. Then, as the crowd gathered around the car, he ordered them back, saying, "the old gentleman is in bad shape."

Dr. Seder began to moan as if he were in pain. He whimpered pitifully as he was lifted out of the car. Blackened eyes and lacerations on his head indicated that he had been severely beaten. His son, Willard, voice choked with emotion, whispered, "Father" as he embraced him.

"Do you know me, Father?" Willard asked.

Dr. Seder stared intently for a moment, then replied, "It's Willard."

"Yes. You're all right now, father. Everything is all right. You're going to be just fine. Arthur and all the family are in Huntington."

"Thank God," the minister said, clinging to his son's hand. "It is like Heaven to be here, Willard. It is like Heaven."

He asked then for something to eat. An agent brought a glass of milk, and he drank eagerly until cautioned to take it easy. The officer fed him small sips of milk until the glass was drained. "I'm hungry," he whispered. But because of his condition he was not given more food at this time, nor was he questioned at length.

"I was gagged and thrown in the mine," he managed to explain. "It rained in there and the stones were sharp."

He had fashioned a bed out of the bedclothing which became stained with his blood. Finally he had succeeded in freeing himself of his bonds and had crawled out into the open, where the Ronks heard his cries.

"I knew one of the kidnapers well," he told Ketchum. "I can't recall his name, but he lives in one of my apartments. He is bald-headed and he gave me a check that was bad."

When the Huntington police heard this piece of information they set forth at once to arrest Arnett Allan Booth, 46, who lived right around the corner from Dr. Seder. Booth had passed a bad check three weeks before the kidnaping, but the police had dropped the case when Dr. Seder made good the check, explaining that Booth was one of his tenants.

This man had been questioned early in the kidnap investigation and again on November 8, in the presence of Willard and Arthur Seder. He had looked the brothers in the eye and declared that he thought very highly of Dr. Seder.

PRISONER QUICKLY TRAPS HIMSELF.

Booth was arrested in his apartment at 8 o'clock that evening. He had been listening to a radio program. Federal men, in a quick search found some hotel stationery of the same weave of paper as that used in the ransom note; also a package of cheap envelopes similar to the one in which the note had been mailed. Each of these envelopes had an imperfect fold, due to a dull cutting tool—the ransom envelope had the same imperfection.

The prisoner trapped himself less than an hour after his arrest. Requested to write in his own hand a letter embracing the text of the ransom letter, he wrote "axion" for "action," as had the writer of the note.

Booth confessed then that he had written the ransom letter, but denied any part in the actual abduction. "I just thought I might cash in on the old man's disappearance," he explained. "I got the idea after talking with Mrs. Chandler about the case on November 3. I wrote the note a couple of nights later after getting some stationery at a hotel."

"In this letter I stated that Dr. Seder was being held for $30,000 ransom and also that a letter had been mailed to Raymond Seder on Wednesday at St. Paul."

"I did not know that such a letter had been written, however, I figured that since Dr. Seder had been kidnaped that a ransom had been demanded. For this reason when setting forth the denomination of the bills, I requested $50,000, thinking that if the previous letter had requested $50,000 they would think my letter was from the kidnapers. . . . The next morning, which was Saturday, I decided to mail the letter so I placed it in an envelope and addressed it to Raymond Seder, 2051 Eighth avenue, Huntington.

"At this time I had not decided on a definite plan to collect the money; however, I had read about a kidnaping case in Michigan where the kidnapers had the money thrown out of an automobile."

"I decided to have the money dropped somewhere on the streets of Huntington. However, I had not decided where. On Tuesday, November 9, I read in the paper that the Seder boys had both gone home and so I did not look for the newspaper advertisement in answer to my letter. I figured they had gone home for the money and would not be back for a week, so I did not expect the advertisement until about that time."

Lieutenant Leslie Swann, of the Huntington police, and the G-Men permitted Booth to make his detailed explanations—then started in on him again, with the result that at 2 p. m., November 12, he confessed to the kidnaping and named two confederates, Orville (Pete) Adkins, 25, and John Travis, 25, both of Huntington.

DECIDED THEY OUGHT TO MAKE SOME MONEY.

"It was on Hallowe'en evening the first time I learned that Seder was worth any money," his second statement began. "He came to my apartment and in talking of his children told me about his son, Raymond, in St. Paul, who had a good job with the railroad. From his conversation

The Planets—Your Daily Guide

By BERNICE DENTON PIERSON.

Bernice Denton Pierson, eminent astrologer, has prepared this forecast in brief for a handy reference convenient to Constitution readers. This guide will aid you, for it indicates the most auspicious time to begin any new endeavor, whether it be business, social or domestic.

JUNE 26—SUNDAY: The early morning hours and until 7:41 a. m. should be a most enjoyable period, when pleasant and enjoyable relations with others are found. Between 7:41 a. m. and 8:56 p. m. religious interests, domestic and social affairs are favored. Plans can mature quickly, and this is an auspicious time to attend to progressive and humanitarian ideas. After 8:56 p. m. caution should be used around liquids and avoid anything of a questionable nature.

JUNE 27—MONDAY: New beginnings today should progress quickly. Agreements, promises, dealings with professional people, finances and educational interests can take new turns, and you should feel a renewed interest and vigor in such affairs, without feeling that you are being hampered.

JUNE 28—TUESDAY: Previous to 1:11 p. m. you should have the ability to concentrate on the work at hand with a feeling of peace towards those around you. Work in and around artistic affairs, in pleasures, sociability, dealings with women and their needs. Domestic affairs should be beneficial. However, before 3:30 p. m. is not a good time for works in steel, firearms, or for obtaining your desires from people who are aggressive and determined. The remainder of the day brings influences that are binding and retarding and possibly undesirable events.

JUNE 29—WEDNESDAY: A tendency towards getting into difficult situations will have to be carefully watched before 12:36 p. m., either through talking too much or undertaking too heavy a load. Written matter and travel are apt to offer the most difficult problems. After 12:36 p. m. projects of a progressive nature, electrical devices and new ideas, and contacts with people who are unusual are especially favored.

JUNE 30—THURSDAY: Very favorable influences predominate before 3:47 p. m. for general business activities—wholesale and retail—for dealings with professional people, for matters related to education, for social and artistic affairs. There are times however, when influences while good, also lead to extravagance and this period is one of them. After 3:47 p. m. your mind may be disturbed or your health upset, and overexertion both mentally and physically should be avoided.

JULY 1—FRIDAY: The entire day is not favorable for new and important undertakings, for the influences tend to retard or delay matters or bring disappointments, with an inability to gain the expected results that you at first hoped for.

JULY 2—SATURDAY: You may have opportunities to go after your highest ideals today and until 10:42 p. m. Good-will and co-operation are more easily obtained. Intuitions will be keener and you can express yourself favorably.

HOW TO USE THESE INDICATIONS TO BEST ADVANTAGE.

Should you receive an important telephone call, giving you the first news you have of a certain thing, look and see if the influences at that particular time are friendly or unfriendly. The outcome of that call will be colored by the influence prevailing then.

If you wish an astrological chart covering your sign of the Zodiac, Bernice Denton Pierson will be glad to send it to you. State your birth month and date (year unnecessary). Write your name and address plainly. Accompany this with 10 cents in stamps or currency to cover clerical expenses, together with self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address: Bernice Denton Pierson, care Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Chart will be sent promptly.

I CAN SEE THROUGH YOU!

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE girls are giving themselves away these days, wrapped in cellophane, too. Maybe it is a heel-tap revolution caused by the last twitches of the "swaddling clothes" which the old-time feminists urged the girls to shuck off; maybe it's just plain sun-worshipping; anyway, it looks good whatever its excuse—here's to you, 1938 Summer Girl, you transparent little minx!

Not that this hide-and-go-seek with shadow and substance on the part of the ladies is an idea they ran up themselves, however; it was at least three years ago that a grand piano originated the fad, sending itself out as a Christmas present all wrapped up in peek-a-boo paper. And before the naive native New Yorker got over his amaze concerning this bit of artistry, dogged if someone didn't high-pressure the sale of a model house in the suburbs by swathing it coyly from attic to subcellar in sheer, glassine sheets.

Girls don't get run over by fire horses on a rainy day anymore. This tragic end, formerly taking a heavy toll of youth and beauty, is now almost unheard of: we got transparent umbrellas. Yep—you can see the horses coming almost before you can hear them. Take fingernails—go right ahead. Take them. We've got plenty more. They are transparent, of course, and you just glue them on over the nibbled vestiges of your natural born ones.

It is only this Summer that Cinderella's famous glass sandal actually came to light. It came to light and the light shone through it radiantly, clear as a glass eye—a glassine slipper for Cinderella, Size Three AA; they had it in the first television show—don't ask us why.

To be truthful it is not radio but water—ocean, rain or plumbing—which brings out the best in transparent tricks. We have, for instance, the translucent raincoat which can be pure poesy if you can catch a girl wearing a flowered dress covered by a sheer wrapper. Dew on the petal, all that sort of thing.

It would be indelicate to catch anybody in a shower bath, but take our word for it that the new shower curtains are as transparent as the new umbrellas although the reason for this eludes us even after considerable thought. There are many types of bathroom accident, the in-

Newest of the transparent gadgets is this streamlined hat with an adjustable plastic sun-disc to protect that schoolgirl complexion.

Illustration by A. S. Packer.

The 1938 Summer girl is a transparent little minx, and here are some of the secrets she's letting out of the bag let us say that this day is her wedding day.

Well, up she gets at the crack of dawn, carolling her happiness in her shower, behind a sheer shower curtain. Her toothbrush has a transparent handle; her dressing table is glass. In comes her breakfast tray—glass, with transparent service on it, even to cutlery handles. For an hour after breakfast our heroine opens wedding presents, all of them sealed up in cellophane. A little bit fagged by all this effort, a jump in the lake is indicated for refreshment. All her impedimenta are transparent; it is just by the grace of her swim suit that she can cast a decent shadow.

At four o'clock our little bride climbs into her wedding gown, which is a cloud of tulle flounced all to a crackling froth with guess what? Cellophane! Even her orange blossoms are you-know-what, and for all we know she may have borrowed Cinderella's slippers. We are sure about the wedding dress, for Leonora Ormsby designed it and we surance people assure us, but few of them are what you might classify as traffic accidents, which eliminates any fire horses on the loose inside the home.

Transparencies on the beach have two reasons for their popularity. One of them is obvious; the other is that your proper transparent beach wrap permits the hide to tan prettily and safely. The transparent beach cloak is a personal delight, a 1938 hickory limb which tickles the modern mermaid silly. Little she knows that a practical joker nearly ruined the whole setup a couple of years ago on the Riviera when he dealt out semi-transparent swim suits to his guests one hot day. Enchanted with something new to wear, the ladies dove into the water and to their horror, felt the suits dissolving like orange ice in Bacardi. The whole scheme for transparent trappings very nearly came to an abrupt end at that moment.

Let us take up, ray by ray, a completely transparent day in the life of a smart young woman. Just to make the trick more difficult, have inspected it. Not caring for weddings, as they always make us tearful, we will leave our bride ripping apart the transparent box which delivered her wedding bouquet.

Did she stay on the beach from ten to three o'clock? Well, no, now that you ask. Seems she had to have an eyetooth pulled, but the dentist inserted a transparent composition tooth which he stuffed with tinted goo so that it exactly matched the shade of her natural teeth, and it will last at least until she can get back from her honeymoon.

A Doctor Looks at SLEEP

Maybe you're not alone in some of your ideas

By ANTHONY WEYMOUTH,
Noted London Harley St. Doctor.

THE Average Man has a fairly definite sleep routine. He goes to bed about 10:45, gets up at seven (but not the moment he wakes). On Sundays, though, he takes an extra hour and a half, and he believes that an hour's sleep before midnight is worth two after.

How much sleep do you need? I'm sure that this depends on your habits, your temperament, and, to some extent, on what you have trained yourself to expect.

Some people say that they can get along nicely, thank you, with as little as four hours a night.

But most people need more—seven, eight, or even nine hours. One reader says he feels "rotten" unless he gets his twelve hours!

Seventy per cent of readers get up later on Sundays. Personally, I think that's a good idea—but I can understand the people who say that they don't like sleeping later one day a week—it always gives them a headache.

I don't disbelieve them. Some people's circulations get sluggish if they sleep too much.

For there's no doubt you can allow yourself more sleep than you need. And the extra hour may merely make you heavy. You've had all the rest you need: so all you get for the extra sleep is a sort of hang-over.

Sometimes you feel good if you get up the first time you wake. Sometimes you don't feel so good if you drop off again.

The first time you woke your circulation was ready for the stimulus of getting up. The extra snooze, on top of a night's sleep, slowed it down too much, and I expect it needed something like a cold bath before it could get going.

Is there anything in the idea that one hour's sleep before midnight is worth two after? That extra hour you stay up (which you might have spent in bed) may just turn the scale between a normal and an unhealthy degree of fatigue.

Ever noticed that when you wake up from a nap in the afternoon you often feel like nothing on earth?

Here the park has provided a haven for a tired male, where sleep, that blessing of mankind, may bring renewed vigor.

Doctors suggest warm baths for adults as just as efficient as for babies, in inducing sleep.

You probably felt sleepy because you were digesting. You didn't need sleep so much as exercise.

And now let's talk about what your mind has to do with your sleep. Can you unintentionally stop yourself sleeping by using your mind?

You certainly can. An active mind keeps your blood circulating. Sleep leads to a fall of blood-pressure in the brain. Blood then goes to other parts of the body.

That's why one reader is right when he maintains that the lower parts of the body in particular should be kept warm, and therefore well supplied with blood.

So don't get excited near bedtime.

You won't be able to relax. And you've simply got to lie limply in bed if you want refreshing sleep.

How is it that so many people can wake themselves up as punctually as an alarm clock? And why do some people sleep fitfully if they have to get up earlier than usual, or if they know they've got something important to do?

Answer is that the part of the mind you use when you're awake and the part which takes charge when you're asleep are never completely separated.

You fall asleep with the idea that

World's Sleeping Habits

QUESTIONS . . . AND ANSWERS

(Summary of 4,500 Letters on Sleeping Habits.)

1—What time do you go to bed? 10:30 p. m., 27 per cent; 10:00 p. m., 26 per cent; 11:00 p. m., 22 per cent; 11:30 p. m. onwards; 16 per cent; 9:30 p. m., 9 per cent.

2—What time do you get up? 7 a. m., 31 per cent; 7:30 a. m. and after 20 per cent; 6:30 a. m., 19 per cent; 6 a. m., 18 per cent; 5:30 a. m., 12 per cent.

3—Do you get up immediately after you wake? No, 63 per cent; Yes, 37 per cent.

4—If not, how long after? ¼ hr., 26 per cent; 10 mins., 24 per cent; ½ hr., 22 per cent; 5 mins., 18 per cent; 1 hr. 10 per cent.

5—Are you awakened by an alarm clock or on your own accord? Own accord, 65 per cent; alarm, 26 per cent; various, 9 per cent.

6—Do you get up earlier or later on Sundays? Later, 70 per cent; same time, 24 per cent; earlier 6 per cent.

7—How much earlier or later? 1 hr. later, 48 per cent; 2 hrs. later, 30 per cent; ¼ hr. later, 13 per cent; indefinite, 9 per cent.

8—If you go to bed later than usual do you feel the effects next day? No, 46 per cent; Yes, 54 per cent.

9—Do you think one hour's sleep before midnight is worth two after? Yes, 63 per cent; No, 37 per cent.

at all costs you mustn't be late next day. This produces anxiety; and anxiety prevents the complete relaxation you need for deep sleep. And the idea you've taken to sleep with you, then acts like an alarm-clock.

Sometimes it is a pity it does. Because the quality of sleep is never so good if there is anxiety.

Don't we all know the difference between sleep which is free from worries and the kind that's known as "cat's sleep"?

You've got to decide for yourself how much sleep you really need. So long as you're well, don't worry about whether you're sleeping a little longer or a little shorter than someone else.

If you're not well, and sleeping's a difficulty, ask yourself why. Can't you get off to sleep? Or is it that you keep waking up?

If it's the first, look to the conditions in which you're sleeping. (Is your room noisy? Are you too hot or too cold?) If it's the second, chances are it's one of two things—either your digestion isn't right, or you're using your brain too near bedtime.

Ever wonder how it is a dog can fall asleep at any moment? You and I can't. That's because our minds are so much active.

I'm No Angel!

—That's what the wealthy Mr. Reynolds told the Court when a Broadway producer asked $10,000 — and now his suing wife calls his words too true

Illustration by Raymond Thayer.

By POLLY PLAYFAIR.

"BUT is it true to life?"

Again and again producer Johnny Walker asked this question as he looked over the script of "This Pretty World", the production in which lovely Helene Fortescue Reynolds, wife of one heir to fabulous tobacco millions, was to make her Broadway debut.

The script now lies in a crumpled heap in the producer's desk, and may never be staged because of disputes and litigation, but so true to life was one scene in it that in effect it popped right out of the page and into a court record.

In Helene Reynolds' suit for separation, brought a few days ago against Julian Reynolds, cousin of the late Smith Reynolds, ill-fated husband of torch-singer Libby Holman, the madcap heiress charged:

"In December, 1936, we were at the Stork Club with mutual friends, when without any provocation my husband slapped my face and accused me of flirting."

It was just one of a series of charges against the tobacco heir, but the little scene in the night club was an almost perfect replica of a bit in "This Pretty World" where two characters are seated in a restaurant. From the play's script the parallel is obvious:

JIM: You've hardly said a word tonight, Doris. What's the matter?

(Doris's eyes wander across the room absently. Jim's follow hers.)

JIM: Oh—so that's it! I might have known!

DORIS: Known what, Jim?

JIM: (angrily) Why it's that fellow again! It seems no matter where we go—

DORIS: You're being ridiculous—

JIM: (anger mounting) Don't tell me that. Do you take me for a fool? You've been flirting with him all evening—

DORIS: You're crazy—

JIM: Crazy, am I? I'll show you—

(He leans across the table and slaps her face.)

That scene from the play was not alone, however, in proving prophetic in the lives of Julian and Helene Reynolds. For months, it seems, the destinies of the play and the Reynolds' marriage melodrama were inextricably entwined.

Helene, who is a sister of Thalia Massie Fortescue (once mixed up, innocently, in a Honolulu murder case) and Reynolds were married in July, 1936. It was during this same month, according to Johnny Walker's testimony, in his recent "Broadway Angel" suit against Julian, that negotiations began with Reynolds for the investment of $10,000 in "This Pretty World". During the next few months, Helene claims, her husband used caveman tactics toward her.

"Without provocation he slapped my face and accused me of flirting" — the scene popped out of script and into a real drama.

"Uncontrollable temper and insane jealousy" were quoted by the blonde socialite as the reasons for her separation action, and she charged that her husband beat her frequently, flashed razors menacingly and otherwise terrified her out of her wits. Helene had dramatics in her personal life as well as at rehearsals, it seems.

According to testimony at the "angel" suit, Helene, who was in the play, was enacting a will-o'-the-wisp role both at home and on the stage. For Walker claimed that it was during this same period that he couldn't locate Helene for rehearsals and neither could her husband.

It was "curtains" for the play when Reynolds finally withdrew his financial support. And the judge provided a doleful exit march for the producer when he awarded the decision to Reynolds on the grounds that Walker didn't try hard enough to find Helene.

It was during this hectic period, too, that Helene staged her joy-ride in a butcher's truck.

Reynolds was out of town for a few days and Helene, bored with her own company, went on a party out on Long Island. In the wee, small hours, returning home, the prankish heiress spied a parked truck and, on a dare, drove it wildly home. When the butcher missed his truck next morning there was quite a hullabaloo, but everything was settled satisfactorily. After all, the Fortescue family was pretty well known for its pranks.

Helene's father, the distinguished Major Granville Rolland Fortescue, for years had kept the army in a dither with his practical jokes, and Helene's sister, Thalia, before her marriage to Lieutenant Massie, also had her prankish outbursts.

On one occasion, Thalia and Massie, who were engaged at the time, threw the entire residential section of Bayport, Long Island, into near panic by "kidnaping" a baby. The baby's parents were in a movie house and trustingly had left their child in a carriage outside. The young lovers came along and decided to give the baby a carriage ride. In the meantime the parents were hysterical with grief. The baby was brought back, of course, but Thalia and Lieutenant Massie were haled before a judge. He gave them a severe lecture anent "practical jokes", then let them go.

Helene's latest action is no laughing matter,

Mrs. Helen Fortescue Reynolds—her foot-light debut was postponed, but there were dramatics at home, she claimed in her suit.

however. It was one thing, she contends, to be slapped in the face on the stage, but in real life, she "couldn't (or wouldn't) take it".

HOLE IN THE WALL

EVERY other man who knew Dale was in love with her. But she was in love with Perry, probably the only man who wasn't in love with her.

Perry was an artist. That is, he drew things on stiff paper. No one but Perry had ever admitted, let alone proclaimed, that he was an artist.

Dale was a model. That everyone admitted and proclaimed. She was tops in demand among the foremost illustrators of the Big Burg. Her income was substantial.

Dale was not a Bohemian. She lived at home with her folks, went to church, liked movies, smoked a little, drank a little, liked to dance without making it an obsession—well, just a natural, all-around girl, despite her flattering and unusual status of a professional beauty.

She had never posed for Perry—that is, for pay. He couldn't have hired her for twenty minutes. He was always broke. He was always squawking, and he was always out of luck. A lot of chaps better situated would have told you that being loved by Dale was plenty of luck; but it didn't impress Perry at all. He was all for his art and for what he called "reco'nition".

Why anyone should have "reco'nized" the misshapen figures he created to make a nickel's-worth of good paper worth nothing no one knew but Perry. He put "significances" into them. And there they lay—no other person could get them out again.

Perry had met Dale at an exhibit of a successful artist, when a magazine cover for which Dale had posed was awarded the most conspicuous position.

Perry didn't think so much of girl-artists, magazine-covers, models or illustrators. Such bourgeoisie banalities had no "significance". There was no cloud that, if you looked at it from a certain angle, made a hammer-and-sickle; there was no minor character in the background who expressed "the spirit of man strangled by commercialism".

But, through that inexplicable human chemical process which all the science of all ages has failed to analyze, the gorgeous, healthy, desirable and desired Dale went haywire about this dour, disappointed, self-pitying introvert, who was so self-centered that he had no eyes for even her.

Dale all but threw herself at him. She tried desperately to understand, to appreciate his art—which surely was "the last measure of devotion".

She thought his unkempt and shabby appearance rather charming than repellent.

Though she had seldom visited and never frequented the "hole-in-the-wall" types of hangouts where artists' colonies so famously fraternize, she descended to even these for him. She was very much in love.

Perry was a confirmed addict to queer foods, cheap and formidable drinks, garlic, sawdust, coverless tables and candle-lit cellars.

There Perry played Hamlet, threw himself into postures of despair and disgust, and raved until the rickety walls rattled. After about his third mug of homebrew beer he would get going good.

"Why?" he would yip. "Why? Why should I give up my life, my soul, my spirit, to the expression of the true in art? Because, very simply, I am an artist."

"And what is my reward? Tangibles mean nothing to me—less than the empty paint-tubes thrown into garbage cans. I don't mind starving—physically. That has always been the lot of artists. But—

"In this dumb, uninspired, chiseling and grubbing world, I am a failure. I am a failure because ham editors of trashy magazines won't buy my work to ballyhoo their bilge; because fat, rich collectors won't buy my originals to hang on the walls of their rococo rooms; because hotels and theatres and restaurants don't engage me to concoct pseudo-historic murals for their corridors and restrooms.

"I would as soon do lettering on the windows of beaneries. I would sooner make designs for auto-trailers or illustrations for lingerie ads to plug basement bargain sales.

"Am I exhibited? Do the art connoisseurs, critics, editors go into ecstasies? H'mph—they don't see anything in my work when they see my work at all!"

Dale would try to console him.

"But, you are still young. The entire history of artists has been that most of them are not appreciated until long after they've passed on. It takes generations to fathom what contemporaries entirely overlooked. They're still finding new hidden meanings, nuances, shadings in the old masters, the classics."

"Bosh! There's nothing in any of those works that wasn't there all the time. But they suffered, those masters, as I suffer now, not because the world was blind, but because it didn't want to see; because of jealousy, not shortsightedness. "That's what grips me. Reco'nizing me would be a slam against their own styles, the humdrum reproduction on cardboard or canvas of a mess of dead fish or some snappy young wren. The greatest of them can't do it as well or as thoroughly as a 98-cent tourist's camera. There it is, and there they picture it. What does it symbolize?"

"Has it overtones? Has it theme? Has it imagination? Has it more than two dimensions? Has it mental or spiritual perspective? Does it give anything? Does the artist return more than his model contributes? Answer me those."

"You are right, dear," Dale would sigh. "But you are only echoing the eternal cry of genius. My poor Perry...how about another beer?"

Dale stood with flaming cheeks and crackling eyes, facing Monroe De Faye. De Faye was one of the most successful of the illustrators. He had just finished a knockout—a portrait in full colors of Dale, dressed in smart sports togs, looking smilingly over a cocktail glass she held. It was for a whiskey ad.

And Monroe, jubilant over his opus, had flung his arms around Dale and kissed her. Whereupon Dale had slapped his face.

"But, Dale," he protested. "I love you. I want you to be my wife!"

Dale sneered at him.

"I," she spouted, "am going to marry an artist!"

De Faye staggered backward.

"An artist? And what do you think I am?"

"A 98-cent tourist's camera. Do you return more than I contribute? Are there overtones? Is there a theme?"

"No. It's for a whiskey ad."

"A whiskey ad? What does it symbolize?"

"Symbolize? Why—a cocktail contemplates more than the whiskey this advertises. It presupposes vermouth and sugar and cracked ice and bitters—all those ingredients have gone into the blend —and that blend is expressed in just that shade you see there in the cocktail.

"Certainly there is imagination in the job—yours and mine. I mixed the colors in that cocktail from imagination, you imagined you drank it, tasted it, enjoyed it—look at that satisfied smile on your lovely face... Dale—imagine how it would be to be my wife!"

"An ad-illustrator, can you imagine?" Terry was beeping to Luigi, who owned the hole-in-the-wall. "She said she loved me—and now she marries De Faye, who glorifies whiskey—and canned beans—and ugh! Gimme another beer."

Luigi hesitated. "You know, Perree, you now owing me over sixa dolla," he said.

"I'll pay you. Don't worry. Dale will send me some money. I wrote her today."

"You—you ask her for money, after—"

"I didn't ask her. I just told her how tough things were. She always was one who reco'nized hidden meanings in my art."

WITH a thundering bellow the huge bull elephant surged forward, straining against the chain that held him fast. His trunk shot out and curled like a python around the leg of the man who stood transfixed before him. A quick tug and the man was down, flailing frantically in an effort to keep from being dragged under the feet of the enraged beast. Elephants, he knew, draw their victims close and then lash downward with a heavy, death-dealing foot.

The struggling man's fingers, seeking a hold on something—anything—that would keep him from being dragged forward, closed upon a shovel that was lying near. He smashed its sharp edge down on the sensitive tip of the elephant's trunk, once, twice. The vice-like grip relaxed momentarily, and the victim scrambled to safety.

It had all happened in a few seconds, and five minutes later Alfred Havermeier, famous animal hunter and agent, was rested from his exertions and back at his job in one of the world's strangest industries—the business of supplying animals to zoos.

It is a business of great risks, exciting adventures and good rewards—if you succeed. A rhinoceros, delivered at the zoo gate will bring $8,000. This is tops in animal values. A gorilla sells for $4,000 to $5,000. The most ferocious of all beasts, a Royal Bengal tiger brings $2,000.

Among a group of jungle rarities delivered at New York's Zoo the other day was a Tasmanian Devil which cost $150. Another new acquisition was a Peruvian small deer. "Half pig, half dog and all bad temper" was the description offered by the agent who delivered the Tasmanian Devil. The deer, only specimen of its kind ever brought back alive, and long sought, was captured, oddly enough, when it strayed from its habitat 12,000 feet up in the mountains near Buenos Aires onto a farm in the lowlands. It brought $800.

Rarest of all zoo captives is the Ornithorhynchus Paradoxus, or, slightly unscrambled, the Australian Platypus. It measures a little more than 18 inches from the tip of its duck-like bill to the end of its tail. It costs $1,400. Ellis S. Joseph, agent, recently traveled 10,000 miles to deliver one to Dr. W. Reid Blair, Director of the New York Zoological Gardens. But it died a month after its arrival. On exhibition an hour a day, it ate only shrimps, oysters and wood grubs.

Wild animals are usually more dangerous in captivity than when in their native habitats, according to Havermeier. "Bears of all kinds are the most untrustworthy," he says. "They wear the same expression all the time and you never know whether one is going to be friendly or claw you to shreds."

Death in the icy waters of the Arctic almost swooped down on Captain Bob Bartlett and his men during a battle with "Silver King", a giant polar bear destined for the Bronx Zoo. Sighting his quarry off the coast of a small island in the Arctic Circle, Captain Bartlett put off in a small launch to bring it in. The tiny boat plowed through choppy water towards the bear, and as it drew near, a huge paw swept over the side, and the bear tilted the craft dangerously as he tried to clamber in. Bartlett lashed out with a boat hook and succeeded in driving the enraged animal off. As it retreated, he picked up a lasso, fastened securely to the prow, and looped it over the bear's head.

It required a two-day fight to drop a cage over the captive, once it had been hauled aboard.

The method used by natives of Borneo to capture an orang-utan is tedious and complicated. When the fierce "Man of the Forest" is sighted, drums beat an alarm, and the whole village turns out. The natives take unlighted torches to the spot in which the beast was last seen. When its hiding place is definitely located, the torches are lighted and hunters, forming a circle, slowly converge on it. Trees are felled until only one is left standing in an open space about 100 yards in diameter. At last, hemmed in on all sides, the orang-utan bolts for the solitary tree. Then the natives build a bamboo corral around the tree and put food on the ground as bait. When the hungry orang-utan climbs down to eat, it is lassoed and put in a cage.

One of the hardest specimens to catch is a python. One 22 feet long, and weighing from 125 to 140 lbs., has a market value of $300. Not long ago, Havermeier had a wild battle with one of these monsters that nearly ended his exciting career.

"We had captured a python and were measuring it before shipment," he recalls. "I had turned my back momentarily when, suddenly, I felt a coil around my ankles. Another coil whipped around my arms and shoulders. Scarcely able to breathe, I struck out blindly, and caught the reptile's head in my hands. I

RADISHES are quoted at five cents a ton in the great farming territory within a hundred miles of New York today. The United States Department of Agriculture sends more free literature to this area than to all the rest of the country combined, and Gotham's great bazaars simply cannot keep stocked up with cute peasant fashions for "farm wives".

These alarming phenomena are but a few of the results of the great "Back to the Ser!" movement which has smitten New York City and all big towns this Summer. This frantic escape from the turmoil of the metropolis has been going on for a long time, in a small way. For years the big town's nerve-racked escapists have been running up three-bath shanties in Westchester County. The next huge colony to appear was the one centering about Stamford, Conn. The cozy farmland of Ridgefield, Wilton, Silvermine and South Norwalk attracted dozens of writers, musicians, publishers and agents, or ten-percenters, and the modest morning trains of the New Haven Road suddenly became jammed to the standing point with city folks going back to the big city to dig enough money from the horrid marts of trade to sink a new well or shingle the empty barn.

For several years these two areas sufficed, but all of a sudden other groups of well-dressed hicks leaped across the Hudson and descended on the strangely dull and uninteresting Commonwealth of New Jersey, until then noted only for the bizarre manner in which its husbands disposed of their wives, such as drenching them with kerosene and setting them alight. Now you can hardly roam from a Jersey lane without running head-on into some refugee New Yorker dressed in the simple rustic fashions known to the readers of Harper's Bazaar and the patrons of New York's better merchant tailors.

The past two years have seen even New Jersey overrun by Gotham's well-heeled getters-away-from-it-all. Filled with a pioneer urge to escape to the more remote reaches of the East, many gallant citizens made a flying leap across the historic Delaware River into Bucks County, Pennsylvania, and the Summer of 1938 sees this the last outpost of metropolitan civilization. A few weeks ago I stood on a scrubby hill in Hunterdon County, New Jersey, and looked across the Delaware River valley to this promised land. It was a fairly clear day, and Playwright George S. Kaufman was plainly visible. They tell me that Band-Leader Paul Whiteman can be seen even through a pea-soup fog.

What is the reason of this mad dash of New Yorkers to the "land"?

There are several. The most tenable seems to me to be atavistic. Even the smartest boy or girl on West 45th Street, New York, had a grandpappy who was a plow-chauffeur, and that blood still courses through sophisticated and cynical metropolitan carcasses. There is also a deep-seated, genuine and laudable desire to own a piece of ground, however small and useless. Something entirely their own!

Since 1929, there has been another potent pusher-outer and that is fear—fear of what may happen when the struggling under-privileged march up Park Avenue and heave dornicks through the sacred windows of the Union League Club. Somehow the people with bank accounts and bonds feel a trifle safer hidden away in a remote Jersey nook—which, from a realistic point of view, is both silly and fallacious. Comes the Revolution (which it won't, at least in our day) these phoney farmers will be the first to be "liquidated". In the first place, they are useless "intellectuals", and in the second, they are "exploiters of labor", since they all hire one or two

Big Town's An Flight To The Farm

A new survey of the wilds about New York where the countryside is dotted with city farmers anxiously cultivating their fields and listening for the honk of taxi horns.

By LEONARD HILL

dull-witted hands of the neighborhood to rake the leaves off the driveway and milk the family cow.

All these rural escapists gang up. If one buys a remote farm house in a given area, within a year his pals and competitors completely surround him, and before he knows it he is hearing the same blather that would afflict him in Gotham's Grub Street, theatre district or industrial design camorra.

Let us peer first at the territory in nearby Connecticut populated by the commuting writers, artists and musicians. They are the least pretentious "farmers" of the lot. That is to say, they devoted some of the afternoon to gardening, which makes them late for the staff meetings of the "Connecticut Nutmeg", the weekly paper they now publish for their own amusement.

Denizens of these parts are Ursula Parrott, the popular novelist; Heywood Brown, the confused radical columnist; Quentin Reynolds, who writes powerful journalism for a five-cent national weekly; Westbrook Pegler, the hating columnist, and his brother Jack, an advertising executive; John Erskine, professor and novelist; Deems Taylor, music critic; George Bye, the literary agent who handles the work of top-notch fictioneers and does very well for himself at the trade; Lily Pons, the Metropolitan Opera canary.

Not one of these self-conscious and pioneering citizens makes any pretense at "farming". They garden a little, they write more, and they talk a lot.

The newer New Jersey colony is more pretentious. Women especially, go stark mad over the "possibilities" of the old field-stone houses, and have gone so nuts over Early American furniture that the factories of Newark can hardly turn it out fast enough for the trade.

A week-end at one of these reclaimed "farms" is an education in paradox. At the end of a winding road stands the Manor. Its interior is a simple maze of old American furniture and very new American plumbing—which works. On the living room table you will find the latest esoteric revue muzzling a copy of "The Rural New Yorker". There may be no hay in the restored barn but there is probably an easel, or a gob of modelling clay, or a drawing board.

But there is "stock", of course. There may be a few chickens or a cow named "Caroline", or even a pair of pigs, and always two or three rustic dogs. The "farmers" operate under a sort of noblesse oblige about the stock. That is: "You come and look at my cow and I'll drop over and see your team of sheep". In connection with all growing things on the homey old place, there is always much learned sprouted wildly.

Among the adult and sophisticated

The same holds good for the hither side of the Delaware, in Jersey's Hunt-

And so, in this exciting Summer, the stony towers of New York are entirely surrounded by synthetic hicks. They labor-saving gadgets, and of better grub than you can get in five out of

Of course, they have their silly side, as what hasn't? Such rubes who talk of "subsistence farms" are just talking through their straw hats. In a national crisis the vast majority of these week-

Just the same, such "farming" is

Cook Books aren't sacred!

Screen actress Dixie Dunbar is probably beginning to realize that cook-book recipes call for taste and a bit of imagination, too.

By SHEILA HIBBEN
NOTED AUTHORITY ON FINE FOODS.

THERE comes a time in the life of every woman—at least of every woman who is a cook—when she gets sick and tired of going right by the sacred words of the cook books. Maybe she has been sick and tired a long time, but she won't, she won't, she WON'T, put up with all those peayunish directions about a teaspoonful of this, and a half teaspoonful of that, and a quarter of a cupful of something else, and the yolks of eggs being beaten until thick and lemon colored, and the whites of same beaten until they are stiff and fluffy. Certainly you must have got the feeling at one time or another that unless you could beat those yolks until they were green or purple or any color except pale yellow you would not beat them at all, and if the quantity of salt couldn't be left to your taste and judgment, you would just leave out the salt.

If the writers of cook books realized how humiliating (to say nothing of how aggravating and how discouraging) it is never to be trusted with the amount of parsley, or pepper or salt, or even never to be allowed a choice between parsley and some other brand-new and untried herb, they would, I am sure, leave more to our imagination. On page one of any cook book the amount of salt for a given recipe is carefully measured for us, and we are told that egg whites must be beaten until stiff. You would think that by the time we had strung along with the author as far as page six hundred and sixty-six it would be assumed that we had caught on to the trick of beating egg whites until they were stiff, and that the salt problem would be left to our taste and imagination. But no, if cook books had six thousand six hundred and sixty-six pages, the very last recipe would be given as if we were still in the beginners' class.

At the risk of arguing myself out of a job, I contend that even an unimaginative cook doesn't want always to be told—at least not told everything. Of course (I hasten to add) you wouldn't get on so well without us professionals to tip you off about baking and such like mysteries which have to be done according to rule. But there are some dishes about whose ingredients your guess (or your inspiration) is as good as the guess or inspiration of the New England School itself or of any other oracle. When a restaurant chef makes you some lovely concoction which you have never met up with before, and which you long to serve on your own table, I hold that it's a great pity to refrain from experimenting with the dish just because you haven't the recipe. Take the cooking at the better Chinese restaurants, for example. If you have ever tried to get a recipe from a Chinese chef you will know better than to try again, and certainly know much better than to follow the jumble of directions. On the other hand, there is no reason why your own version of what has pleased you in a restaurant, made only from taste with a bit of imagination thrown in, can't turn out to be quite a masterpiece.

Men are usually much more venturesome as amateur cooks than we women are. They are not hampered by knowing so many rules, and so they go ahead and throw their ingredients together by taste rather than by tradition. Perhaps, too, men get a head-start on us in the way of inventiveness, by having learned their cooking lessons in camps, where what is mixed in the skillet is what there is at hand, not what the cook book says.

The recipes below are my brash imitations of dishes I have enjoyed at Chinese, and Italian, and French restaurants. They may not be authentic, but they are good, and my advice to you is to sail right in and do the same by favorite restaurant specialties for which you haven't any formal recipe.

A NEAR-MEXICAN BEAN DISH (for 6)

- |                                   |                         |
|-----------------------------------|-------------------------|
| 3 cups canned red kidney beans    | 6 slices bacon          |
| 2½ cups canned tomatoes (drained) | 2 tsps. chili powder    |
| 1 green pepper                    | 1 tsp. sugar            |
| 1 small onion                     | 1 leaf sage             |
| 1 slice garlic                    | 2 tsps. chopped parsley |
|                                   | salt                    |
|                                   | red pepper              |

Fry rather thick slices of bacon over a low fire until done. Remove them and keep in a warm place until needed. In the remaining fat fry onions, green pepper and garlic, all finely chopped. When the onion first begins to color, pour in chopped tomatoes, then add chili powder and other seasoning, and cook together for 25 minutes over a low fire. Heat the beans, and arrange them in a ring on a hot platter. Pour the tomato mixture in the middle, and lay the strips of bacon on top. Serve at once with corn muffins.

CHINESE-AMERICAN SHRIMPS (for 6)

Of course this dish can only be made if you live in a city where there are Chinese markets. In New York any of the following Chinese ingredients can be had in Chinatown for a few cents:

- |                          |                    |
|--------------------------|--------------------|
| 1½ lbs. shrimps          | 1 cup bean sprouts |
| ¼ lb. bacon              | 4 water chestnuts  |
| 2 tsps. salad oil        | 2 tsps. flour      |
| 3 scallions              | 2 tsps. sugar      |
| 1 small piece raw ginger | Soy sauce          |
| ¼ lb. mushrooms          | salt               |
| 1½ cups broth            |                    |

Cut bacon in thin strips, place in frying pan with salad oil, and cook for 3 minutes. Shell the raw shrimps, wash them carefully, and add to frying bacon. When the bacon has browned, add finely-chopped scallions (green parts as well as white), peeled and sliced mushrooms, and a very small piece of grated raw ginger. Let all cook together until scallions are tender. Add the broth and cook 3 minutes longer. Add the bean sprouts, and the water chestnuts which have been carefully peeled and sliced, and sugar, Soy sauce, and salt to taste. Mix the flour with a little cold broth, add to the sauce, and let all thicken for a minute. Serve with a large bowl of dry, flaky rice, and a dish of bananas which have been sliced and fried in butter.

BLACKBERRY FRIED CREAM (for 6)

- |                     |                      |
|---------------------|----------------------|
| 1 pt. milk          | 1 whole egg          |
| ¼ cup sugar         | sifted bread-crumbs  |
| 1 tsp. butter       | powdered sugar       |
| yolks 3 eggs        | 1 quart blackberries |
| 5 tsps. corn starch |                      |
| 1 tbsp. flour       |                      |
| 1 tsp. vanilla      |                      |

Add sugar to milk, and bring to a boil. Dissolve the cornstarch and flour in a little extra cold milk, and add to the boiling milk. Cook in a double boiler for 3 minutes, then add the well-beaten yolks, and cook for another 2 minutes, stirring all the time. Take off the stove, add butter and vanilla, and pour out onto a cookie sheet or platter to about 1-inch thickness. Allow to become perfectly cold and very stiff. Cut in small squares, roll in sifted bread-crumbs, then in beaten egg with a few drops of water added, and then in crumbs again. Fry in deep fat, drain on brown paper, and dust well with powdered sugar.

Pick over and wash 1 quart of blackberries, put them in a saucepan with 1½ cups of sugar, mashing a few of the berries. Cook for 4 minutes, and pour into a bowl while still hot. Carefully arrange the fried cream squares in the middle of the bowl, and serve at once with a jug of rich cream.

UNAUTHENTIC RECIPE FOR ITALIAN POLENTA (for 8)

- |                                |                        |
|--------------------------------|------------------------|
| 1 cup yellow corn meal (diced) | 2 cups cold meat       |
| 5 cups boiling water           | 1 tbsp. chopped celery |
| 1 tsp. salt                    | 1 tsp. chopped parsley |
| 1 small onion (chopped)        | few leaves of thyme    |
| 1 green pepper (chopped)       | salt and pepper        |
| 2 tsps. salad oil              | tomato sauce           |
| 2 tsps. flour                  | grated Parmesan cheese |
| butter                         |                        |
| 2 cups broth                   |                        |

Bring water to a fast boil, add salt and dribble the oatmeal into the boiling water by letting it run through the fingers, stirring constantly with the other hand. Cook until a thick mush, then pour onto a platter, and when cold cut in squares, which should be about half an inch thick. Fry onion and green pepper in oil, and when the onion begins to brown, add flour, and cook until well blended. Pour in broth, add cold meat, celery and parsley, and thyme, and cook 10 minutes. Butter a deep baking dish, line with the mush squares, and spread over with the meat mixture, add another layer of the mush, repeat with the meat, and top with a final layer of mush. Pour tomato sauce over all, sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese, and cook for 45 minutes in a moderate oven (350 F.). Serve with extra grated cheese.

That Impulse to Kill?

We're All On the Verge of Emotional Insanity at Times, According to Psychiatry's Probing Eye, So the Lad Who Slew His Sweetheart Might Well Have Been Insane Then, and Perfectly Sane at the Present Time!

By LAWRENCE GOULD

Consulting Psychologist.

"NOT guilty by reason of insanity" was the verdict of the jury which recently tried 16-year-old Donald F. Carroll, Jr., for the confessed shooting of his sweetheart, Charlotte Mattiesen, who begged him to kill her because she had found she was about to become a mother. But because the verdict omitted the words, "at the time of the crime", Judge Thomas Downs, of Queens County Court, could not release Donald at once, and instead, committed him to Bellevue Hospital "for observation". Donald was later pronounced sane by the psychiatric staff of Bellevue, and was released.

Many readers of the reports must have wondered how, if Donald were "insane" two months ago, anyone can be sure he is "sane" now. How did the psychiatrists arrive at their conclusion, and how certain can they be that they are right about it? And what is "insanity", in any case? How can they tell who is "crazy" (as we usually call it) and who is not?

The first thing we should remember is that "insane" is not properly a medical or scientific word. It is a practical, legal term, used to describe a condition in which one is not held morally accountable for his behavior. And there is no rigid rule about it. The decision of a person's "sanity" is a good deal like an army doctor's making up his mind whether a soldier who reports on "sick call" ought to be sent to the hospital or returned to duty. Obviously there is no clear dividing line.

Just as most of us, if subjected to strict medical examination, would show at least minor signs of illness, so most people display symptoms of occasional mental disorder, and under sufficient provocation almost anyone might "go mad" with rage or fear to such an extent that he would do things which he would not dream of doing under ordinary circumstances. In young Carroll's case, the jury evidently felt that the combined effect of his own fear and shame and of Charlotte's pleading was enough to make him incapable of refusing to do what she asked. And for my part, I believe they were right.

Yet, strangely enough, the law does not in theory make any allowance for such a condition. Our criminal practice still adheres to the old error of regarding insanity as a disorder of the intelligence, whereas in fact (except in the case of actual brain disease) it is wholly a disorder of the feelings or emotions. What really takes place when anyone "goes insane" is that his emotions have for the time being overpowered his "sense

Test Your Thinking Power

ONE of the customary tests in so-called insanity cases is a test of the subject's thinking power, or power of "apperception". He usually is asked to read a simple story, such as one of Aesop's fables, and say what the "point" was. Or he might be asked to see what he could do with the "Ebbinghaus test", in which he would be given the following sentences and asked to fill in the blanks:

"Once upon a time a — heard a — chirruping in the —. 'Ah,' he said to himself, 'if I could — like that, how — I should be.' So he bowed low to the —, and said, 'Kind friend, what — do you eat to make your — so sweet?' 'I drink the evening dew,' replied the —. The foolish — tried to live on the same —, and died of —."

of reality", so that he is either temporarily unaware of where he is and what he is doing, or believes things to be true which are not. As one of my teachers used to put it: "An insane man is one who 'knows' things that no one else knows." For example, a man's desire to be more important than he actually is may become so strong that he will believe himself to be the King of England. The keenness of the man's (or woman's) intelligence has nothing to do with the case. I once knew a man who had been actively insane for forty years, and yet had not only kept the fact to himself, but had been able to earn a good living as editor in a publishing house.

Most people display symptoms of occasional mental disorder, and might "go mad" with rage or fear and become emotionally insane.

As he put it: "I know that most people would think my ideas are crazy, so I never talk about them except to somebody who I know will understand them." This man firmly believed that he was "possessed" by the spirit of a murderer whom he had seen hanged, and that he was "tortured for hours every night" by this spirit. Yet in other ways he was one of the most brilliant people I have ever talked to.

The law, on the contrary, holds that if a man is "capable of knowing the nature of his act, and that it is wrong", he is sane, and should be punished, ignoring the fact that all a person "knows" may be forgotten under stress of strong enough emotion. But happily, juries usually have sufficient common sense to recognize that there are such things as "overwhelming impulse", in a case like Donald's.

With a lad like young Donald Carroll, the important question for psychiatrists to decide was whether his loss of the "sense of reality" was permanent or temporary, and also, whether there was enough evidence of "emotional instability" in normal circumstances to make him a danger to the community. They reported that: "He has no delusions, no hallucinations, and no abnormal ideas. He is physically normal, and has moral intelligence." Accordingly, they discharged him. But how did they come to these conclusions?

To begin with, he was literally "under observation" from the moment when he entered the doors of the hospital. Attendants noted how he accepted the formalities of "admission"—giving up his clothes, being assigned to a bed, taking a bath.

The psychiatrists noted his manner and appearance, the way in which he answered their questions (sullenly, loquaciously, confusedly, excitedly, or what not) and the "emotional attitude" he showed toward them. (The report here was: "He displayed no unusual behavior, though he was depressed emotionally.")

After that, his memory was tested.

Finally, there would have come the most important question of deciding how much "insight" Donald had into the condition which had brought him to the hospital. The fact that a person who has been insane has come to recognize his ideas as unreal and his acts as unreasonable is the largest single factor in determining that he has been cured. If the boy said the same things to the examiners that he later said to interviewers, his reply must have been highly satisfactory: "I've realized that the trouble with most youngsters is they think their parents know much less than they know. This is a mistake...No matter what the problem is, a child should realize that his parents can help him, and he should confide in them."

BOOKS and Their Authors . .

Dramatic Story.

THE HANDSOME ROAD. By Gwen Bristow. Thomas Y. Crowell Co., New York. 384 pp. $2.50.

In Gwen Bristow's first novel, "Deep Summer," we are told about the people who built a luxuriant, florid civilization in the setting of Louisiana during the Revolution. "The Handsome Road" is an even better book in which we find Louisiana's civilization demolished and a different one made to take its place. The setting here is during the Sixties.

As we learned in "Deep Summer" the American Revolution meant very little to the rich planters—for instance the Larnes and the Sheramys in Louisiana, they being content to be amused by the "squabble between foreigners." However, in "The Handsome Road" the descendants of the Larnes and the Sheramys, plantation owners of the Sixties, a different war and the period that followed it had terrible significance. As this war went on the inhabitants gradually realized that something 'real' was happening to their lives.

This book is the intensely dramatic story of two women and what the changes this war brought about did to them. Their worlds, both different in every way, were turned upside down. To one it meant destruction; the other, hope.

Historical events are not brought out as prominently as in Miss Bristow's first novel. However, the book has a sparkling flavor, is written in a charming manner and will hold your interest to the end. J. M.

Five Nathan Stories.

THE BARLY FIELDS. By Robert Nathan. Alfred A. Knopf, New York city. 522 pp. $3.

Novels come and go, but few with the deep perception possessed by Nathan's stories ever pass into literary oblivion. It is a fitting thing that five of his finest have been collected under a single cover—to be reread by the present and read again by future generations.

In this single volume, which bears a special introduction by Stephen Vincent Benet, are Nathan's "The Fiddler in Barly," "The Woodcutter's House," "The Bishop's Wife," "The Orchid" and "There Is Another Heaven." Each is a brilliant reflection of Nathan's characteristic skill, beauty and understanding in setting down life's living. J. T.

Teutonic Intrigue.

THE CROWNING OF A KING. By Arnold Zweig. The Viking Press, New York. 458 pp. $2.50.

The last year of the First World War. The lands conquered by the Germans in 1917—Poland, Lithuania, and most of the Baltic States—form the scene of the latest novel by the creator of Sergeant Grischa. This vast territorial mouthful is administered, with bewildering Teutonic thoroughness, by Section V, Ober-Ost. Nothing escapes its watchful eye. Farms, forests, cities and hamlets, live stock and human destinies—all are caught up in the inhuman machinery set up by the "liberators" to serve the needs of the hungry Fatherland. Behind the scenes the engineers of this juggernaut, the masters of Section V, Ober-Ost, plot and intrigue with whole-hearted abandon—to elect a king from among the many German princelets in need of a job, to secure themselves lands in the newly "liberated" provinces, to drive a rascally trade in Lithuanian horseflesh—all to their own small and incidental profit and to the resounding glory of the Fatherland.

There is little of gory action in these pages. Those who seek for war's bloody carnage, for its spirit of high adventure (if any such there be), for tales of romance and derring-do, will seek in vain. This author is ever more concerned with motives than with deeds—he dives beneath the surface of the headlines to seek the true nature of war, and I believe that he has found it. The slow crumbling of ideals, the overmastering instinct for self-preservation that grips these trusted servants of the All-Highest, their ever-increasing fatuity that leads them to plot and scheme about altogether impossible objects—these are the inevitable outgrowths of war. War is the great leveller. It reduces the minds, the aims, and the ideals of mankind to their lowest common denominator. Which is, when all is said and done, pretty low indeed.

Pump-Priming.

KINDLING. By Nevil Shute. Wm. H. Morrow Co. 279 pp. $2.50.

A novel about "Pump-Priming." Timely, apt, and somewhat more intelligently put together than such efforts are wont to be, this tale of the "depressed areas" in Great Britain is pretty sure to be talked about. Also, and incidentally, it is good reading.

Henry Warren, of Warren Sons & Mortimer, London bankers, falls ill while on a walking tour, and being unable to make clear his exalted station in life is thrust into the charity ward of a small-town hospital. From this unusual vantage point he at length gathers the conviction that all is not well in Johnny Bull's Island—that the time-honored British policy of "muddling through" has, in the case of Sharples-on-the-Haw, come to a disquieting standstill. He sees a town devoted to the industry of shipbuilding, with no ships to build and no prospects of ever building any, with its entire population on the "dole" and slowly starving. Being himself in a measure responsible for this state of affairs he sets out, with a total absence of moralizing, to do what he can about rebuilding Sharples. The author's conclusion that in order to do so he must abandon his orthodox financial probity is interesting and, in the light of the somewhat parallel and equally bewildering ramifications of finance on this side of the Big Pond, not altogether lacking in logic. Be that as it may, his subsequent career is decidedly interesting, being described with the fine irony that British authors reserve for Home Affairs that in any other country would be nauseating beyond words. Not altogether equal to the barrage of blurbs that the publishers have seen fit to issue with it, this work is nonetheless thoroughly absorbing.

OLE H. LEXAU.

Boy and Girl Succeed.

PARTS UNKNOWN. By Frances Parkinson Keyes. Julian Messner, New York. 429 pp. $2.50.

There is a sort of Horatio Alger tinge to "Parts Unknown," as it tells the dramatic and interesting story of a boy and girl making good in the face of many difficulties and discouragements. The story concerns Michael Trent, a Harvard graduate who has every qualification for success that a young American should possess except wealth, and Daphne Daingerfield, a small-town Virginia girl who is beautiful and possesses latent talent.

Michael enters the United States

consular service, the pair are married, and for a long period undergo various vicissitudes of life in several out-of-the-way places of the world. The young official is efficient and attracts attention of the state department for his good work, but unfortunately gets in bad with some of the high-ups for criticizing the treatment accorded consular agents. This dooms him to more years in minor places instead of advancement.

But he has attracted the admiration of a patent medicine multi-millionaire who had taken an American ambassadorship as a side line to his business activities, so Michael is given an opportunity to resign from the service and promote the ambassador's cure-all in European countries. From that on there is nothing but success for him and his beautiful helpmeet, and the story leaves him as United States ambassador to the Court of St. James and his clever wife an outstanding social and literary celebrity in America and England.

The author has traveled widely, knows her Washington official life intimately, and has mingled with the cleverest sets at home and abroad. So, she knows whereof she writes, whether it be La Paz, Hongkong, London or Capitol Hill. Moreover, she is a talented handler of the English language and clever in building a story that carries the reader expectantly and eagerly to each succeeding development.

Involved Mystery.

ARTISTS IN CRIME. By Ngalo Marsh. Lee Furhan, New York. 319 pp. $2.

This story starts on a steamer in the South Pacific, and the preliminaries give no indication that it is going to hop to the suburbs of London and develop into a Scotland Yard inspector (who is in love) searching for clues of a murder which occurs at an artists' school conducted by the object of the inspector's affection.

But such is the case. However, in leading up to the crime the story's text is of a breezy and intriguing nature, and the reader's interest is held until suddenly the murder occurs. Then the inspector begins to grill the suspects, and the author manages to make it appear any one of the lot might have committed the crime. Just when the mystery "fan" believes he has solved the affair another murder is committed, and the suspense would be just terrible to endure, but for the fact that the second homicide provides the key to the first crime, so the inspector is enabled to make his "pinch" in a couple of chapters. But read it yourself—it's good, if you like mysteries.

Northwest Mystery.

ONE WHO KILLS. By Ridgwell Cullum. J. B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia. 318 pp. $2.

Swift action makes this story of the twin brothers, Roger and Timothy O'Gawn, dramatic reading from first page to the final climax. The Canadian Northwest, Alaska and the gold rush spell adventure to the young twins who are physically and temperamentally different.

Timothy goes to the gold fields, while Roger joins the Northwest Mounted Police. Adventure, romance and danger draw Timothy to the lovely, raven-haired Maree-bik. John Drave, ruthless and knowing no law but his own, gives fate a murderous twist because he wants Maree-bik for his own, and that draws Timothy's police brother into the dramatic story.

For Children.

WE GO EXPLORING. By Mary Lichliter. John H. Hopkins, Inc., New York. 48 pp. Illust. $2.50.

"We Go Exploring" is a first book in American history for children between the ages of four and eight. The stories are about well-known explorers such as Leif Ericson, Columbus, Amerigo Vespucci, Ponce de Leon, Balboa and others. The author, Mary Lichliter, is dean and instructor in American history at an eastern girls' college.

This is a book for parents who have long been out of school and who, while they may not have forgotten the essential facts of American history, have become confused as to dates and personalities. Miss Lichliter has come to the aid of every parent who has found himself or herself faced with the task of explaining to an inquisitive child something of the history of this country.

Illustrated with pictures that match the text in ability to impress the young mind with the early history of this country, it is a delightful trip of exploration in historical facts for the young boy and girl, through their story hour.

JESSE R. PETTY.

"Home, Sweet Home."

SMALL HOMES OF DISTINCTION. Edited by Horace Coon. Robert M. McBride & Co., New York. 113 pp. $3.75.

Everybody who is interested in houses will enjoy this book for it contains, along with the floor plans, pictures and descriptions of many distinguished "small houses," other pictures and floor plans of not-so-small houses, including those of such celebrities as Louis Bromfield and Galli-Curci.

Every type of house, with the notable exception of southern colonial, which may not be enjoying much of a vogue right now, is included in the volume. There are many New England homes, several California ranch houses, guest houses, week-end cottages—in fact about every kind the builder could possibly be interested in.

In fact, it should prove a handy reference book for anybody whose job it is to plan homes—whether the professional builder or the family that is building one house to live in. The homes in this book have actually been constructed, they're not just plans and sketches.

Large size pages, filled with several hundred photographs and floor plans, make "Small Homes of Distinction" a pleasant book to read and a valuable one to keep.

EUGENIA PATTERSON.

For Students.

HOW TO STUDY. By Samuel Kahn, M. D., Ph. D. Meador Publishing Co., Boston, Mass. 158 pp. $2.

"How to Study" is especially designed for students in the high schools and for those in general and special colleges. It is for all students

GROWING PERENNIALS FROM SEEDS

W. ELBRIDGE FREEBORN.

For the purpose of this article we want to discuss both biennials and perennials as perennials for the method of planting, transplanting and culture are the same for either class, so if you will pardon this continued error we will for the balance of this article refer to both perennials and biennials as perennials.

A general rule that should be followed here in our section is that of planting pansies in July and all other perennials in August. However, plans should be made well in advance, seed boxes should be made ready, beds should be cultivated weeks in advance of the plants' entrance for in that manner you help to insure their success.

The common perennials that should be found in every garden and may be rather easily grown, are yellow alyssum, columbine, white candy-tuft, clove pinks, coreopsis, delphinium, gaillardia, geum, gypsophila, hollyhocks, phlox, physostegia, platycondon, Orientale poppy, painted daisy, sweet William, veronica and Viola. There are many other perennials that will grow fairly well in special situations and many others that will grow unusually well here but ones that are difficult to raise from seed, so for our recommendation we are going to stick to only the perennials mentioned above for we believe that your success will be greater from using these than from any others.

It might be well to pause here a moment and consider a seed. A seed after all is rather a marvelous thing, a tiny germ of life that with the aid of moisture and warmth will produce a beautiful flower within a short period of time if given the proper care. Today we are interested in only two things, giving that seed proper moisture and proper air in order that it will start growing.

First, comes the proper box in which the seeds are to be planted. Probably the easiest size in shape to build is a sturdy, shallow box of four 3-inch boards making the box 14 inches long and 10 inches wide. On the bottom of this box nail 2-inch strips leaving a space of about 1-4 inch between each strip. However, old flower pots, particularly bulb pans, may be used. A hot bed or cold frame can also be used. However, during the hot summer you must be careful to provide shade for either a hot bed or cold frame.

Next, and most important, is the selection of the material that will be used in this special box.

Many gardeners and even florists have found that, for the majority of seeds, imported peat moss mixed with a little sand is superior to a soil mixture or compost because of the ideal moisture, oxygen and comparatively sterile conditions the peat moss provides. The common practice is to use one-third sand to two-thirds peat moss.

Whether the peat moss and sand is used alone or in mixture with soil, it is well to run the mixture through a small hand-screen of about one-quarter inch mesh, to get it absolutely fine and even. Moisten it thoroughly, turning it over several times in the process before putting it in the flats or seed pans in which the seed is to be sown. Many gardeners moisten the peat moss in advance until thoroughly damp before mixing it with the sand and with the soil.

Certain precautions, however, must be taken, where seeds are sown in flower pots or bulb pans. If they are new, soak them in water before filling them with the soil. Since they are very porous and dry they will absorb water quickly and, unless properly soaked, will draw the moisture out of the soil, drying out the seed bed which must be avoided. Knowing gardeners usually stand the pots on about one-inch of thoroughly moistened peat moss, which they keep uniformly moist. With this saturated layer beneath them the pots will draw up this supply rather than the supply of moisture in the soil with which they are filled.

Pieces of broken crockery, coarse gravel, coarse cinders, or a layer of the coarse material that would not pass through the screen should be spread from one-half inch to one inch deep over the bottom of the vessels to make doubly safe proper drainage. Now fill the pots, pans or flats to the top with the sifted germinating soil mixture and scrape it level with a ruler or any other type of straight-edge. Firm this seed bed by tamping it lightly with a brick or a small section of flat board, leaving one-half inch or slightly less of space between the surface and the top edge of the box or pan. See that the soil is tightly packed down at the corners. Mark off shallow, even rows the short way of the containers about two inches apart and then gently water until the soil is thoroughly moistened—wet to the bottom. Set aside to let the surface dry off somewhat before sowing the seed. Another way to water is to sow the seed and then place the vessel in a pan or tub of water, letting it soak up from beneath until the surface appears moist. This method gives the most thorough saturation possible, without the slightest danger of disturbing the surface, and washing out and covering up some of the seed. This method is advised for very fine seeds sown in pots.

If the seed used is extremely fine, it should be merely sown on the surface and pressed in, without being covered at all. Larger seeds, such as pansies, may be covered a fraction of an inch, barely from sight; still larger ones, one-quarter of an inch or so.

Glass placed over the seed box or pan, leaving a slight crack over one side to admit some air, will help to conserve the moisture, and to keep the soil moist, especially on the surface. The important fact about seed germination is not so much to keep the seed bed well watered as it is to prevent it from drying out. A few hours of dryness on the surface after the seeds have pushed through will kill the young sprouts. Too, alternate soaking and drying provides ideal conditions for many rot fungi and bacteria. It is best to keep the soil evenly moist at all times.

After the plants have become established in their second little home, the usual precautions must be taken before the danger period has definitely passed. The most trying time in

WHAT TO PLANT IN JULY.

LAWNS: Bermuda grass seed may still be planted, or the roots may be transplanted. Roll thoroughly after planting.

FLOWER SEEDS: There is still time to get flowers from the fast growing annuals, such as zinnias, marigolds, petunias and ageratum. Perennial flower seeds may be planted now for blossoms next year. These include pansies, hollyhocks, Canterbury bells, Shasta daisy, English daisy, foxgloves, Orientale poppies, candy tuft, etc. These should be started for best results in a cold frame.

VEGETABLE SEEDS: July is the accepted month for rutabagas and fall Irish potatoes, pumpkins, spinach, squash and Crowder peas. The early planters will begin to put in purple top turnips, beets and carrots and lettuce.

BEDDING PLANTS: These may be planted in July although it is a little hard to find them this late in the season.

a plant's life is just as the plant is breaking through the surface of the soil and for the first few days thereafter. The second and most trying time is at transplanting from the original seed bed to the little pots or cold frame.

Next week we want to discuss some of the perennials that are new and a little different and ones that some of us will want to try in our gardens this year for the first time.

and if it is mastered, should be a valuable element in the making of a "Grade A."

The author, Dr. Samuel Kahn, is also the author of "Sing Sing Criminals," "Mentality and Homosexuality," and of numerous psychological, sociological and medical articles. He has had extensive experiences with mental re-education in institutions and in private work, and his book is theoretically sound and practical.

The book has a good bibliography and a complete index and is interestingly written. The author believes that high school and college pupils who know how to study, are the best students, the happiest and the most efficient, that a good intelligence plus good health, a lack of emotional conflicts and a knowledge of how to study assures successful scholarship, recognition, happiness, a better personality and a better character.

Egyptian Classic.

NEVER TO DIE. By Josephine Mayer and Tom Prideaux. The Viking Press, New York. 224 pp. $3.50.

As the authors state, this work contains the record of "the Egyptians in their own words." With the one exception of Ikhnoton's Hymn to the Sun the literature of ancient Egypt is unfamiliar and rarely quoted. Perhaps for the reason that so little of it has come down to us out of its hoary past the impression of casual readers seems to be that it is of small value. The authors go much to correct this impression. In a novel arrangement that has much to recommend it they print a resume and running commentary on the immense history of Egypt side by side with its literary and pictorial output. Viewed in this fashion the history of the Nile valley acquires a new perspective. One gathers the impression of a people devoted to industry, to dignity and restraint, but withal imbued with a capacity for good living scarcely equalled by any people of history save the Greeks. The magnificent stupidity of pyramid building which dominates our concept of Egyptian civilization is seen to be a passing phase. It is difficult for this reader to agree with the authors in their enthusiasm for Egyptian art, apart from the art of letters, but their literary craftsmanship of 60 centuries ago is astounding. An admirable selection, housed in a large and ornate

Questions, Answers On Garden Subjects

By MRS. FLETCHER PEARSON CROWN

Question: What can I do for my roses—buds rot while half open, thereby destroying the blossom?

Answer: You may try controlling this condition by spraying with Bordeaux mixture every week. Many of the older roses have this trouble to a marked degree. If your climate does not agree with a variety, it causes this to happen. For this cause, there is no remedy, get rid of the ones so affected and get others that like your place. And I find that thrips can cause your buds to turn brown and dry up, and I do not know how to combat them on roses. For gladiolus thrip, we treat the corm before planting, then spray with Paris green while growing. Maybe the arsenate of lead in the Massey dust will be sufficient.

I wonder how many of you who heard me say to plant your godetia and clarkia in poor soil last spring at the garden school, remembered to do so? Well, I did. And I have had some lovely clarkia blossoms. They do not make much bush, but they are so covered with blossoms that it practically hides the stalk. For the first time I have godetias in bloom. I saw such lovely ones in France, but this is the first time that mine have done anything. I have them on a poor, dry hillside. I will dig ashes in, cinders, next fall, then they will do even better.

Don't forget to feed your azaleas now. Do not continue putting it off, for if you feed them too late they will not make any buds to bloom next spring. Then too, they will be more likely to winter kill if fed too late. Cut down your foxgloves, dry the seed and plant them for blooms next spring. Also save the seed from your hemerocallis and Japanese iris. As soon as they have ripened thoroughly, plant them. They will always make something worth having, and sometimes they will give you an outstanding variety. Keep all seed pods cut off of your plants. They will continue to bloom much longer, especially the annuals. I have just rooted as many sultanias as I need to give bloom in the shade all summer, also begonias. Plant some nicotianas in partial shade, they will stay open longer.

WHEN JUSTICE TRIUMPHED

I understood that he and his wife had each inherited a large sum of money, about $50,000 each.

"On November 1, while we were in various saloons drinking, Pete and I decided that we ought to make some money and Pete told me to call Johnny Travis and tell him to meet us. I called Johnny at his home at about 5:30 p. m. and told him I would meet him at Jefferson avenue and Fourteenth street."

After relating that he obtained his father's automobile on the pretense of going to Wayne county to see his cousin, Albert Ronk, who owed him $16.75, Booth went on to say that he met Travis on Madison avenue and picked up Adkins. He continued:

"We bought a pint of whisky and went down to Railroad avenue and Fourteenth street, where we began talking about various ways of securing money. Johnny suggested blowing a safe and if we were going to do something, let's do something we were sure of what we will get."

"I told Johnny and Pete that old man Seder was supposed to have received or inherited some money, and we agreed that he would be a good person to kidnap."

"We then had to think of a place where we were going to keep him, and I suggested a log cabin which is right at the head of Patrick, Gragston and White creek in Wayne county."

"We all agreed on our way to Seder's house at 2051 Eighth avenue, that I would go to the house itself, while Pete and Johnny would wait on a near-by corner. I went to the house after leaving Pete and Johnny out at Nineteenth street and Ninth avenue."

"The front door was open and the old man was sitting in the hallway. I forget exactly what I said to him, but whatever I said was used with the intent to have him come with me. He put on his hat and overcoat and carried his red cane with him. We came down the steps and both of us got into the front seat of my father's automobile, me driving."

"We drove to Nineteenth street and Ninth avenue, where Pete got in the front seat with us. I do not recall that any wire was placed on Seder's wrists; nor did I see any tarpaulin or anything else put over his head while we were riding from his house to the hideout near Wayne."

Dr. Seder, he said, asked repeatedly where he was being taken. It was not until they reached the shack that they told him he had been kidnaped. Since they had never returned, after leaving him in the mine, the aged minister had been without food and water for nine days.

In a third statement Booth said that he threw stones at the captive in the mine, striking him on the head, shoulders, arms and upper body. "I was of the opinion that Dr. Seder was either dead or dying at the time I left him," said the prisoner.

Booth, Travis and Adkins, it developed, were all ex-convicts on parole. Booth had been turned loose from the West Virginia pen in January, 1937, after serving but ten months of a five-year term for attempted rape of a 74-year-old woman.

Travis, a slight, blonde cripple, whose leg dragged from the effects of infantile paralysis when a child, had been sentenced to serve from 1 to 20 years in Ohio for automobile theft. He had been sentenced January 16, 1936, and gone free on parole July 1, 1937.

Adkins had just recently been paroled in Ohio after serving a few months for stealing an auto.

seized Travis at the home of his mother. (He had married Verla Belcher three days after the kidnaping, gone on a honeymoon trip to Burnwell, W. Va., and returned to Huntington on November 10.) Adkins was traced to the home of a relative in Canada, Ky., where a federal agent took him into custody.

Both promptly confessed, naming Booth as their leader.

They said that when they entered Wayne county with their captive, Booth wanted the boys to throw a burlap sack over Dr. Seder's head and tie his hands with wire. They refused to use the wire for fear it would cut his hands, and the sack was removed when he protested.

When they reached the abandoned cabin, Booth told them that a man he had hired to guard the minister had failed to show up. They placed Dr. Seder in a closet on some old coats and rags, then searched him, finding some change and the keys to his home. Was there any money in the house? He replied that there was about $25 on a shelf in the bedroom.

That night Booth and Adkins returned to Huntington, got the money and bedclothes, and started back for the cabin about midnight after stocking up on some sandwiches and a pint of whisky. Travis said that while they were gone he asked Dr. Seder to say a prayer for him "and he prayed an awful nice prayer for me." Then he had the minister write a ransom letter.

However, the captive started the letter, "I am held in a cave about 20 miles southwest of Wayne, W. Va.," so Booth tore it up when he returned with Adkins, and had Dr. Seder write another one, to be sent to the son in St. Paul. In this he wrote that he had been driven in a car all night but did not know where he was being held.

Just before dawn Booth decided to move Dr. Seder from the cabin to an abandoned mine where he had once been employed.

After they had placed him in the damp mine, Adkins and Travis started back to Huntington, with instructions from Booth to mail the letter and bring back some food. He planned to stay until Friday, he told them. Instead he himself rejoined them in town the next day, saying that he had killed the minister.

Prosecutor Ernest E. Winters announced that he would ask the death penalty for the trio under a new state kidnap law modeled after the so-called federal "Lindbergh Law." This statute called for the death penalty even though the kidnap victim might survive and regain his health.

But James Seder was destined not to survive his nine days' ordeal.

By November 14 pneumonia had set in, and paralysis had affected all his left side, the result of a blood clot on the brain, caused by a blow. Also, his nose had been broken, his right eardrum punctured. Attending physicians reported that there was no longer any hope of recovery. He died early the morning of the 15th.

The prisoners were hustled out of the county for safekeeping, and were returned a week later for their arraignment. Booth went on trial alone December 6, before Judge H. Clay Warth. His attorneys, F. W. Riggs and John G. Hudson, appointed by the court, held that he had been "mentally diseased" at the time of the abduction, and consequently not responsible.

The prosecution produced as a surprise witness Mrs. Ann Milton, 23, who had married the previous May, then separated from her husband and gone to live with Booth as his wife until two weeks before the kidnaping. She testified that Travis and Adkins had been frequent visitors, sometimes staying all night.

JURY CONVICTS IN 58 MINUTES.

Handwriting and fingerprint experts gave evidence damaging to the defendant, and alienists agreed that he was not insane. The jury took 58 minutes on December 11 to find him guilty as charged in the indictment. Judge Warth sentenced Booth on December 15, exactly one month after Dr. Seder's death.

Travis and Adkins went on trial December 13, being represented by Attorneys Jess Hammock and D. B. Daugherty, retained by their families. The defendants admitted the kidnaping, but declared that they were drunk, and had been easily led into the scheme. They told the jury that they had planned to liberate Dr. Seder on the second day after the abduction but got drunk and forgot about it.

The jury this time required only 42 minutes to convict.

Both defendants, who had hoped for a recommendation of mercy, were much distressed by the verdict. Travis wept so hard he had to be helped from the courtroom. Adkins broke down on the way back to jail. His pretty former sweetheart and Travis' bride of six weeks added their tears to those of the two mothers, Travis' father, and their brothers and sisters.

Judge Warth ordered the three kidnap-killers to die on the gallows at Moundsville on March 21. They died on schedule, first Adkins and Travis—because the scaffold accommodated only two—and then Booth.

Said Booth as he stood alone, with the rope around his neck:

"I would like to offer a little prayer. I want to ask God to bless those two boys who went before me. I want God to take the burden off my father's heart and comfort the mothers of those boys. I ask God to bless the warden and all the prison guards and pray to the Lord to receive me."

Sum-up to Sum-down

Rita Hayworth's shell pink bala picture hat, topping her pink chiffon frock.

HOPSACKING continues to take top honors in swank sportswear . . . There's a marvelous pattern to be had for culottes with a dirndl-gathered top . . . The birthstone for June is the pearl—in case you are feeling extravagant . . . Sweat shirts, but SUCH sweat shirts, in amazing shades, are a successful innovation for country club settings . . . A very fine, firm, almost opaque acetate lace in dusty shades will make a frock which refuses to dissolve in city heat . . . Get ready for the inevitable vogue for dead black hat and dress—it will arrive with the dogdays.

Impeccable, smart, comfortable—Lucille Ball's white gabardine slacks and jacket. Silk jersey shirt is navy blue, clodhopper cork and suede shoes, navy blue, too.

Wedding guests notice: Ann Doran and Jacqueline Wells in yellow wool and print silk; beige wool with silver nailheads.

SHAMBLES—Air view of the wreckage of the crack Milwaukee passenger train, Olympian, after it crashed through a bridge near Saugus, Mont., recently. It was one of the most disastrous railroad wrecks in history.

RUBBER-NECKERS—When Anne Lindsay Clark, Boston debutante, became Mrs. John Roosevelt last week, the grounds outside the church were lined with spectators. Above is a group craning their necks for a glimpse of the famous couple.

GOVERNOR E. D. RIVERS, right, of Georgia, and Governor George Earle, of Pennsylvania, examine one of the original field pieces at Valley Forge, Pa., after Rivers had addressed the 160th anniversary celebration of the evacuation of the historic spot by Washington.

SETS SERVICE RECORD — Affectionately known to his colleagues and fellow workers as "Uncle Bill," William M. Turner, foreman of the press room at The Atlanta Constitution, will observe his 60th anniversary of continuous service Tuesday. He is still active and has never had any other employment. This photo shows him as he appears today. (Elliott's)

COSTAL PLAINS EXPERIMENT STATION WORK SHOWS LARGE PROFIT IN LIVE STOCK FOR GEORGIA FARMERS

HERD: These pure-bred Hereford cattle thrive on white clover, lespedeza and Dallis and carpet grass, which have commanded attention in experiments at the station. The picture shows a white clover field.

See Story in News Section.

PURE-BRED POLLED HEREFORD: Animal Husbandman B. L. Southwell exhibits a pure-bred polled Hereford bull as farmers crowd the fence to hear of latest scientific breeding experiments in production of beef cattle at the Experiment Station.

STATION BOSS: S. H. Starr, director of the Coastal Plain Experiment Station, relates the advantages of white clover as a pasture crop. Note that the crop is planted among pines, thus while timber and naval stores products are produced a fine pasture is provided for grazing cattle.

HOWDY! A 13-day-old mule colt pushes his head through the fence to salute a 20-day-old Morgan colt. Both were bred in Experiment Station stables.

FRISKY: While their mothers work the fields, this pair of young mule colts race through pastures at the Experiment Station, which not only is developing the science of rearing mules for Georgia farms, but is developing a market in other states.

(Right) MRS. VERNON PRATT, young Covington matron, utilizes the spring board at Rainbow lake, near Covington, for her sun bath. (Slayton)

DISINHERITED FOR LOVE. Mrs. Rosemary Webster Gilson, bride of Paul Gilson, 23-year-old Canton county home clerk, whom she married in spite of the objections of her wealthy parents, Dr. David H. Webster, prominent New York physician and Mrs. Webster, who are said to have disinherited her.

"MISS GEORGIA" MEETS RHODODENDRON ROYALTY. Miss Elizabeth Mathis, of Americus, Ga., the official representative of Georgia at the annual Asheville, N. C., rhododendron festival held recently, receives a royal welcome from the festival's king and queen, Herman Nichols and Elizabeth Radeker.

NO MATTER WHAT YOU THINK, this isn't a picture of Deanna Durbin, the ingenue movie star. She is Melba Dodge, of Salt Lake City, Utah, and bears such a resemblance to the actress that she is literally mobbed by Durbin fans when she appears in public.

GLORIA AS THE GIRL GRADUATE—Long the center of a legal dispute between her aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, and her mother, Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt, little Gloria Vanderbilt, a finishing school graduate at 14, now divides her time between the two. She is shown with Mrs. Whitney at a society charity affair at Manhasset, L. I.

DEDICATION PERSONAGES—Grouped on the bridge leading to a tiny island in the fish pond on the lawn of Mountain Ranch hotel are some of the principal figures of the bridge dedication at Helen. Front row, left to right are: Mrs. J. H. Wilson, Augusta; Holmes and Wells; Holmes. Back row, left to right: Downing; Lusgrove, executive secretary of Governors' Rivers; Judge Frank Gabrels, ordinary and commissioner of Habersham county; Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, and John H. Moore, chairman of the Lumpkin county commission. (Wilson)

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

THE FORBIDDEN EMPIRE

INTO A STRANGE TOWN TARZAN WAS LED, THROUGH MYSTERIOUS STREETS TO THE PROVINCIAL PALACE OF THE EMPEROR.

THERE IN A VAST HALL THAT BORE WITNESS TO A SUPERB CULTURE, SAT SUN TAI, MONARCH AND SCHOLAR IN MAJESTIC SPLENDOR. THE EMPEROR LIFTED HIS EYES IN SURPRISE. NEVER HAD HE SEEN SUCH A CREATURE AS TARZAN.

THE APE-MAN'S CAPTORS FELL UPON THEIR KNEES IN OBEDIENCE TO THE AUGUST ONE.

BUT TARZAN REMAINED ERECT. THE MIGHTY LORD OF THE JUNGLE KNELT TO NO MAN.

UP SPRANG THE CAPTAIN OF THE GUARD AND SIGNALED TO TARZAN TO KNEEL.

THEN THE CAPTAIN RAISED HIS SWORD TO CLEAVE THE STRANGER WHO REFUSED HOMAGE TO THE ILLUSTRIOUS ONE.

BUT THE EMPEROR WITH AN INDULGENT SMILE WAVED THE OFFICER ASIDE AND BECKONED TARZAN TO HIM.

LIKE MANY CIVILIZED MEN, SUN TAI ADMIRER THIS STALWART CREATURE WHO WAS SO PLAINLY A BROTHER TO NATURE.

NOW THE GUARDS RELATE HOW TARZAN HAD CROSSED THE BARRIER OF BEASTS TO ENTER THE FORBIDDEN EMPIRE.

SUN TAI FROWNED. HE LIKED THIS BARBARIAN; YET, ACCORDING TO ANCIENT LAW, INTRUDERS MUST DIE!

MANY A TIME TARZAN HAD OUTWITTED SAVAGE CAPTORS, BUT COULD HIS JUNGLE ARTS COPE WITH THESE ENLIGHTENED MEN?

THE SUGAR YOU NEED FOR ENERGY

Fresh, pure SNOWDRIFT
gives you these Extra Values

Extra CREAMINESS

Snowdrift's light creaminess saves you time—makes cakes and biscuits lighter. Cake recipes say "cream the shortening." Snowdrift saves you much of this trouble, for Snowdrift is so creamy itself. Blends at once with the sugar. Creams smoothly through the cake batter. Cuts evenly into your biscuit dough. Depend on Snowdrift's extra creaminess for success every time.

Extra FRESHNESS

Snowdrift comes to you sealed in an airtight can... at the peak of freshness... with all its delicate flavor locked in. Never any of that "strong shortening" taste when you use Snowdrift. Snowdrift cakes, cookies, biscuits and pie-crust taste better... are better for you.

Extra DIGESTIBILITY

Snowdrift is so pure and wholesome, foods made with Snowdrift—or fried in it—are easy to digest. Cakes and pies your family love so much are good for them, when made with Snowdrift. Snowdrift is the shortening made entirely from choice, digestible vegetable oils. Make your favorite foods with Snowdrift and enjoy them.

Extra SAFETY IN FRYING

Snowdrift gives you an extra margin of safety in frying, because it holds high frying temperatures without smoking or burning. Snowdrift lets you "fry hot" for tender crust and delicious, digestible fried foods. Fry with Snowdrift—and enjoy all the fried foods you want.

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR SNOWDRIFT

THIS BEAUTIFUL SERVING SET Wm Rogers Silverplate

(AND ONE STRIP FROM SNOWDRIFT CAN)

You see gleaming serving sets like these in the movies—in smart shop windows, with expensive price tags. Now the Snowdrift people offer this new and exclusive set to you—at almost a give-away price. Made only for the friends of Snowdrift by the famous Rogers silversmiths—who guarantee this fine quality, heavy silverplate. This graceful Louisiana pattern will go beautifully with your own silverware. You will enjoy using it for serving salads and hot dishes. The fork is ideal for serving meats; the spoon for berries and hot vegetables. You will cherish this lovely, practical silverware for a lifetime. Send now for your set at this extraordinary bargain price of 50c. and one strip from your can of Snowdrift.

HERE'S HOW EASY IT IS TO GET YOUR SERVING SET

Tomorrow, ask your grocer for Snowdrift. Unwind the strip that locks in Snowdrift's freshness and goodness and cut the word "GOODNESS" from the strip. Mail this— together with 50c. (in coin, carefully wrapped)—and your name and address to Louisiana Silver Service, P. O. Box 239, Wallingford, Conn. (or to the Wesson Oil & Snowdrift People, New Orleans, La.). Your serving set will be mailed at once, postpaid, with guarantee of service and satisfaction.

Each serving set is carefully wrapped and makes an ideal present for weddings, anniversaries, or birthdays. You can get as many additional sets as you want, by mailing 50c. in coin and one Snowdrift strip for each set. With your Louisiana serving set, you will also receive a folder describing other beautiful pieces in this pattern that you may obtain under this same amazing money-saving offer.

BY BOB MOORE AND CARL PFEUFER

AT LAST, LITTLE MAN! I'LL SPLIT YOUR HEAD LIKE AN EGG!

AII!...LOOK!

③ TO THE PALACE QUICK, LUGOFF!...SOMETHING HAS DESTROYED THEIR DAM!

⑤ HARDLY HAVE THEY GAINED THE SAFETY OF THE PALACE, WHEN THE ROARING FLOOD BOILS DOWN UPON THE FEN KING AND HIS CRINGING FOLLOWERS, AND DAGMAR AND THEIR ENEMIES GO SCREAMING TO THEIR DOOM.

④ TAAL, DEAREST, YOU'RE NOT HURT! AND WE ARE SAVED!

INSIDE, TANIA...INSIDE!...WE'LL ALL BE SWEEP AWAY!

OFF THE RECORD by ED REED

"Whew! That was a close one!"

"I can't understand why something doesn't happen---this is exactly what they did in the movies!"

"Hello, Mal! It was a great fight---I'll be right home!"

"Great Scot, man! You've got an ingrowing nail!"

"Confound it, Officer, you can't expect her to read!"

TERRY and the Pirates

by MILTON CANIFF

WHEN THE CHINESE SOLDIERS AND THE LITTLE GIRL ARRIVE AT YURK'S HOUSE, THE MERCHANT SHOTS THE LIEUTENANT--THEN TURNS TO FIRE AT THE CHILD.... AT THAT MOMENT A SHELL FROM A BIG GUN OUTSIDE THE CITY HITS THE STRUCTURE... THE PROGRAM OF ANNIHILATION HAS BEGUN...

THAT'S AN INVADER'S SHELL! THEY AGREED NOT TO FIRE ON MY HOUSE! SOMETHING'S GONE WRONG!

HE STARTED TO SHOOT ME! BURMA! BURMA!

CONNIE!

HEAR THAT SHELL FIRE? THE JOINT'S BEING BOMBARDED!

IS TRULY SO!--MAYHAP GODS OF WAR AT LAST TURN WRATH ON VILLAIN YURK!

OOOH! BOOM BUST BONG IN BELFRY! BEST TO STEP BACK! DEBRIS MESSBE FALL!

POOR PAT'S RIGHT UNDER THAT GRATING! CONNIE! STOOP! DRAG HIM BACK!

OH! IT DROPPED THE GRATING ON HIM! PAT! PAT!

WHERE AM I?
